LONDON, Oct. 31.—Great Britain's first Labor Government is expected to leave office on Tuesday after it has wound up some pending routine affairs and has concluded an inquiry, begun today, into the mystery of the Zinovieff "sedition letter."

Former Premier Stanley Baldwin will then be summoned by the King to form a new Conservative Ministry, as a result of the sweeping victory of his party in Wednesday's elections.

With the results in eleven constituencies still to come, the strength of parties now is:

Conservatives, 406.
Labor, 150.
Liberals, 37.
Constitutionalists, 7.
Others, 4.

The present Conservative majority over all other parties combined is, therefore, 208.

The Conservatives have had a net gain of 156 seats, Labor a net loss of 41 and the Liberals a net loss of 112.

Order Inquiry on Zinovieff Letter.

A meeting of the Cabinet, at which Prime Minister MacDonald presided, was held at 10 Downing Street this morning. It lasted for nearly two hours and afterward an official statement was issued announcing that "among the subjects considered was the Zinovieff letter, and a committee was appointed to examine the question of its authenticity. The Cabinet adjourned until Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 4."

It was at first anticipated that as a result of today's Cabinet meeting Mr. MacDonald would tender the Ministry's resignation to the King at once, instead of waiting for the reassembling of Parliament. Although he has not yet done so, there is little reason to doubt that he will take this course after next Tuesday's Cabinet meeting.

At present there is no indication that the Labor Government will meet Parliament on Nov. 18, as was originally intended. The majority of the Cabinet members are agreed that conditions at this stage are entirely different from those which prevailed after the general election of a year ago, when Mr. Baldwin still remained the leader of the largest political party, and the Prime Minister has no desire to hamper his successor in getting through certain legislation which must be passed before the end of the year.

On Tuesday, therefore, the Cabinet will meet, in all probility for the last time, and Premier MacDonald probably will tender his resignation to the King at once. This will enable the new Prime Minister to form his Government and to meet Parliament on Nov. 18. The first few days of the session will be devoted to swearing in members, the election of a Speaker and general organization, and the House of Commons will not meet formally for the King's speech and ordinary business until the following week.

Altogether, the members of the new Ministry will have about three weeks in which to familiarize themselves with the work of the departments under this program, and this should be sufficient in view of the fact that many of the members of the new Cabinet probably will be returning to departments where they already have had experience.

Names Mentioned for Cabinet Posts.

It is taken for granted that if the King asks Mr. Baldwin to form a Ministry the invitation will be accepted, and there already is considerable speculation as to the men he will choose as his Ministerial colleagues. The expectations are that he will include among them some of the newer men who have not yet had experience of Cabinet office, but at present no selections have, of course, been made.

Before he left London this evening for a brief holiday, Mr. Baldwin declared that for forty-eight hours he intended to forget all about politics—a course which he recommended to the country as a whole after the strenuous exertions of the last month, with the exception that every Conservative vote would be needed where there are municipal elections tomorrow.

In the meantime, political experts are busy choosing Mr. Baldwin's Cabinet for him. Lord Cave, if his health permits, is mentioned as the future Lord Chancellor, and Lord Birkenhead may be taken back into the fold and receive the India Office.

The position of Winston Churchill, who has been first a Conservative and then a Liberal, and now returns to Parliament as a Constitutionalist adopted by the Conservative Party, is the subject of much discussion. It is thought he will receive an office—perhaps not at once—and that the Colonial Secretaryship may fall to him.

The question of the Chancellorship of the Exchequer may present some difficulty. It is likely that strong pressure

McCray, Ex-Indiana Governor, Edits Atlanta Prison Paper

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 31.—At the masthead of Good Words, published monthly at the Federal prison here "with the approval of the Department of Justice" and "dedicated to the welfare of the men in prison," appears the name of a new editor, W. T. McCray, former Governor of Indiana.

Appointment of the former Governor as editor is regarded as a promotion, his first assignment at the prison having been announced as that of a library clerk.

While Governor of Indiana McCray was convicted of using the mails to defraud. He resigned the day after conviction and twenty-four hours later was serving his sentence.

TWO HIGH OFFICERS IN SPANISH PRISONS

COUNTRY MORE RESTLESS

MADRID, Oct. 31.—General Berenguer, former Spanish High Commissioner in Morocco, has been condemned by the military authorities in Madrid to six months' confinement in the fortress of Guadelupe at Fuenterrabia. General Sarabia has been sentenced to a similar term of confinement in the fortress of San Marco at San Sebastian.

These punishments have been inflicted because the two Generals attended a dinner at the Palace Hotel, which was in reality a disguised political meeting and the first open demonstration against the military directory.

After the dinner Señors Alcala Zamora and Melquiades Alvarez both made speeches attacking the policy of the directory. The former stated the first thing to be considered was the good of the country rather than the political interests of its Administration.

Shouts of "Viva la republica!" were then raised, to which General Berenguer listened unmoved.

Don Melquiades Alvarez said movements such as the Primo de Rivera coup d'état were explicable at times, but that an impossible state of affairs arose when the exceptional régime was prolonged, as in the present case.

MADRID, Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—An official announcement given out today reads:

"Lieutenant General Damaso Berenguer was notified at his home this afternoon that the Captain General of Madrid had approved a sentence of six months' military confinement pronounced by a military court because of his attendance at a meeting of a political character. The same sentence was given to General Sarabia.

War and Politics Agitate Spain.

PORT-VENDRES, France, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—The political situation in Spain has become somewhat complicated since the departure for Morocco of General Primo de Rivera, the Premier, whose presence hitherto has caused a certain restraint to the turbulent spirits among the partisans of the civil régime.

Virtually all sections of the country are said to recognize that General Primo de Rivera, since his arrival at the scene of operations in Morocco, has been executing with rapidity the task which, it is generally conceded, should have been undertaken several years ago, namely, the abandonment of dozens of useless positions whose objects originally were to prevent raids by the followers of the bandit leader, Raisuli.

Although Raisuli for some time past has been on apparently friendly terms with Spain, the Moroccan positions, totaling several hundred, have been maintained at a heavy cost of lives and money. The Premier always favored their evacuation and took the first opportunity to put the plan into effect.

The first result of the evacuation scheme was a general rising of the tribesmen, many of whom were hereto-

BLAIR WILL INQUIRE INTO OBSTACLES HERE TO TAX PUBLICITY

Investigation Will Go Into Why Lists Are Held Up in Third Income District.

Commissioner Expresses Surprise That Any Collector Should Fail to Understand Ruling.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Obstruction in the Third Income Tax Collection District of New York City to the inspection of income tax payments opened to the public by the Bureau of Internal Revenue will be the subject of a special inquiry from headquarters here, it was learned tonight.

This development followed the receipt of reports from New York charging that obstacles had been placed in the way of those who wished to examine the lists to such an extent that an average of only about twenty names a day could be obtained. The office of Assistant Commissioner Nash made known today that there was no excuse on the part of a collector for refusing to open the lists to the public, a subject that came up in connection with a complaint that a collector at Cleveland had refused to allow inspection of the lists there.

Surprise was shown by officials that collectors anywhere had been unable to understand the ruling sent them by Commissioner David H. Blair of the Internal Revenue Bureau respecting the inspection of income tax payments.

"We made it just as plain as the English language could make it," Mr. Blair said tonight. "We have instructed all collectors and told them what the law is, as we understand it, and instructed them to comply with it. We expect every collector to carry out the law."

Some newspapers, it was reported to the Commissioner's office, have requested the collectors' offices to make up lists of those whose taxes amounted to more than $5,000. This, it was explained, is manifestly something that would be impossible for the heavily worked employes to undertake. It is possible that next year when the lists are made up they will be in duplicate, so that one will be available for public inspection, avoiding to some extent the difficulties that have been in the way so far.

The Department of Justice is continuing its study of the plans for bringing a test case to determine whether a newspaper has the right to print the income tax lists. So far, no decision has been reached as to the defendant in the action. Attorney General Stone departed for Boston tonight and may not return to Washington until the middle of next week. It is not believed that anything will be done prior to his return.

Indications now point to a test against only one newspaper, instead of two or three, as had been hinted in early discussions of the probable plans of the Attorney General. One case would serve the same ends as several, and, besides, save money for the Government. No particular advantage is seen in proceeding against more than one paper, it was pointed out today, when one would make possible a thorough test of the questions in dispute.

Just how the action, which is a criminal proceeding, will be started has not been decided.

Attorneys who have studied such legal problems think that the only way in which this case may be handled is by proceeding simply to enforce the penalty as provided by law, that is, Section 3167 of the Revised Statutes, which was cited by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue as forbidding the printing of the income tax lists. Any offense against the provision shall be a misdemeanor, according to the law, and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both. It is provided also that if the offender be an officer or employe of the United States, he shall be dismissed.

More Inquiries on Payments.

Individuals in increasing numbers applied yesterday to Collectors of Internal Revenue in the metropolitan area for permission to see the Government records of income tax payments. In the Second District in the Custom House the books were made available as heretofore, to the public, but in the First District, with its office in Brooklyn, and in the Third District, with its office

Cubans Will Elect Menocal or Machado President Today While Business Halts

HAVANA, Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—Business activities in Cuba will halt tomorrow while the electors decide whether the next President of the republic is t[illegible] former President Menocal or General [illegible]ardo Machado. By Presidential [illegible]e stores, factories and all kinds of business must be closed for the day, and only the sale of groceries, medicines and other necessities will be permitted. The sale of liquor is prohibited.

The campaign between General Machado, heading the Liberal ticket, and former President Menocal, nominee of the Conservative Party, has been a tense one. Several weeks ago it caused an armed clash in Camaguey, where a dozen men lost their lives and almost one hundred were wounded.

Since then, however, the situation has grown more quiet, and Government officials believe tomorrow will pass without violence. President Zayas has ordered that all police be held on duty, with troops at strategic points, and has placed a censorship on radio broadcasting.

Domestic issues have been to the fore in the campaign, both candidates urging reforms and promising better roads, schools, water supply and other public improvements.

The result of the election probably will not be known definitely for several weeks. The Liberal Party has more voters registered than the Conservatives, and in addition the popular party has endorsed Machado. General Menocal's friends, however, count on Liberal defections and maintain the Veterans and Patriots' Association vote will go to the Conservative candidate.

Prince of Wales Welcomed Home in England; He Says He Had a "Wonderful Holiday"

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The Prince of Wales received a cordial welcome when he landed today at Southampton from the steamship Olympic, and again at Waterloo Station when he reached London, but there was no attempt at giving him an official reception. The Mauretania, lying at Southampton pier, signaled him a welcome, and there was a large crowd as near the Olympic's berth as the police would allow. The Prince watched the scene, with pipe in his mouth, from the bridge while the ship was being moored, and then went to greet Admiral Sir Lionel Halsey, controller of his household, and Major Piers Legh, his equerry, who had gone to Southampton to meet him. General Seely, as Lord-Lieutenant of Hampshire, and Mayor W. Mouland of Southampton also extended official greetings.

The Prince posed for photographers and told them he had had one of the most wonderful times of his life.

"I have had a wonderful holiday," he said, "but I am, of course, glad to get home. It is always interesting and pleasant to travel, and there is a great deal to be learned on the other side of the Atlantic, where once again I have been shown the greatest possible kindness and hospitality."

Captain Allan Lascelles, who with Major Metcalfe, General Trotter and Sir Walter Peacock formed his suite, told reporters that though the voyage home had been rough the Prince had not felt the motion of the liner at all. He spent his days, as he always does aboard ship, in exercising in the gymnasium, swimming in the tank, playing squash rackets and shuffleboard. He danced every evening when the sea was smooth enough, one of his most frequent partners being Miss McGann, a Canadian girl, who was traveling with her mother.

He declined all ceremony, and on one occasion when he was sitting on deck and some one asked if "his Royal Highness" would not like a rug, he replied:

"Cut out your Royal Highness and don't make any fuss about me."

The Prince's arrival at Waterloo was quite without ceremony. A few hundred spectators were lined up within the station, but they had hardly time to see him before he had passed. As he got out of the train, looking bronzed and fit, a railroad official greeted him formally, and he met on the platform Peter C. Larkin, High Commissioner for Canada, whom he had last met in Canada.

"How did you get back so soon?" the Prince asked as he shook hands, and the High Commissioner introduced Colonel Hyde, a member of his staff. The Prince spoke briefly to him and then stepped into his automobile. A cheer was raised as the car got under way, but in three minutes from the time the train arrived the Prince was driving off to York House.

HYLAN, BY CITY RADIO, REPLIES TO O'RYAN

Scheduled for Budget Talk, He Devotes Time to Transit Commissioner's Charges.

CALLS HIM SWIVEL-TONGUED

Mayor Says Wilson and the Elder Roosevelt Were Called Demagogues in Their Day.

Mayor John F. Hylan, using the municipal radio broadcasting station WNYC, replied last evening to the radio address on "Hylanism" delivered on Thursday night by Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan. The Mayor had been scheduled at 8:30 P. M. for a radio talk from the city station on the budget. However, he employed the time to reply to the Transit Commissioner. The Mayor's address follows:

"O'Ryan of the Transit Commission got a load off his chest last night. I read the newspaper report of his radio address with astonishment and disgust. And that is the mud which O'Ryan evidently wanted me to sling over the people's radio. More rational things have come from inmates of insane asylums.

"He spoke of 'Hylanism,' a word coined by the Citizens Union, whose agents we threw out of the City Government. O'Ryan used many terms in reference to me. Public decorum would not permit me to refer to him in language which would be adequately descriptive of my opinion of him.

"He says I am a demagogue. Well, that is not a new cry. That is the cry that was raised from the beginning of time by all tyrants and interests against friends of the people. In the light of contemporary history it is quite a compliment to be called a demagogue. You must not forget that Woodrow Wilson, when he began proclaiming and applying the principles that human rights transcend property rights, which has become conservative, he, too, was called a demagogue, and when the elder Theodore Roosevelt embarked upon his trust-busting campaign of the traction interests, oil interests, tobacco interests, all unanimously agreed he was a demagogue. Today everybody recognizes the great services performed by these men.

Calls O'Ryan's Ideas Antiquated.

"O'Ryan speaks of the parks. Of course he represents antiquated notions. His vaporings are of centuries past. He doesn't want the park enjoyed by the poor people. He wants it a place for the rich, who have no children, and if they have children they have mansions and gigantic and enormous private parks of their own. He can't understand that it should be the right of the poor people to bring their children to the parks because perchance they have no control over their children throwing little pieces of paper over the parks.

"He doesn't like the look of Central Park on Monday morning. Now isn't that too bad! If mothers and their children get the only scrap of vacation which many of them ever get, through a visit to the park on Sunday, and there is the least evidence of that visit on Monday, the sensitive eye of O'Ryan is offended. Perhaps he wants the laborers to work all night so that when he drives through on Monday morning everything will be spick and span for O'Ryan on his way to his do-nothing job. The next thing we are likely to hear is a request from this individual that mothers stand at attention and salute him and that little babies shake their rattles at him as he sweeps by in glorious inconsequence.

"Perhaps he would like police to crowd the mothers and their children into patrol wagons. No doubt he would be as pleased with that spectacle as he apparently seems to be with congestion on the transit lines which a decent regard for his duty should compel him immediately to correct. I think a good many people would rather see a husky policeman get O'Ryan by the scruff of the neck before they would want to see a mother and her child bundled into a patrol wagon for accidentally dropping a piece of paper on the grass.

"O'Ryan got further ammunition from

SMITH WINS OVATION ON BROOKLYN TRIP

CITES "GROSS INSINCERITY"

Pillories Opponents for Albany Tactics on Schools, Transit and Bonus.

Addressing a large crowd of Brooklynites at Kismet Temple, Herkimer Street near Nostrand Avenue, last night, Governor Alfred E. Smith accused his Republican opponent, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, of insincerity in his public utterances during the campaign and his official acts while in the Legislature. It was the Governor's first appearance in Brooklyn in the present campaign and the crowd gave him an enthusiastic welcome. Kismet Temple was packed and 5,000 people outside heard the Governor through the radio amplifiers. The Governor's attacks on his rival were loudly cheered inside the hall and out.

"I lay the whole record of the present Democratic Administration not only in the executive and legislative departments, but in all of the Democratic State departments and State offices side by side with the record of any Republican Administration in the history of the State and I will leave it to the people to select a sincere, honest, straight-forward, intelligent administration as against a machine-bound, reckless handling of the State's business in favor of selfish interests as against all of the people of the State."

Commenting of what he termed was his opponent's desire to straddle on all questions, the Governor declared:

"No man should claim sincerity for himself who tries to be all thing to all people and conducts his campaign in such a manner as to lead the people who are listening to him in each place to believe that he is interested in them especially as against the rest of the State."

Roosevelt's Many Homes.

Referring to the fact that Colonel Roosevelt had mentioned many places as localities where he had lived, the Governor got a big laugh when he said:

"I have known some men of great wealth who have had a good many homes—but nobody in my experience has lived in as many places at the same time as Colonel Roosevelt apparently does. Last night in his whirlwind campaign around New York County, in which he made many speeches, but said very little, he declared that he was glad to be back in his old home at 132d Street and Lenox Avenue, at Eighty-third Street and Broadway—in the gas house district—at Second Avenue and Second Street—and he capped the climax when he declared himself back in his old home when he reached Oliver Street! Of course, I leave it to you just how sincere he was when he claimed all these places as his home. I only hope he won't try to vote from all of them."

During the course of his address the Governor was interrupted many times by applause, hand-clapping and cries of approval. He went on:

"On the question of sincerity," he asked, "Why does the Republican candidate continue his gross misstatements about my attitude to the public school system of our State? To whom is he appealing? Nothing in the record sustains what he says. On the other hand, the record and the testimony of leading educators throughout the State indicate that during my long public career I have been the steadfast friend of New York's public school system.

Republicans Beat School Bill.

"The Democratic Senate passed the Rural School bill at the request of the State Department of Education and the Republican Assembly defeated it by a strict party vote. In view of that I have a right to ask the question, Who is sincere and who is not sincere? The public record discloses that so far back as 1911, as leader of the Assembly, I fought for the Equal Pay bill for school teachers. It discloses also that all during my occupancy of the Governorship I took the lead in the fight for increased compensation for school teachers. In 1924 I signed the largest appropriations in the history of the State for public

DAVIS CONDEMNS HUGE REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN FUND

Cites Grundy Letters in Pennsylvania to Show "Give and You Will Receive" Spirit.

TELLS OF DEMOCRATIC GIFT

SPEAKS IN PUBLIC SCHOOL

Expresses Belief That Voters Won't Permit Wealth to Control Their Ballots.

John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for President, declared last night that the Republicans might "pour a golden stream in every doubtful State," but that he had faith the people would not be misled, and would vote for a return of honest government. He read the letters of Joseph R. Grundy, who raised $650,000 in Pennsylvania, and contrasted what he called the spirit of materialism which collected money from protected manufacturers with the spirit of idealism shown in the letter of a "gold star" mother who sent her dead son's insurance check to the Democratic campaign fund.

Mr. Davis made his charge and comparison in a speech in a public school at Ninth Avenue and Forty-seventh Street at a meeting under the direction of former State Senator Thomas J. McManus, one of the Tammany leaders of the Fifth Assembly district.

He read freely from the letters of Mr. Grundy, which already had been made public by testimony before the Borah investigating commitee. These letters urged Pennsylvanians to contribute to the Republican campaign fund on the ground that they had profited greatly under the Republican Administration. "Receive freely and give freely," Mr. Davis paraphrased the Scriptures in comment.

Reads Another Letter.

"I have another letter enclosing a check," he said. "The check is from the Treasurer of the United States paid through the Veterans' Bureau. The check is a small one, especially when contrasted with the $650,000 collected by Mr. Grundy. It is for $57.80, and the sender makes no mention of sacrifices, such as Mr. Grundy in his letters said he and subscribers for his fund were making for the Republican Party.

Sir:
I enclose the insurance check of my dead son toward the fund for Mr. Davis's campaign. He would have sent it. MRS. JESSIE H. BLACK.

"I don't know what you would choose," Mr. Davis said in comment, "but I would choose that check, small as it may be, against all the money that could be collected from protected manufacturers and possessors of privilege to preserve their power to plunder their fellow-citizens.

Caustic Over Grundy Letters.

Mr. Davis devoted considerable attention to Mr. Grundy's letters, with caustic comment upon some of the statements contained in them.

"Pennsylvania is safe," he read from one of the Grundy letters. "We don't need money here, but out of Pennsylvania, because we have profited under this Administration by the law as it wrote it, we must collect a fund to be sent out in other States and spent in the election of Republican electors and Congressmen."

"That letter of Oct. 2 did not seem to have brought enough answers," Mr. Davis said, "so here is a follow-up of Oct. 10. I don't know whether the letter is green or blue, but when I read it you will conclude that the signer was even bluer than the paper he wrote on."

Mr. Davis then read this letter as follows:

"Several letters have been sent to you emphasizing some of the issues of this campaign. Pennsylvanians have too much at stake to be indifferent. Our thirty-eight electoral votes may be safe for Coolidge and Dawes, but our money and energy must be given to carry not our own State, to mind not our own business, but to carry doubtful States and doubtful Congressional districts—for all I know, yours.

"The Republican National Committee

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The radio "hook-up" by which President Coolidge will make his final address next Monday night, also will carry a speech by John W. Davis, plans having been completed by telephone officials to make facilities available to the Democratic candidate on the same night, but at a different hour. Mr. Davis will begin his address at 9:15 P. M., Eastern Standard Time, and President Coolidge will follow immediately thereafter. The Democratic candidate will talk from New York, while the President's speech will be broadcast from the White House.

Twenty-three stations will be hooked up in the chain, extending from coast to coast, and radio experts expect the two candidates to reach the largest audience ever to hear an address.

The presence of two major Presidential candidates on the same platform, figuratively, and on the eve of an election, likewise will mark an epoch in political campaigning.

PRINTING COUNCILS COME OUT FOR DAVIS

3D PARTY CIRCLES STIRRED

The swing of New York labor organizations from Senator La Follette to John W. Davis continued yesterday with endorsements of the Democratic candidate for President by the officers of the New York City Allied Printing Trades Council and the New York State Printing Trades Council.

At the same time, however, Third Party managers and labor leaders affiliated with the Central Trades and Labor Council of Greater New York questioned the legality of Thursday's action by the Executive Council of that body, rescinding its endorsement of Senator La Follette and switching to John W. Davis. This action was called a "Tammany trick," and it was even charged by the Rev. Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for Governor, that he had heard rumors of a Christmas pardon for Robert P. Brindell, convicted labor leader, in return for the recent endorsement of Davis and Smith by the Building Trades Council.

The Printing Trades Councils, State and city, unlike the Central Trades and Labor Council, had not previously endorsed a candidate. The City Printing Trades Council has a membership of 30,000. According to the Davis managers, the swing of organized labor here to Mr. Davis is typical of the drift throughout the country.

Statement Issued by Council.

In announcing the endorsement of Mr. Davis, the officers of the New York City Allied Printing Trades Council said:

"The enemies of organized labor are well known. No member of organized labor in his right senses would think of voting for Coolidge or Dawes. By this time it is plainly evident that a vote for La Follette means a half vote for Dawes, the arch-enemy of organized labor, and his running mate, Coolidge.

"It is now clearly established that La Follette cannot win. We believe that John W. Davis can and will win, and we heartily endorse his candidacy, and we urge all our members and all the true friends of organized labor not only to vote for John W. Davis but to work earnestly and intelligently in his behalf.

"This decision on our part is not lightly arrived at. We have studied closely the record and the utterances of Mr. Davis. His record in Congress and as Solicitor General is one that all working men and women can well feel proud of. The recent decision of the United States Supreme Court upholding that provision of the Clayton Anti-Trust act which provides for a trial by jury in the case of labor leaders being cited for contempt calls attention to one of the brilliant performances in Mr. Davis's career. If he never did anything else, that alone should gain for him the support of all our members. It was Mr. Davis who wrote that section of the Clayton Anti-Trust act and who battled so steadfastly to uphold its constitutionality.

Speech of Acceptance Approved.

"We have studied Mr. Davis's declaration on labor problems as embodied in his speech of acceptance and we recommend that all members of organized labor read it and accept it as a promise honestly made and one which we believe will be honestly fulfilled.

"The courageous attitude of Mr. Davis

Cruiser to Search Sea for Missing Sloop; Lief Ericsson, a 40-Footer, 42 Days Overdue

The cruiser Trenton, at anchor in North River off Eighty-sixth Street, will leave, probably today, to sweep the North Atlantic for the missing forty-foot sloop Lief Ericsson. The craft, with William Washburn Nutting as commander, Arthur Hildebrand, writer, and Eric Todahl, marine painter, among those aboard, was last reported out of Julianshaab, Greenland, on Sept. 8. It is overdue at Battle Harbor, Labrador, forty-two days. The sloop left Bergen, Norway, last July to follow the Viking trail by which Lief Ericsson "blundered upon America."

Sailing orders for the Trenton were received here yesterday from Admiral Eberle, Chief of Naval Operations in Washington, by Rear Admiral George W. Williams, commanding the destroyer squadron of the scouting fleet. The cruiser, it was understood last night, would weigh anchor as soon as Captain Edward C. Kalbfus, commanding, had had a final conference with Commodore Martin S. Kattenhorn and other officials of the Cruising Club of New York, upon whose application search for the missing mariners was started by the Navy Department.

Commodore Kattenhorn said at his home in New Rochelle last night that the last direct word from the Lief Ericsson had been in postcards and letters received here by the families of Mr. Nutting and his associates. Mr. Nutting was former editor of Motor Boat here. The communications came from Reykjavik, Iceland, just as the frail yacht was leaving for Greenland on the beginning of the most hazardous leg of the voyage.

While nothing further was heard from the yachtsmen themselves, the Cruising Club received word indirectly that the party had cleared Julianshaab, which indicated the boat had safely crossed the bad water below Denmark Strait and had rounded Cape Farewell. Julianshaab, a maritime station of 2,500 population, is 110 miles above Cape Farewell, on the southwest coast of Greenland, and is pounded by the stormy waters of Davis Strait, which lay between the adventurers and Battle Harbor.

Commodore Nutting was considered a capable amateur yachtsman, in 1920 having sailed the 45-foot ketch-rigged yacht Typhoon across the Atlantic and back, arriving here in November, ten days overdue because of head winds.

LEGISLATIVE DATA SOUGHT

Senator Borah Hopes to Get More Stringent Laws as Result of the Investigation.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—Contributions to the Republican campaign fund made through the National Committee aggregated $3,742,962 at the close of business last night, according to an official report presented today to Chairman Borah of the Senate Campaign Fund Investigating Committee, by William V. Hodges, the Republican National Treasurer.

Of the total $2,942,962 was retained by the National Committee, the report showed, while the remainder, $800,038, was returned to Republican organizations in certain States for which Mr. Hodges has testified the National Committee acted as a collection agency.

This compares with expenditures to Oct. 25 of $725,000 and contributions of $552,368 reported today by the Democratic National Committee to the clerk of the House of Representatives and to expenditures to Oct. 25 of $157,122 and to contributions of $171,821, as reported yesterday by the La Follette organization.

In the five days from Oct. 25 to Oct. 30 the committee received an aggregate of $575,753, of which $264,119 was sent back to those States where contributions were made directly through the National Committee and not to the State organizations. The contributions came from 21,761 contributors.

Butler Extols Economical Campaign.

Chairman Butler of the Republican National Committee in a statement tonight declared that the Republicans had kept within their announced budget of $3,000,000 and that this amount was small when expenditures in other campaigns were considered and when it was realized that there were 51,000,000 American voters to reach. He declared that the campaign had been conducted economically and that he hoped to end it without a deficit.

Responding to a specific request for a report on collections in Illinois and New York during the five-day period, Mr. Hodges said no sums applicable to the budgets of the National Committee had been collected in Illinois, but that $33,951 had been received as the collecting agency for the State to which the money was returned.

Collections in New York from Oct. 25 to Oct. 29 and applicable to the National Committee budget aggregated $5,015, while collections as agency for the State to which the money was returned aggregated $113,504. Mr. Hodges reported that the New York figures for Oct. 30 were not available.

Chairman Borah has called upon the Democratic and Progressive national political organizations for reports as of yesterday for the whole country with a view to their publication before election day. They are to be furnished to the committee at Washington.

Mr. Hodges's report was supplied after the Chicago end of the inquiry had been closed with the examination of three additional witnesses. In adjourning the hearings Senator Borah said there would be a further inquiry after the election.

Borah Proposes New Legislation.

"And after the political consequences of the investigation have been dissipated," he said, "I think we can get at such facts as will be available to legislate on this subject in an intelligent way."

The mysterious story told by two Chicago men came in for further discussion today, but without the lifting in any way of the veil of secrecy that has surrounded it since it first was brought to the attention of the committee ten days ago by Samuel Untermyer, New York attorney, who has been assisting in prosecuting the inquiry.

Chairman Borah said that perhaps his statement of yesterday that the committee had not given much credence to the "supposed evidence" of the Chicago story "was broader than it should have been."

"The attitude of the committee," he said, "has been this: that so far the showing has not been such as the committee would be willing to assume the responsibility for the introduction of the evidence. There is an element of doubt about it, which the committee felt ought to be clarified and supported before it would assume the responsibility.

"What it may ultimately show the committee at this time does not attempt to say nor intimate. It will be followed up as thoroughly as we can do so in the future and, therefore, the committee reserved its judgment until all of the facts can be ascertained or presented to the committee."

In informing the committee that there was such a story, Mr. Untermyer said that if corroborated it might have a "profound effect" upon the Republican campaign. He said then that he would not take the responsibility for making it public unless it were substantiated, and he reiterated that today.

Borah Commends Counsel.

Chairman Borah told counsel that the matter had been presented in "as careful and considerate a way as a matter of that kind could be," and he added:

"I say that no inference should be drawn against any party, political or individual, in regard to it until the evidence is developed."

Leaving this subject Mr. Untermyer said of the whole inquiry that "we feel that we have just about scratched the surface, and that we shall require, for instance, from the different State and Congressional and Senatorial committee heads and others a vast amount of data before we can determine what has really been spent by any of the political parties in this campaign."

"The Republican National Committee," broke in Weymouth Kirkland, counsel for that committee, "feels that they have not produced any evidence to sustain the charges made by Mr. Walsh [Frank P. Walsh, counsel for Senator La Follette] in Chicago when this committee convened."

"I do not agree with that," returned Mr. Untermyer. "I think it is a matter of inference and argument."

"We think it is more than a matter of inference," retorted Kirkland. "It is a matter of fact."

Contributions by States.

Only three witnesses were heard at the concluding session of the Chicago section of the committee. Mr. Hodges presented figures showing returns made to various States by the Republican National Committee on account of collections made in those States as agency for the State organizations. The States and the figures, as of Oct. 24, follow:

George Barr Baker, director of publicity for the Republican Committee, testified that the committee had had no hand in placing various advertisements in newspapers and magazines supporting the Republican ticket. He charged that the Democratic National Committee had spent large sums in advertising.

The other witness, F. W. Sargent, general counsel for the Chicago & Northwestern Railway, testified that he personally was responsible for sending out along the Northwestern lines literature attacking La Follette and opposing Government ownership of the railroads. He added that he had had some difficulty with officials of the road about the matter and would have to pay the bills out of his personal account.

Text of the Butler Statement.

Mr. Butler in his statement said:

"Men and women of America interested in Republican success on next Tuesday have a right to know about the kind of a campaign we have conducted. It is my aim to give them such a report.

"A Senate committee has been investigating campaign contributions and expenditures, and, as is common in such inquiries, wide circulation has been given to unsupported allegations.

"I want the American people to know the facts.

"Shortly after the convention we attempted to establish budgets. It was fixed at $3,000,000 and the expenditures of the committee will not vary materially from that amount. We desire that there should be no deficit. Our collections for purposes of the campaign conducted by the Republican National Committee have been $2,942,963.56. We have also collected in addition thereto certain amounts in several States, which have been returned to those States.

"This amount has been contributed by more than 50,000 men and women of the United States. The amount collected and to be expended is small in comparison with some previous Presidential campaigns. It is small when we consider the fact that there are nearly 55,000,000 persons eligible to vote. To reach the vast population of the United States is an expensive undertaking.

"We have conducted an economical campaign. We have guarded against extravagance. We have done those things necessary to carry our message to the voter. We have tried to run a business-like campaign. Records of all contributions and all expenditures have been kept. They have been audited by certified public accountants.

"We are winding up this campaign conscious of the fact that no promises have been made for the distribution of patronage. We have given to the American people our side of the case. We have tried to tell them why we believe the election of Calvin Coolidge will mean continued prosperity. We have conducted a clean campaign. We have done those things necessary to present our case to the public.

"There probably will be no deficit, but there are bills at this time which are not all in. We want to be sure. We also would like to end the campaign with a reasonable surplus so that we can truthfully say that the Republican National Committee will make no solicitations for money for a period of two years. Such an ending of this campaign in its financial aspect would be pleasing to the Republicans of the country. There are only a few days left, but there is still time for those who have not contributed to send in their contributions. We shall be glad to receive money from any Republican, no matter how small the amount."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The contributions and activities of the American Federation of Labor toward the election of Senator La Follette were inquired into today by the Washington section of the Senate committee investigating campaign funds. It was shown that $125,000 had been collected in the Washington headquarters of the La Follette party, under the leadership of William H. Johnston, head of the Conference for Progressive Political Action and President of the International Association of Machinists. Frank Morrison, Secretary of the American Federation of Labor, testified that the federation had raised $23,736 for the La Follette fund and had spent $20,000. Sidney Hillman, head of the Amalgamated Garment Workers of New York, said he had raised $18,020, and Alexander Kahn, editor of The Forward, declared his collections amounted to $20,000. Both these latter sums were sen to H. L. Brunson, assistant financial director of the National Progressive Committee, another witness. Still another witness was Edward Keating, editor of Labor.

Joseph R. Grundy, Republican collector in Pennsylvania, recalled to testify as to his later activities, declared that the $375,000 he had previously reported had now grown to $521,000, thus increasing the Pennsylvania fund, including the W. L. Mellon fund in Pittsburgh, to $791,000. He added that he was still collecting and doing his "darnedest."

At the conclusion of today's hearings a recess was taken until after the election. Senator Caraway said tonight that he did not expect the hearings to be resumed for two weeks, although this lay with Senator Borah, who is on his way from Chicago and arrives tomorrow. It is not believed here that future sessions will be long, the general belief being that the inquiry is about wound up, except for a few days, when efforts will be made to find out the full sums spent by the several parties.

There are many witnesses yet under subpoena, but all were excused until after the recess. Frank P. Walsh, the La Follette counsel, said he still had thirty men called, none of whom had responded, and that with the exception of two witnesses, all those so far heard had been "hostile" to the La Follette interests.

Coincident with the closing of the hearings, it was stated at the White House that President Coolidge believes that the Republican National Committee has complied with the "spirit of the budget" and has not expended beyond the money actually in hand or known to be pledged.

Prominent party men expected here from New York failed to show up. Norman H. Davis and Jesse Jones, financial director of the Democratic Party, telegraphed that they never heard of a proposal to underwrite the Democratic expenses. William Muldoon telegraphed that he was out of town when the summons for him arrived. William MacCormack was not reached and Charles A. Stoneham, the other man expected to testify regarding the alleged diversion of $80,000 from the Dempsey-Firpo fight, did not reply. The committee made no further endeavor to call George K. Morris, Republican State Chairman in New York, and nothing further was done about questioning Judge Olvany, leader of Tammany, and Arthur Garfield Hays, New York manager of the La Follette campaign.

Asks About Gift From Riga.

The hearings dragged today, lacking to a marked degree the interest that had characterized them. At one time the spectators turned attentive ears, when Mr. Walsh spoke of "an extremely important matter" for which he wished the hearing extended until tomorrow. Senator Caraway refused this request, and it was learned that the promised sensation would probably never be sprung.

Another incident that enlivened the day came when Mr. Walsh asked Mr. Brunson:

"Did you see in the Republican contributions a gift of $250 from F. W. B. Coleman of Riga, Russia?" "I believe," added Mr. Walsh "that this is the only contribution from Russia to any party."

"I noticed it," replied Mr. Brunson, "because I had heard so much about money coming to the La Follette cause from Russia through Mexico."

The $23,736 raised by American Federation of Labor, of which $20,000 had gone to printing and mailing 3,000,000 pamphlets, was a voluntary contribution, Frank Morrison explained to the committee at the beginning of the hearing.

"I notice in The New York Times that organized labor there had withdrawn its support of La Follette and endorsed Davis," suggested Senator Caraway.

"Well, would a committee of the House have the right to withdraw the action of the House," replied Mr. Morrison. "The control body in New York endorsed our action at Atlantic City. The Executive Board of the central body took the action you allude to."

In answer to Mr. Bourland, Mr. Morrison denied that the A. F. of L. had endeavored to coerce any of its subsidiaries into support of Mr. La Follette, and also denied that the organization would ask the New Yorkers to rescind their advocacy of Mr. Davis.

"We are not going to say anything about it; the matter rests with their own conscience," he declared.

Mr. Morrison said that there was great unemployment among the workers, the situation in the textile industry being "bad."

Mr. Bourland developed that circulars asking contributions to a non-partisan political fund had been sent to 32,000 unions. He asked if Mr. Morrison had correctly stated that labor unions as such were not solicited. The witness answered in the affirmative. Mr. Morrison said that contributors were asked to give as generously as they could, but "we did not expect anything but small contributions."

Denies Canadian Unions Gave.

Mr. Bourland tried to develop if Canadian unions, which are parts of internationals, were asked to give money.

Mr. Morrison said this had not been done.

"Didn't you actually appeal to the Canadian unions?"

"No. Instructions were against it."

Passing to the Clayton act, Mr. Bourland asked Mr. Morrison if he knew this statute had been declared constitutional by the Supreme Court. Mr. Morrison indicated he did not know this. Mr. Bourland then inquired if Mr. Morrison was not aware that a secondary boycott had been illegal by the courts.

Mr. Morrison, without going into the question of what he knew about the findings of the courts, defended the secondary boycott.

Mr. Bourland started to speak of a trucking company strike where a secondary boycott was carried on. Mr. Walsh broke in with:

"If we are going into crimes, I have a number of instances."

"The witness can take care of himself," Senator Caraway cautioned. "I cannot see that the sustaining of the Clayton act by the Supreme Court has anything to do with this inquiry, but if you wish to try to show, Mr. Bourland, this has actuated support of Mr. La Follette by labor, you may do so."

"Is it not a fact that if the Clayton act is constructed as you wish it by the Progressive Party, you would expect financial advantages to the American Federation of Labor?" asked Mr. Bourland, who wished to show that if the act were held illegal the worker would benefit by the fact that there would be no ban against strikes.

"We want the Judges of the Supreme Court elected by the people," was the answer. "We think that Judges are now appointed in view of the decisions they have rendered. President Harding appointed four. I presume he had the advice of the Attorney General, but the last word on the appointment was one man's.

Reading from Labor the headline, "Alaska Railway Boys Give Dollars to Send Bob to the White House," Mr. Bourland asked if the A. F. of L. solicited "Government employes" of the Alaska Railway to contribute.

"I suppose they read about the election," Mr. Morrison replied.

Asked if he knew of orders being sent to the railway clerks to organize in eight counties, he disclaimed knowledge of this.

Says Federation Has $230,000.

Mr. Morrison declared that the A. F. of L. had $230,000 in its treasury.

"The A. F. of L. is not any more in this campaign than it has been in years," he added. "It is conducting a non-partisan campaign."

"Do you know of coercive methods to make workers cease working for the Coolidge ticket?"

"No."

"Have any promises been made to you by La Follette and Wheeler on labor policies?"

Mr. Walsh took up the examination, Mr. Morrison declaring that the $23,736 raised was purely for non-partisan purposes.

"It's an absolute falsehood to say the American Federation of Labor contributed anything, isn't it?" he asked.

"Yes; the American Federation of Labor gave nothing."

Labor, so Mr. Keating, editor of that publication, said, is a newspaper owned by the railway unions. Some one inquired about its charter.

"If it's like the kind of newspaper I tried to run one time, it wouldn't need any charter," put in Senator Caraway.

The great labor organizations subscribed for their entire membership, Mr. Keating asserted, this being 200,000 subscriptions and approximately half of the total circulation. On Oct. 5 a "victory edition" in behalf of Senator La Follette was published, 2,500,000 copies being sent out.

Questioned on Labor Action Here.

Mr. Bourland asked Mr. Keating about the action of the labor men in New York in swinging to John W. Davis.

"I don't think you have any evidence that, as you say, one-fifth of the American Federation of Labor in New York had done that," Mr. Keating replied. "I'd have to see the facts."

Asked why he advised workers to participate in the Literary Digest straw ballot and vote for La Follette, the witness said:

"We had definite information that Republican Postmasters were to fill in Literary Digest cards."

Mr. Brunson testified that $124,399.30 had been collected with practically no expense for the work, $99,399.30 of the money being taken in before Oct. 20. He said $21,500 had been sent to Chicago, $13,000 spent for publicity, $29,588 for a "general campaign" and $984 for the woman's division. The $13,000 was used, he said, for "educational matter for the people who don't know the political intrigues."

"Didn't you instruct people to keep money from the sale of campaign buttons and use it at the polls?" asked Mr. Bourland.

"No. I wrote to outraged and impoverished miners in West Virginia to reserve the money from the sale of some buttons and use it to the best advantage."

Alexander Kahn, editor of The Forward, who followed Mr. Brunson, stated that he had raised $20,000 so far, and had sent $17,000 to Mr. Brunson. He said that The Forward was a labor and Socialist paper and was a "membership corporation," specifically allowed under its charter to use funds for political or civic purposes. He was present at a meeting of Jewish workers and Socialists July 25, but when Mr. Bourland asked if $500,000 was not pledged at that meeting to the La Follette cause, Mr. Kahn said no pledge was made.

Sidney Hillman, President of the Amalgamated Garment Workers, stated that he had collected $18,020, of which $5,000 had gone to the Washington headquarters of the La Follette party, $2,000 to Chicago, $2,000 to New York, and $9,000 was in the treasury but would be distributed. No expense was involved in the collection of the funds, as the machinery of the union was employed. Mr. Bourland developed the fact that Mr. Hillman was an incorporator of the Russian-American Industrial Association, and insinuated that this was aided by Soviet sources. Mr. Hillman said the association had given nothing to the La Follette cause.

MRS. RICHTER GIVES $5,000 TO THIRD PARTY

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Mrs. Irene Richter of New York, daughter of Samuel Untermyer, has made a contribution of $5,000 to the La Follette-Wheeler campaign fund. In a letter accompanying the gift, Mrs. Richter wrote that her mother had been an admirer of Senator La Follette, and that before her death this year she had expressed a desire to make a contribution to the cause of the Third Party candidate for President. Mrs. Richter's letter, which was addressed to Senator La Follette, follows:

1,075 Park Avenue, New York City, N. Y. Oct. 6, 1924.

My dear Senator:

Enclosed you will find my check for $5,000 as a contribution toward the expenses of your campaign. This contribution I am making in memory of my mother, Mrs. Samuel Untermyer, who died recently after a long illness.

My mother was for many years—and never more so than at the time of her death—one of your most enthusiastic champions and followed your career closely. She particularly admired your courage and consistency in public life. For many years, and up to the time of her death, she was a regular annual subscriber of your magazine.

Although my father is and was then actively supporting Mr. Davis, my mother, consistent with the freedom of political opinion that has prevailed in our household, shortly before she died, expressed the wish that she might contribute to your campaign. I know that if she were living she would do so, and I feel that in sending you the enclosed I am merely respecting a wish that was very dear to her.

My father is also, and has long been, an admirer of yours, and is in agreement with much of your program. There are, however, some of your policies with which he is not in accord, and he believes also that in this election the common enemy of progressiveness can be most effectively overthrown by voting for Mr. Davis.

Will you please, therefore, enter this contribution, "by Irene Richter, in memory of her mother."

Very truly yours,
IRENE RICHTER.

Mrs. Richter's letter was introduced as evidence today before the Senate committee, which is inquiring into campaign contributions.

FEARS FRAUDS UP STATE.

Pell Says Registration Increased Though Population Fell.

Herbert C. Pell Jr., Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, declared yesterday that the registration in many up-State counties was abnormal and announced his intention of prosecuting any violation of the election law, either by fraudulent voting or a dishonest count.

"The election of Governor Smith and the entire Democratic ticket is now assured," Mr. Pell said, "and as Chairman of the Democratic State Committee I intend to see that the will of the people is not set aside by any dishonest count of the ballots.

"Thirty-eight counties, mostly strongly Republican, had a loss in population according to the most recent census report; thirty-four of these, however, show an increase in registration. The registration books in Putnam County show more eligible voters than the census report shows adult human beings. Rockland County, with a decrease in population of 140 between 1915 and 1920, shows an increased registration of 5,800. Orleans, with a decrease of 5,300 in population, shows an increase of 400 in registration. Oswego County, with a decrease of 4,000 in population, shows an increase of 300 in registration.

HONESTY REAL ISSUE, SAYS JOHN W. DAVIS

Renews Pledges of Responsible Government and Progressive Legislation if Elected.

ASSAILS REPUBLICAN BOGY

By WILLIAM H. CRAWFORD.

In a statement given to The New York Times, John W. Davis declares that principles, not personalities, are the real issues of the campaign and promises that following his election the Democrats, after March 4, will assure the country honesty in government, a just tariff, progressive legislation, the disappearance of discontent and a foreign policy that will put America in the front rank of the nations working to outlaw war.

"The real issue, which the few Republican spokesmen who have attempted to discuss the facts in this campaign have evaded, is not personality but principles," said Mr. Davis.

"The record and program of the two dominant parties are exactly what will be passed upon—and all that will be—by the people of the United States on next Tuesday. Today the spokesmen for the Administration at Washington admit they cannot appeal for the votes on its past record. Now they raise straw bogymen with a frantic hope that, inasmuch as reason cannot prevail, they can appeal to fright. Two members of the President's Cabinet have recently said: 'The choice before the people is Mr. Coolidge or Governor Bryan.' How ridiculous that all is! Would they make such ridiculous assertions were they not faced with inevitable defeat? In the vain hope of defeating the Democracy they make the panicky suggestion that the issue is between Mr. Coolidge and Governor Bryan. That is too ridiculous even to consider.

Calls Honesty the Real Issue.

"The real issue is honesty in government.

"Every one knows that the Republicans have refrained from mentioning Teapot Dome, the Veterans' Bureau, the indefensible aspects of their tariff grab, their class favoritism and their effort so to amend the Income Tax law that the burden would be put on the smaller rather than the larger taxpayers. Were the issue Mr. Coolidge and Governor Bryan, it would be easy to point out that as the Executive of a great State the latter has directed a business Administration which must stand sharply out of line in contrast with the suggestion of the men who assail him.

"Straw issues, straw votes and straw menaces are in no way convincing to the intelligent electorate of America. The American people will not be stampeded by appeals to passion. It was the Republican Party which created Senator La Follette and the revolt headed by him. It was the maladministration in Washington during the last four years which compelled this great split in the Republican Party.

"Naturally a vote of lack of confidence will come next week. It is what is to be expected from the developments which followed the parade of the best minds down Pennsylvania Avenue on March 4, 1920. Of course, every one knows that Senator La Follette cannot possibly win a majority in the Electoral College. All intelligent voters know that our prosperity is jeopardized by the loss of confidence which has come from the abuses and weaknesses of this Administration. They also fully realize that to restore confidence in this Government is of vital importance, and that in order to do this they must put into power the party which has never failed them during its more than a century of existence.

Democratic Party Not Split.

"The Democratic Party never has split and never will split on sectional lines. It draws its strength equally and without sectional favoritism from North, South, East and West. This election cannot be thrown into Congress unless a majority of the voters have repudiated the Coolidge Administration and are willing to cast their protest votes for Mr. Coolidge's Republican associate, who has remained a member of that party during his long years of service in his State and at Washington.

"Because of that fact there can be no doubt that under a Democratic Administration, which will take office on the 4th day of next March the country can rest assured that:

"(1) The Government at Washington will be honest.

"(2) A just tariff bill will be enacted which will lower the cost of living by more than two billion dollars a year.

"(3) The progressive legislation outlined in the Democratic platform will be pushed by the Executive.

"(4) Third Party movements will be headed off by meeting the honest discontent which they express and by giving the people a national rather than a sectional government.

"(5) A foreign policy will be carried out which will put America in front rank of the nations working to outlaw war."

HAGUE SAYS JERSEY WILL GO FOR DAVIS

Also Forecasts Election of Democrat as United States Senator Next Tuesday.

Frank Hague, Mayor of Jersey City and a leading New Jersey Democrat, predicted yesterday that his State would go for John W. Davis next Tuesday and that Davis would be elected President. He prepared a statement that follows, in part:

"Although New Jersey is regarded as a Republican State, especially in a Presidential election, I am not willing to be swerved by the Republican propaganda that the contest for President of the United States is between Coolidge and La Follette, nor can I be convinced that President Coolidge will be elected. I firmly believe that conditions are such, especially in New York and New Jersey, that the election of John W. Davis is not only possible but probable.

"Speaking for the Democrats of New Jersey, I know that on next Tuesday we will surprise our Republican propagandists by not only giving our national candidates a plurality but sending another Democratic Senator to Washington to accompany Senator Edwards.

"Never has the Democratic Party in New Jersey been more harmonious. True, we expect some defection to La Follette, but the radical vote will not be nearly so great as many people expect. While the Democratic candidates will suffer in some parts of the State as a result of La Follette's candidacy, the loss to the Republicans will be much greater, and, while few Democrats will vote for Coolidge, reports that I have received indicate that thousands of Republicans and independents will cast their ballots for John W. Davis.

"Mr. Davis has visited New Jersey three times since the campaign opened and on each occasion he addressed vast audiences, and, I am sure, made many converts. He has made an ideal candidate and I for one feel that it will be a great misfortune to the country if he should not be elected. He is an outstanding American possessing all the qualifications necessary to hold the highest office in the gift of the people of the United States. No man is better equipped to fill that office, and no party has ever put forward a more thorough representative citizen as its nominee.

"There are many reasons that make me feel certain that the Democratic Party will carry New Jersey next Tuesday. Labor is with us almost to a man and thousands of Democrats who left the party for one reason or another in the 1920 election have returned to the fold. On the other hand, the insincerity of the Republican State leaders on the prohibition question has eliminated many of the rank and file of their party.

"Conditions are entirely different this year than they were in 1920, when Harding swept the country. New Jersey Democrats soon recovered from that defeat. In the very first State election to follow, which was in 1922, the Democratic Party carried the State, electing a Governor and United States Senator by a plurality of nearly 90,000. Nothing has happened since then to cause the loss of any of these voters.

"Our State campaign this year has attracted considerable attention because of the differences existing between the Democratic Party and the Republican Party on State issues. As in many other States, we have the Klu Klux Klan to contend with. The Democratic Party in convention inserted a plank in its platform denouncing the Klan by name, as our candidate for President, John W. Davis, had previously done, and we also went on record as favoring a modification of the Volstead act, and declaring in favor of the repeal of the present iniquitous State Enforcement law. The Republican Convention pussyfooted on both of these issues.

"After going over the State thoroughly and conferring with men throughout the State in whom I have the utmost confidence, I firmly believe that the Republicans of New Jersey are due for a scorching defeat next Tuesday."

FRANK L. POLK FOR SMITH.

Bronx Branch of Tenants' Union Also Declares for Governor.

Frank L. Polk, formerly Secretary of State, in a letter yesterday to Raymond V. Ingersoll, Chairman of the Citizens' Committee for the Re-election of Governor Smith, told why he intended to vote for the Governor this year.

"Governor Smith has probably a more intimate acquaintance with the various branches of State government than any man in the State," the letter said. "He has won the confidence of men of all parties and the loyal support of the people of the State. Although not a lawyer, he was one of the outstanding figures in the Convention Amendment and by his intimate knowledge of the science of government commanded the respect and enthusiastic support of Senator Root and other distinguished Republicans who were members of that convention.

"I know what a tremendous personal sacrifice it is for the Governor to again accept the nomination and the responsibilities of office, but he saw his duty and as a faithful public servant subordinated his own interest and the interest of his family to the demands of the State."

The Bronx branch of the Tenants' Union of New York City has endorsed Governor Smith and the whole Democratic State ticket.

BIG FUNDS IN NEW JERSEY.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 31.—Campaign expenses of Senator Walter E. Edge since receiving the Republican nomination for re-election are reported at $4,051.90 in a preliminary statement filed today with the Secretary of State.

The total fund at the disposal of the Edge workers was placed at $10,685.

CONDEMNS HUGE REPUBLICAN FUND

has asked and appointed me to raise every possible dollar in Pennsylvania outside of Pittsburgh districts. Will you send all you can? Will you send it at once? Not a day should be lost. Our country, our Government, our institutions, our industries are in peril, real peril, not an imaginary one. It is Coolidge or Bryan, and Bryan will have to pay his indebtedness to La Follette."

"I am not even honored," said Mr. Davis, "with mention in this letter. I do not suppose you can libel a man by leaving his name out, can you?"

"I appeal to your patriotism. I appeal to you as an American, as a Pennsylvanian, let me have the largest contribution you can spare. We are all making sacrifices. Join us, help us and quickly.

"Faithfully yours,
"JOSEPH R. GRUNDY, Chairman."

"Did you ever hear so lachrymose an appeal as that?" Mr. Davis commented. "Would not that bring tears to the eyes of an Egyptian mummy? Or even, if you choose, would it not wring something from the heart of a silent sphinx?

"'We are all making sacrifices'—that is the language of the letter. And they have sacrificed according to the testimony of the funds already discovered. The recipients of these letters have sacrificed $650,000 contributed to Mr. Grundy, and if a Democratic committee had that much money in the treasury at one time it would die of financial intoxication. 'We are all making sacrifices.' The brave patriots to whom that letter was addressed have made an aggregate sacrifice that we know about, and how much more we never will know, of $650,000 from that single State.

"You may take your choice," Mr. Davis said, reverting again to the Gold Star mother's letter. "The American people may take their choice. But my choice is already made. I choose that contribution, small as it may be, against all the money that ever was raked and scraped from protected manufacturers and beneficiaries of governmental privilege to preserve the right to plunder their fellow-citizens. And when they talk of sacrifice, how infamous it seems, how unworthy, how despicable compared with the sacrifice that letter represents.

"Ah, my friends, the time has not come yet in this country when it is ruled by money. The time has not come yet when the American people have made the dollar their idol and their god. We still have traditions in this land. We still have men and women who revere them, and we still have, praise God, a citizenship that cannot be bought and sold in the market-place and our elections have not been degraded to public auction.

"Because I believe that, Mr. Grundy may keep his money. Aye, and he may collect the same amount twice over and it may be poured out, if you please, in a golden stream in every so-called doubtful State in the nation, but I have confidence that on Tuesday next the manhood and womanhood of America will assert itself, and will demand once more in the nation's capital a Government honest from top to bottom, just and impartial in the administration of its laws, caring with equal hand for labor, for the farmer, for the business man and for all sections of the community, selling the Government to none, but listening to their reasonable complaints and endeavoring to redress them. And a Government, too, that knows its own mind is not afraid to speak it, that has the courage to form a policy and, having formed it, the courage to fight for it.

"And I can see but one avenue through which the American people can attain that end, for all men know that the Third Party and its candidates cannot win this election, and those who wish reform and those who wish a change in governmental conditions have but one avenue through which they may seek it, and that avenue is through the Democratic Party and its candidate. I am willing to submit my case to the American people on the letters of Mr. Grundy and the letter of that poor woman."

in speaking his mind on all pressing problems of the day commends itself to us. His straightforward declarations on religious freedom and personal liberty have resounded throughout the country, and must confound those candidates who seek to cloak themselves in silence for political advantage.

"In endorsing the candidacy of John W. Davis, we urge all our members to vote and work for him earnestly; we likewise urge every member, man and woman, to join wholeheartedly in the campaign to re-elect Governor Alfred E. Smith, the ablest Governor the State of New York ever had and the most sincere friend that the working man and working woman ever had in the Governor's chair at Albany. We must not forget to reward him for his performances, which have been contrasted so vividly with the illusive promises of others."

The statement was signed by Daniel J. Ahearn, President; John W. Boyer, Vice President; Stephen G. Kelly, Secretary-Treasurer, and three trustees, William Doerr of the Photo-Engravers' Union, James J. Sharkey of the Pressmen's Union and Miss Mary J. Murphy of the Bookbindery Women's Union.

Miss Murphy, who is President of Women's Union 43 of the International Brotherhood of Bookbinders, appealed to union members to support Mr. Davis in an additional statement.

"I believe that a vote for La Follette is a wasted vote," she said. "I shall vote for John W. Davis because he can be elected. Davis stands for the right of labor to an adequate wage earned under healthful conditions, the right to organize in order to obtain it and the right to bargain collectively through agents and representatives of its own choosing."

Officers of the New York State Printing Trades Council who announced their endorsement of Mr. Davis included John Hartnett, Secretary; E. M. Edwards, Organizer, and John McArdle, Vice President.

The announcement of the switch from Senator La Follette to Mr. Davis by the Executive Council of the Central Trades and Labor Council caused a stir in labor and Third Party quarters. La Follette managers kept the telephones of labor leaders busy all day long. At the end of the day, Gilbert E. Roe, northeastern director of the Third Party campaign, made this statement:

"The assurances of renewed support that we have received from responsible labor officials of the largest labor organizations here make it clear that this Democratic trick in trying to pretend that the unions in the Central Trades and Labor Council have deserted La Follette will prove a boomerang. The eleven men who are alleged to have signed the Davis statement did so entirely without authorization to speak for any one but themselves. Three of them, I am informed, are Tammany placeholders. This bit of trickery will substantially increase La Follette's plurality in New York City."

Mr. Roe named, as the three signers who are Tammany officeholders, John Sullivan, President of the Labor Council, and James F. Costello, of the Metal Polishers' Union, both connected with the Mayor's Committee on Unemployment; and Thomas J. Curtis, of the tunnel and subway builders, a member of the State Compensation Board. None of the eleven, according to Mr. Roe, had been connected with the La Follette campaign or given it any support.

The American Federation of Labor offices in Washington telegraphed to New York a statement by Samuel Gompers, President of the Federation, declaring that the endorsement of La Follette by the Central Trades and Labor Council still stands.

"A rump meeting of the Executive Board of the Central Trades and Labor Council was called for yesterday morning in New York City, but the members refused to respond," said Mr. Gompers. "Thereafter, through the machinations of some politicians, a few of the members of the Executive Board in their individual capacity signed such a statement. Six of the fourteen who were asked to sign the document refused point blank, holding that it was in violation of the direct instructions of the Central Labor Council, as its only official and authoritative expression in the campaign on this subject."

William Kohn, President of the Upholsterers' International Union, and a member of the Executive Council of the Labor Council, said:

"Trade unionists of New York are amazed at the eleventh-hour repudiation by a few individual labor representatives of the considered and official non-partisan political policy of the American Federation of Labor, with respect to its endorsement of Robert M. La Follette.

"Their published statement that the Central Trades and Labor Council or its Executive Committee has withdrawn the endorsement of La Follette and Wheeler, true friends of labor, is false and without foundation in fact. These candidates were approved at the regular meeting of the delegates of the Central Trades and Labor Council in August, without recommendation from the Executive Board. At no meeting of the board has this official endorsement been revoked. A few individuals apparently, outside of their official capacity, have seen fit to override the wishes of the delegates, to favor the candidacy of the Democratic national candidate.

"The individuals who are responsible for the lie that the La Follette endorsement was rescinded cannot deliver a single vote of the 700,000 they claim to represent."

Nathan Finestone also a member of the Executive Council of the Central Trades, and Secretary of the United Hebrew Trades, said:

"The last regular meeting of the Executive Council was held Monday night. No action was taken on any political matter. The question of endorsing Davis was not mentioned. Of course, the Executive Council has no power to reverse the action of the whole central body, the delegates to which endorsed La Follette with only one dissenting vote."

Morris Sigman, President of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, said:

"The action of the few individuals who signed the statement will not in the slightest degree affect the solid support of organized labor for La Follette. We shall firmly adhere to the attitude and decision of the Executive Council of the A. F. of L."

Philip Zausner, Secretary of the Brotherhood of Painters, District Council 9, said:

"The Executive Council of the Central Trades has no power to revoke the action of the Central Trades in endorsing La Follette, and I am informed that it attempted no such action. This unauthorized statement by a small irresponsible group will be resented by the rank and file of labor men."

Philip Umstadter, President of Pressmen's Union, Local 51, said:

"This little group of men cannot double-cross the Central Trades and Labor Council. Their shabby trick will be deeply resented and will be a boomerang for Davis."

Norman Thomas in referring to the eleven who signed the statement for Davis said:

"Inasmuch as most of these men have long been known for their loyalty to Tammany Hall or the Democratic Party with which some of them enjoy mutually advantageous relations their action is not surprising, nor is it likely to carry weight with the rank and file.

"A very definite report came to me some days ago from a source I have reason to believe reliable to the effect that the action of the Building Trades' Council in endorsing Davis and Smith was based on a promise of a pardon for Brindell as a Christmas present. I hesitate to believe such a report but Tammany's evident pressure on labor union leaders makes me suspicious. Will Governor Smith or some labor leader—let us say Mr. Taggart of the Metal Lathers Union—stop this rumor by positively denying it?"

John Sullivan, President of the Labor Council, said the action of the Executive Council was the result of telegrams and letters received from the largest unions connected with the council, protesting against the endorsement of La Follette. He said that when he received these protests he laid the matter before the Executive Council, which agreed with him that the endorsement of La Follette should be withdrawn. He insisted that a majority of the Executive Council had voted to withdraw the La Follette endorsement and to endorse Davis.

JOHN SULLIVAN ATTACKED.

R. M. La Follette Jr. Says He Is Paying Tammany for $5,000 Job.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 31.—Members of Senator La Follette's party, arriving here tonight, read with interest reports concerning the statement issued by some leaders of the New York Central Trades and Labor Council, in which they urged the 700,000 members of the affiliated unions to vote for John W. Davis instead of Senator La Follette, whom they had previously endorsed.

Robert M. La Follette Jr., Vice Chairman of the La Follette-Wheeler Campaign Committee, issued this statement:

"A few Tammany politicians got together in New York yesterday and announced that they would deliver the labor vote in New York to John W. Davis. Their action is not a surprise to any one familiar with the situation in the Executive Council of the Central Trade and Labor Council of New York City.

"John Sullivan, the man who issued the statement, is on the payroll of Tammany at $5,000 a year. He is trying to earn his salary. That he does not speak for the Central Trades and Labor Council is apparent, because that council has not met to pass on this question since they endorsed the candidacies of Senators La Follette and Wheeler.

"Labor in New York as well as in other cities of the country knows that the Morgan attorney nominated for President on the Democratic ticket is the worst licked Presidential candidate since Taft. Sullivan shows he is merely trying to repay Tammany for his five-thousand-dollar-a-year job as head of the New York Municipal Employment Bureau when he makes the absurd statement that to vote for Davis is the only way to beat Coolidge.

"The rank and file of labor will not be misled by the hirelings of any political machine. The vote in New York for La Follette and Wheeler will be their answer to Sullivan's last-minute political trick.

"The endorsement of Senator La Follette and Senator Wheeler by the several hundred accredited delegates representing the bona fide labor organizations affiliated with the Central Trades and Labor Council still stands. It cannot be reversed by the action of a few labor politicians on the Tammany payroll."

DAVIS SCORES POLITICS IN THE CIVIL SERVICE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Approval of the merit system in making appointments in the civil service is voiced by John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for President, in a statement just received by the National Civil Service Reform League. Following its custom of asking candidates for President as to their attitude toward the merit system, the league addressed Mr. Davis on the subject.

Mr. Davis replied:

"I take great pleasure in stating that I am in thorough accord with the pledges of the Democratic Party to comply with the spirit as well as the letter of the Civil Service law, and to extend the provisions of the civil service to officers and employes of the Government not in executive positions. Let me say further that I am absolutely opposed to the abuses now existing in certain Federal departments whereby the selection of the eligibles from civil service lists is controlled by unblushingly political methods."

The league announced that in view of the fact that President Coolidge had indicated to its officers in personal interviews his sympathy with the objects of the league, he was not asked for a written statement at this time.

In his last message to Congress, when he advocated the civil service classification of Presidential postmasters and employes of the Prohibition Enforcement Unit, Mr. Coolidge said:

"The best method of selecting public servants is the merit system."

Senator La Follette has not yet replied to the league's inquiry as to his views relative to the merit system.

GOVERNOR'S SON SPEAKS.

Several thousand people from the west side heard Alfred E. Smith Jr., the Governor's son, make his only campaign speech of the year last night at the Charles Hussey Association, 464 Eighth Avenue. The Governor's son is campaigning for his friend Syl Dineen, who is the Democratic candidate for Assembly in the Third Assembly District. The two have known each other from childhood and served together in the Sixty-ninth Regiment. If elected Dineen will be the youngest member of the next Assembly. In the course of his address the Governor's son said:

"I have seen my father work until midnight in the executive chamber, laboring over plans and legislation to help the common people and thwart the wicked designs of the reactionary Republicans under Speaker Machold. I am here tonight in order that my father might have a Democratic Senate and Assembly next year. The way to help bring that about is to elect Syl Dineen."

HYLAN RAPS ROOSEVELT.

"This Young Fellow," He Says Is Pawn of Republican Leaders.

Referring to Colonel Theodore Roosevelt as "this young fellow," Mayor Hylan charged last night that the Republican nominee was tied up with the "Rockefeller-Gary educational system," and was but the pawn of the Republican leaders who, in turn, said the Mayor, were tied to the traction interests. He spoke at a Democratic rally in the Highbridge Democratic Club, Ogden Avenue and 168th Street, the Bronx.

After the Bronx meeting the Mayor hurried down to the Lenox Assembly Rooms, 256 Second Avenue, where he repeated the earlier speech. The Mayor reviewed his work in behalf of rapid transit and assailed Speaker Machold and the Republican Assembly for failure to give the city power to regulate the transit systems.

PLEA TO PATRIOTISM IS ISSUED BY DAVIS

Calls for Volunteers Who Love Country Better Than Party to Vote Democratic.

URGES CHECK ON REACTION

Asserts Campaign of Evasion and Deception by Republicans Has Broken Down.

An appeal for "volunteers who love their country more than party and who are influenced more by principle than by prejudice" to vote for the Democratic national ticket on the ground that this is the way to check reaction and privilege as well as radicalism was issued yesterday by John W. Davis, nominee for President.

"The steadily increasing support now publicly being pledged by so many who heretofore have been supporters of other candidates or affiliated with other political parties is extremely heartening," said Mr. Davis. "Men and women of every political faith are declaring they intend to vote the Democratic ticket next Tuesday.

"Of course there is a reason—a real one. The campaign of evasion and deception conducted by the Republicans is breaking down. They have been unable to avoid the vital issues of this campaign. Silence—their motto—has failed to convince. They have been unable to divert the people from the path of duty and their determination to have a clean, honest and efficient Government.

Sees Gains in Labor Ranks.

"Yesterday the Executive Council of the Central Trades and Labor Council of Greater New York—an organization representing one-fifth of the entire membership of the American Federation of Labor—was good enough publicly to pledge its support to the Democracy. It recognized the fact that it can depend on the Democratic Party—when it is restored to power in Washington on March 4 next—to redeem all of its pledges, and that Senator La Follette cannot possibly be elected next Tuesday.

"Yet this was only another chain in the sequence of events which started when the Hudson County (N. J.) Trades Council endorsed the Democratic platform and its candidates. This was followed by the endorsement of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union, by the endorsement of a host of independent labor organizations, by the building trades organizations and numerous others. Now, right here in New York, where the issues are well understood, President Sullivan and his associates publicly proclaim that 'parties and men are to be judged by past performances.'

Party Stands on Its Record.

"I welcome that assertion. The Democratic Party stands squarely on its record, and my confidence in the intelligence and character of the American people persuades me that 'scarecrows' and 'bogy men' will not turn them from the path of duty. And it is not alone in the ranks of the workers that I secure my feeling of confidence of the result of the election. Recall the list of Republicans, of voters of independent political affiliations, of the men and women from every walk of life who have announced their intention of supporting the Democratic Party at the polls next Tuesday, and you have the compelling reason for the spirit of optimism outstanding today in the Democratic camp. There has been an increasing realization on the part of the farmers that their only hope for badly needed relief was in the Democratic Party. Merchants, clerks and business men generally also know that this is so.

"This nation is threatened today vastly more by reaction and privilege than by radicalism. Radicalism will indeed grow in proportion to the blind greed for money and the improper use of the power of money. I, therefore, call for volunteers from among all those who love their country more than party, who are influenced more by principle than by prejudice and who have an abiding faith in the ideals which have made this nation morally and materially great, to be united in efforts to overcome the menace of greed and crass materialism.

Says Prosperity Is Threatened.

"Our prosperity is, indeed, threatened, not because the Republican tenure of office is menaced, but by the undermining of confidence, for which the Coolidge Administration is responsible. There can be no healthy prosperity without confidence, because confidence is the foundation of prosperity. This Administration which seeks a continuance in power has not only undermined the confidence of the people in their Government, but, as the passing of dividends, the reduction of wages and the increase in unemployment show, the prosperity of the country has already begun to diminish. Confidence can only be restored, extreme radicalism can only be avoided by removing those who place material above moral values.

"There are those supporting the La Follette ticket who prefer revolution to remedy. To them I have nothing to say. The great majority, however, who are undoubtedly sincere, were led to believe that the surest way to defeat Coolidge was to vote for La Follette. I call to their attention the hopelessness of their fight. I remind them that they are but subtracting from the great force opposed to the Coolidge Administration. That Administration will be voted out of power next Tuesday. Of that I am sure there is no question."

'MELLON PRESIDENT,' SAYS LA FOLLETTE

He Declares Coolidge Merely "Man Who Occupies the White House."

SENATOR IN PITTSBURGH

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 31.—Secretary Mellon was the principal target of Senator La Follette's speech delivered tonight in Mr. Mellon's home city.

"Andrew W. Mellon today is the real President of the United States," declared the Senator. "Calvin Coolidge is merely the man who occupies the White House. The Fordney-McCumber tariff bill, which Mr. Coolidge declares must be maintained, included tariff duties on aluminum to a point where Mr. Mellon's American Aluminum Trust, which enjoys a monopoly on aluminum ware, was scheduled last year in making profits of 40 per cent. in the sale of aluminum to the housewives of Pennsylvania and the other forty-seven States.

"And this tariff-protected trust pays its labor at its plant in Tennessee only $2 a day. Mr. Mellon was powerful enough to induce President Coolidge to give his support to a plan of taxation which, if it had not been defeated by the Progressives, would have shifted the burden of paying the costs of the war and the running expenses of government from Mr. Mellon and other rich men to the backs of the common people of Pennsylvania and other States.

"Mr. Mellon was powerful enough to induce President Coolidge to defeat a genuine compensation bill for the soldiers, and later to veto even the bill which provided that they should receive only a meagre allotment of insurance and they have to die to get that.

"Mr. Mellon has vast interests in steel, oil, coal and railroads. He is probably the leading banker of the State of Pennsylvania. He is the representative of the great monopoly interests of this country, which for thirty years have defied the law of the land; but today he sits in the President's Cabinet deciding what the policy of the country should be toward the problems which affect these great interests in their relations to the public. There is not a single great governmental question, whether it be taxation, transportation or corruption, upon which Mr. Mellon and Mr. Coolidge are not in complete agreement, because Mr. Mellon decides and Mr. Coolidge assents.

Calls Mellon and Coolidge Alike.

"If you would form an accurate estimate of Mr. Coolidge you would have only to consider the record and the principles of your fellow citizen, Mr. Mellon. They believe in the same things, they favor the same policies, their records during the last four years are identical. If the wage earners of this State believe in the justice and wisdom of Mr. Mellon's views on labor, they should vote for Mr. Coolidge.

"If the farmers of this State believe that Mr. Mellon can serve their interests and at the same time serve the Steel Trust, the fertilizer combination and the railroads, they should vote for Mr. Coolidge.

"If the people of this State who are dependent upon small salaries believe in Mr. Mellon's plan for shifting to the smaller incomes a greater proportionate burden of Federal taxation they should vote for Mr. Coolidge. If the people of this State believe that the Senate of the United States violated the Constitution in exposing the corruption of members of Mr. Coolidge's Cabinet, then your votes should be cast for Mr. Coolidge, because both Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Mellon attempted to stop the Senate investigations on the absurd ground that they threatened the very existence of the Constitution.

"If Mr. Coolidge is re-elected you may be perfectly sure that during the next four years the Government will do everything that can be done, everything that Mr. Mellon believes should be done, to preserve the privileges and to add to the wealth of the great monopoly interests with which he is identified.

"I come to you to submit an alternative plan for conducting the affairs of the National Government. I have nothing to offer to the steel trust, the [illegible] comparable to the privileges which Mr. Coolidge has to offer.

"It is therefore not surprising that the great interests are supporting Mr. Coolidge in this State. They [illegible]

Acclaims Wisconsin Government.

"We established a Railroad Commission which compelled the railroads to reduce their rates to reasonable levels on all transportation within the State and to stop corrupting public men with free passes and other favors. We destroyed the Republican machine which dominated our State Government and enacted the first general primary law adopted by any State in the Union.

"There is no State in the Union today in which the people are more completely in control of their own Government than in Wisconsin. And yet genuine progressive government has not injured the great corporations of our State. The rights of property are respected more fully in Wisconsin than in Pennsylvania. I say this because in Wisconsin the protection of the Government extends not only to the property of great corporations, but to the property of the farmer and the wage earner. We do not accept the doctrine that property is safe only when the millionaires are on guard. The Government of Wisconsin does what it can to protect the farmer from unjust exactions which may rob him of his farm.

"It does what it can to protect the wage earner from dangerous and unhealthy working conditions, from extortionate living costs and from assaults by irresponsible employers upon his organizations. The State troops of Wisconsin are not used as strike breakers and justice is preserved as between employer and employe.

"In no other State is there greater observance of law and order. In no other State is there more complete or honest enforcement of the law. In no other State is the Constitution more firmly upheld or more respected than in Wisconsin. And in no other State is there less corruption or less favoritism to special interests.

"And yet when the Progressive movement first came forward in Wisconsin to rid that State of corruption and special privileges, we were met with the cry of 'socialism' and 'radicalism.' That cry did not stop me then and it did not frighten or deceive the people. It will not stop me now and it will not frighten or deceive the people. It was raised by corrupt and dishonest and ignorant men then and it is raised by corrupt and dishonest and ignorant men now.

Quotes Abraham Lincoln.

"There is no man living in America today who believes more in the preservation of law and order than I do, but when I arose in the United States Senate and protested against the actions of Palmer and Daugherty and their associates in the Cabinet, I did so on the conviction that the human rights of labor are just as sacred and should be preserved just as inviolate as the property rights of monopolies, which systematically defy and flout the law. Indeed, I say with Abraham Lincoln:

"'Labor is prior to and independent of capital. Capital is only the fruit of labor and could never have existed if labor had not first existed. Labor is the superior of capital, and deserves much the higher consideration. If, therefore, there is a conflict between human rights and property rights, I shall stand by fundamental American principles and protect the man rather than the dollar.'

"When I am elected President of the United States I shall refuse to make the Department of Justice the servant of the monopoly interests. It is the duty of public officials to enforce the law against employers and employes alike.

"Any man who resorts in an industrial dispute to violence is a criminal, and should be dealt with as such, whether he be a paid gunman of a corporation or a traitor to organized labor and the principles for which it stands. But I insist that it is the first function of the Department of Justice to enforce the law in the public interest, without favoritism either to capital or labor.

"The time has come to call a halt on illegal combinations which have been robbing the public in profiteering prices and robbing labor by enforcing artificial unemployment and concealment of earnings. The Government has the power, under the Constitution and the law, to bring criminal action against those who violate the law, and if I am elected President, criminal action will be brought."

WHEELER DENOUNCES LABOR LEADERS HERE

Calls Them Politicians Who Are 'Merely Selling Out Their Own People.'

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—A final campaign word was delivered today in two States by Senator Burton K. Wheeler, independent Vice Presidential candidate.

He spoke before a late afternoon audience at Newcastle, Pa., and tonight in this city, leaving before midnight by special train for New York City, where he is to appear tomorrow night.

In both talks Senator Wheeler took occasion to refer to the published announcement that the Central Trades Council of New York had declared its support for John W. Davis, the Democratic nominee, in spite of the American Federation of Labor endorsement previously given the La Follette ticket.

"There's got to be a housecleaning within some labor organizations because there's a lot of crooked politicians calling themselves labor leaders who are merely selling out their own people," he declared.

He elaborated his view in a formal statement, naming the council which had said that its action "only emphasized the remarkable solidarity of labor in this campaign."

"The thing this campaign has demonstrated is the day of those labor leaders who undertake to 'deliver' the votes of their dues-paying members without consulting those members is past," the statement said. "Only a few such leaders remain. The most of them seem to have their headquarters in the New York Central Trades Council. We have no doubt as to the votes of the New York voters."

SOL BLOOM EXONERATED.

Charges That He Improperly Enlisted Aid of School Children Disproved

Congressman Sol Bloom, who is seeking re-election on the Democratic ticket in the Nineteenth Congressional District, and his campaign manager, J. Sidney Bernstein, were exonerated yesterday of charges made by Republican opponents that Bloom was improperly enlisting the aid of public and parochial school children in his campaign. An investigation by educational authorities disclosed that Mr. Bloom's "special cash prize offer" to pupils of schools in his district for the best reasons "why my district [illegible]" was not distributed in an improper manner.

When the matter was brought to the attention of [illegible], Superintendent of Schools, he asked District Superintendent [illegible] to make an investigation and [illegible] the facts. He informed [illegible] that [illegible] cards were distributed on school property.

"The principals of all schools some time ago received a notice from me that nothing whatsoever was to be [illegible] in any school [illegible] political [illegible] know that order has not been violated [illegible]"

Mr. Bernstein explained that the offer [illegible] distributed [illegible] among school children on their way from school to their homes.

WET FIGHTS LA FOLLETTE.

Stayton Says He Plays "Fast and Loose" With Wets and Drys.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Because he has "failed to take an unequivocal stand for the repeal or modification of the Volstead law," the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment has "refused its official endorsement" of the Presidential candidacy of Senator La Follette, W. H. Stayton, executive head of the association, said in a statement tonight.

In announcing that word to that effect was being sent to the membership of the association, many of whom, he said, had been led to announce their intention to vote for La Follette on the ground of his understood "wet" tendencies, Mr. Stayton asserted that the "fast-and-loose" tactics adopted by the Wisconsin Senator were designed to capture the votes of both wets and drys.

The Wisconsin Senator, the statement added, had declined to answer the association when it asked him whether if elected he would recommend a revision of the Volstead law.

AUTHOR FAVORS DAVIS.

Melville Davisson Post Says He Is Only Hope for World Peace.

A statement addressed to the electorate urging the election of John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for President, on the ground that in his selection was the only hope of international peace was issued by Melville Davisson Post, Chairman of the Committee of American Authors supporting Mr. Davis. Mr. Post said:

"The most important of all issues will be in your hands on Nov. 4: peace and the reorganization of mankind. Mr. Davis presents a practical plan for this great accomplishment. Perhaps if you will help us make one further united effort we may be able to move humanity across its dark frontier."

9 TO 1 ON COOLIDGE; 9 TO 5 ON GOV. SMITH

7 AND 8 TO 1 AGAINST DAVIS

One Firm Has $10,000 to Bet Against $5,000 That Mrs. Ferguson Will Be Governor of Texas.

Betting in the financial district yesterday showed prices on the favorite lengthening materially. Coolidge became a 9 to 1 favorite, but only a few bets were made at this price. Practically all the betting commissioners in the financial district yesterday raised their odds against La Follette to 20 to 1, compared with 15 to 1 on the previous day.

Alfred E. Smith is a 9 to 5 favorite to defeat Colonel Roosevelt. Some small wagers were made at 2 to 1 by G. B. de Chadenedes & Co., 20 Broad Street. This firm has been commissioned to bet $5,000 even that Smith will carry Greater New York by a 450,000 majority, and $10,000 that he will win the State by 80,000 votes. W. L. Darnell & Co., 44 Broad St., placed several thousand dollars on the re-election of Carl Sherman as Attorney General of the State. The firm announced that it had an additional $6,000 to place on Sherman at that price.

J. S. Fried & Co., 20 Bond Street, announced yesterday the receipt of $15,000 to be bet against $10,000 that both Coolidge and Smith will be re-elected. The same firm has $45,000 to place against $25,000, or 9 to 5, that Smith will defeat Roosevelt. Several small bets were made by this firm at odds of 7 to 1 and 8 to 1 that John W. Davis will not be the next President.

For the first time in the history of Wall Street election wagers a woman entered the betting list yesterday when a Texas politician placed a substantial sum of money with J. S. Fried & Co. to put on Mrs. M. A. Ferguson, the Democratic nominee for Governor of Texas. The firm has $10,000 to bet against $5,000 that Mrs. Ferguson will be elected, and another $10,000 at even money that she will have 25,000 majority.

Suggests Inquiry Into Bets.

Investigation by the Borah committee of the methods used to fix the election betting odds in New York City was suggested yesterday by Walter G. Herrick, associate director of the Bureau of Organization of the Eastern Division of the Democratic National Committee.

"I observe that some newspapers have been publishing odds on the Presidential race," Mr. Herrick said. "One day they say that Coolidge is a 3 to 1 shot, then it is a 2 to 1 chance and then the odds move from 6 to 1 to 8 to 1. In this connection I see the names of several brokers in the financial district. I have yet to meet a man who has placed a bet with any one of these brokers. On the other hand, I know several men who tell me they have telephoned to and called on some of these so-called brokers and offered to bet at the odds quoted in the newspapers, but were unable to place their money.

"I have heard too that a huge sum of money was sent into the financial district by Coolidge backers for the purpose of influencing the odds on the theory that some voters will be influenced by these figures. It seems to me that the public might find much to interest and amuse it if the Senatorial investigating committee would call on the so-called odds makers to open their books and disclose the funds on hand, if any, and the persons from whom they received such funds."

ROOSEVELT MAKES QUEENS NIGHT TOUR

FINDS A SPOILS SYSTEM

Charges Democrats in State Have "Edged In on Our Civil Service."

After making seven speeches in Queens last night, Colonel Roosevelt wound up the night's campaigning by broadcasting an address from the radio studio in Republican Eastern headquarters, 2 West Forty-sixth Street, which is hooked up with Station WAHG. He reached the studio a few minutes after 11 o'clock, and was immediately "put on the air" by the Republican National Committee.

The Republican candidate for Governor delivered about the same speech that he has used throughout his campaign. He repeated the allusion he made at Cooper Union on Thursday night to the Democratic attacks upon his record as Assistant Secretary of the Navy. Declaring that his adversaries knew they were beaten and were forced to resort to personalities in a desperate effort to turn the tide, he asserted: "No man alive can dishonor my name."

He made this reply at all of his speeches last night. It brought out a great outburst of cheers and applause from each of the crowded meetings he addressed before speaking to his "invisible audience" from the radio studio.

In Democratic Strongholds.

Colonel Roosevelt invaded Democratic territory on his trip through Queens, but all his meetings drew large and favorably disposed crowds. The trip completed his circuit of the five boroughs of New York City. He spoke in Jamaica, Richmond Hill, Ridgewood, Elmhurst, Astoria and Arverne. There were two meetings in Ridgewood, which is usually uncertain on election day.

The biggest meeting of the night was at the Richmond Hill High School, where the crowd outside was so thick that three mounted policemen had to force a way for the candidate and his party to enter. An overflow meeting outside the school was addressed by other speakers until Colonel Roosevelt finished his speech inside. He then spoke a few words to the overflow.

Colonel Roosevelt at Richmond Hill departed from his usual formula to refer his listeners to his acceptance speech for his program on reducing grade crossing accidents. Having lived in Long Island all his life, he said, he realized the danger from unprotected grade crossings, and intended if elected Governor to push legislation to remedy the situation.

The Republican candidate held in the main to the "look me over" method of speechmaking he has developed during his canvass. He devoted considerable of his time to charges he already has made of Democratic insincerity in public affairs.

In some of the speeches last night he gave special attention to civil service in the State administration. He said the Democrats had "edged in on our civil service, cut corners and weakened it where they felt they could." He instanced the Department of Farms and Markets, which he said the opposing party had endeavored to draw into the maelstrom of partisan politics, and he repeated his charge that the Democrats have tried to use the State educational system to build up a political machine.

On the subject of the civil service he said in part:

Many Employes Specialists.

"The greatest menace to the proper administration of public affairs is the improper use of public positions for the purpose of creating a political machine. There are thousands of employes in the public service in our State. Many of these employes are specialists. Others have much of the specialist about them. All must be competent and devoted primarily to the interests of the State and not to the service of any individual political party. When the spoils system was in vogue, with all of its inefficiency [illegible] the average citizen of the inadvisability of this [illegible] serve in most positions [illegible] attempting to recreate the spoils system.

"Edged In on Civil Service."

"They have edged in on our civil service, cut corners, and weakened it where they felt they could. They have attempted to draw into the maelstrom of partisan politics the Department of Farms and Markets. They have tried to get their hands on our school system, to make it into a political machine. But we join battle with them this Autumn on this as on many other issues. Politics must be run for the State. The State must not be run for politics. I call on the people to rally to our standard and bury under a deluge of votes those who would honeycomb the State administration with political favorites.

"The loyalty of Tammany Hall is to Tammany Hall first. The loyalty of the Republican Party is to the State first. We must smash the attempt to return to the old system when fear or favor governed, when justice was of little account, and when it was a question of 'knowing the right man.' One of the great issues of the campaign is the issue between decent government in the public interest and improper government simply in the interest of a political party.

"We have made our case. The people are awake. The Republican ticket, State and national, will sweep in on next Tuesday by an overwhelming majority."

As the candidate was leaving the Richmond Hill High School meeting his automobile ran into a motorcycle officer and knocked him from his wheel. Colonel Roosevelt jumped out of the machine and aided the chauffeur in picking up the officer, who was not injured. The Colonel waited until the officer had brushed himself off and then said to him:

PRAISE FOR COL. ROOSEVELT

Saved Us From Being Third-Rate Naval Power, Says Capt. Land.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt while Secretary of the Navy saved the United States from becoming a third-rate naval power by his activity at the Washington Conference on Limitation of Armament, according to Captain E. F. Land of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics. A letter from Captain Land to Henry Stimson, Chairman of the Republican Service League, was made public yesterday.

The American people do not know how large a part Colonel Roosevelt played in the Washington Conference or in the sessions of Congress following the Conference, according to Captain Land.

"It was not a question of politics with Colonel Roosevelt," Captain Land went on. "It was a question of national security. Any one who dares question his administrative and executive ability on account of his youth need only carefully examine the work he did while in Washington to conclusively demonstrate the fact that he possesses administrative ability and executive ability of great magnitude.

"It is a well recognized fact to those who are familiar with the administration of the Navy Department during the first three years of the present Administration that Colonel Roosevelt not only carried out his own work with marked efficiency, but also was frequently called upon to carry out the administrative and executive work of the Secretary of the Navy. He frequently carried a large part of the burden of both offices and he did so with consummate skill. His zeal, energy, untiring ability, and enthusiasm for the work in hand make him stand out as one of the best, if not the best, Assistant Secretary of the Navy that has ever served the United States Government."

WANTED TO BAR GITLOW.

Voorhis Says Keeping Name Off Ballot Was Beyond His Power.

John R. Voorhis, President of the Board of Elections, said yesterday that he would have barred Benjamin Gitlow's name from the ballot this year, as he did in 1920 and 1921, if he had had the power. Gitlow, who was imprisoned on a charge of criminal anarchy and is now out on appeal, is running for Vice President on the Workers' Party ticket, which is headed by William Z. Foster.

Because Gitlow was placed in nomination at a national convention, Commissioner Voorhis explained, the ticket was filed with the Secretary of State and not with the Board of Elections. In 1920, when Gitlow was named for Mayor, and the following year when he was a candidate for Congress from the Twelfth District, the Board of Elections succeeded in keeping his name off the ballot, the Commissioner declared.

"We thought we were doing our duty in keeping a convict's name off the ballot," Mr. Voorhis said. "We didn't want to disgrace the ballot by having his name on it. If it were in our power to bar him again this year, we would gladly have done so."

Referring to the Workers' Party emblem of hammer and sickle crossed, which are featured in the Soviet seal, Commissioner Voorhis cited Section 20 of the Election Law which forbids the use of seals of any State or the United States or national flags, but makes no mention of the use of seals of foreign countries.

COOLIDGES POSE AGAIN.

Accommodate Photographers Who Missed Them Mailing Their Ballots.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Newspaper photographers who were caught napping yesterday when President and Mrs. Coolidge went through the formality of mailing their votes to Northampton, Mass., today coaxed the Executive and his wife to go through the whole performance again except that the mailing of the ballots, which would have made the two voters "repeaters," was unmistakably omitted.

Although most of the photographers got their shots yesterday, they all took advantage of today's opportunity to replenish their supply of prints for selective purposes.

school education. I have backed up the State Department of Education in every proposal that ever came from it for the betterment of the public school system of this State.

"When I arrived in Albany in 1923 I again took up the fight to give full control to the city over the construction of our own subways and transit properties. To this the Republican leaders were unwilling to agree. In their desire to protect the men who supply the grease for their political machine, relief not only for New York City but for all the other municipalities of the State went down to defeat. In 1924, after a long and bitter political wrangle, they finally consented to give the City of New York control of the construction of its own subway properties. Now as a test of their sincerity, witness their refusal to permit the people to decide whether the debt limit shall be extended to make construction possible. This must be apparent when we realize that nothing can happen unless the people themselves pass upon it. How can any man or any group of men claim sincerity of purpose when they withhold from the people the determination by themselves of this important question?

Charges Insincerity on Bonus.

"While we are on the question of sincerity and insincerity, let us look at both of these performances, and as the last straw that would break the camel's back on the question of insincerity, let us take the legislation about which the Colonel talks so much, that was designed to take care of the next of kin of the soldiers and sailors who died before the bonus in this State became operative. What are the real facts? With absolute insincerity, the Republican Assembly during the closing hours of the last session sent a bill to the Senate making an appropriation of one and one-half million dollars for the relief of these next of kin, and in their anxiety to create a political issue for themselves, rather than benefit the relatives of the soldiers, they [illegible] appropriation [illegible] of public money for private purposes must receive a two-thirds vote, and they sent it to the Senate in a form that [illegible] with the State Constitution. That [illegible] way of thinking constitutes as [illegible] exhibition of insincerity as I have witnessed in my public career.

"The record shows that I signed the first Bonus bill in this State, and you can rest assured that after the Supreme Court passes upon the interpretation of the bonus constitutional amendment the Democratic Party next Winter in Albany will make ample and proper provision for the care of the relatives of the dead soldiers.

Says Opponent Was on Both Sides.

"Let us examine the proposal of a four-year term for Governor. In that we will find an exhibition of insincerity on the part of the Republican candidate himself that occurred right during this very campaign. The Republican White Book asks the election of Theodore Roosevelt and promises for him, if elected, that he will oppose the constitutional amendment extending the term of the Governor to four years. The candidate himself, in reply to the questionnaire from the League of Women Voters, through his representative who answered for him, said that he would support it. What greater exhibition of insincerity could the people witness than this?

"The Republican White Book asks for the election of Colonel Roosevelt on the ground that he will put a stop to the Tammanyization of the National Guard. That statement is absolutely insincere, because the Adjutant General representing the Governor in the management of the National Guard is a Republican appointed by me as a reward for twenty-five years of faithful and diligent service to the State of New York as Assistant Adjutant General.

"The Republican candidate throughout the State has had a great deal to say about law and lawlessness. While he was in an official position in Washington the naval oil reserves, the property of the nation at Teapot Dome, were turned over to a private oil company. On the property were found a number of people who claimed the right to be there. Nothing is more abhorrent to the American people than drumhead courts in time of peace. Instead of giving to these people upon that property in Wyoming an opportunity to be heard in court, as was their constitutional right, Colonel Roosevelt, in power and might, [illegible] Acting Secretary of the Navy, [illegible] United States forces of the Navy [illegible] to drive them off. [illegible] Captain [illegible] candidate for State Treasurer, received the orders from Colonel Roosevelt to perform this lawless and outrageous act, and when he was questioned by Senator Walsh of the Senate investigating commission, Colonel Roosevelt's only reply was, 'Senator, I get your point.'"

Replies to Machold.

When asked during the day to comment on Speaker Machold's statement that "Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad," which was the Speaker's answer to the Governor's charge that Machold was an "ordinary, everyday liar," the Governor said:

"I can say to that, that he is on the road to destruction himself, because he has been mad on this subject for a year, and he has been wrong on it. He knows in his heart and soul that he is wrong. The advertisement I published in every newspaper is a complete answer to it. That is all there is to it. It seems to me the Republicans are in desperate straits if they can't get the Ku Klux vote without lying to them."

The New York State Association, which for several years has taken a prominent part in supporting amendments reorganizing the State Government, issued a statement last night which said in part:

"A charge has been made that Governor Smith manipulated an amendment to obtain for some future Governor control of the appointment of the head of the Department of Education, who is now appointed by the Board of Regents, and that this manipulation was prevented by the leaders of the Assembly. We have no hesitancy in stating that this charge is without the slightest foundation in fact."

Lieut. Gov. George R. Lunn reached New York at 7 P. M. for a closing evening of speaking in New York City. He was the main speaker last night at the Harlem Casino, 116th Street and Lenox Avenue, and at other times during the evening he addressed the combined meetings of the West Side Democratic clubs. The Lieutenant Governor will leave New York this morning and will be the chief speaker at the final meetings of the Democrats at Troy and Saratoga Springs. He will spend Sunday in Schenectady and make a final address over the radio on Monday evening.

PEPPER DISCUSSES COOLIDGE ON KLAN

REPLIES TO DAVIS LEAGUE

Answers Five Questions Propounded at Princeton Rally Following Torchlight Parade.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 31.—Senaor George Wharton Pepper of Pennsylvania met the challenge of the John W. Davis League of Princeton in a meeting in Alexander Hall tonight, which followed a torchlight parade of Princeton students who are supporting the Republican ticket.

"I am glad to answer the five questions propounded to me by the John W. Davis Club," said the Senator, "but I must politely decline to allow that organization to cut me off from discussing such other questions as I choose to discuss.

"The first question is, 'How can Mr. Coolidge be considered as the leader of his party when over 80 per cent. of his recommendations in Congress were either not heeded at all or the exact contrary enacted, and how are we to expect anything better in the next four years if Mr. Coolidge is elected?'

"My answer is that the things done by Congress which the country approved were things recommended by the President. Things done against his advice, or left undone in spite of his urging, were things as to which the country was with the President. The accuracy of my statement will be vindicated on election day. If the country gives him a vote of confidence and returns a House and Senate on the same ticket we have all the assurance that is humanly possible that his party leadership will result from the mandate of the people.

The President and the Klan.

"Two—'Mr. Coolidge has continually asserted that the Constitution is the supreme issue of the campaign and he has upheld its principles in practically all his speeches. The Ku Klux Klan exists in certain parts of the country in open and avowed violation of the Constitution. Why has Mr. Coolidge failed to condemn the greatest enemy of his supreme issue?'

"Mr. Coolidge is the Chief Executive, whose function is not to denounce citizens or groups of citizens, but to enforce the law. A Chief Executive who undertook to issue manifestoes in connection with any group of citizens before they have broken the law would himself be a lawbreaker. If he failed to inflict punishment when the law was violated he would be false to his oath of office. Don't worry about the President's determination to enforce the law.

"Three—How can it be said that prosperity has flowed from the Republican régime when it is a fact that in 1920, under Democratic rule, labor was 100 per cent. employed as compared with 85 per cent. in 1921 and 91 per cent. in 1924, and when it is a fact that in three years under Wilson there were only [illegible] bank failures, while in three and a half years of Harding and Coolidge there have been 1,660?

"The question of relative prosperity under Democratic and Republican Administrations will be the question settled at the polls next Tuesday. If the Davis Club of Princeton can convince the American public that business and agricultural conditions were better in 1921 than in 1924 let them do so. I await the verdict with calmness.

World Court Not an Issue.

"Four—The Republican platform of 1920 advocated prompt adherence to the World Court. Mr. Coolidge commended it to the favorable consideration of the Senate in his first message to Congress, but his recommendation was ignored. The Republican platform of 1924 again declares for the World Court. What assurance have we that the proposal will not be pigeonholed for another four years if Mr. Coolidge is elected?

Mr. Pepper concluded by saying: "A vote for Davis is half a vote for Bryan. A vote for La Follette is a vote to [illegible] American political life [illegible] the only effective protest against political, economic and social chaos."

SEEKS FARM BUREAU VIEWS.

Bradfute Asks His Federations to Recommend Successor to Wallace.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—O. E. Bradfute, President of the American Farm Bureau Federation, today telegraphed to the State Farm Bureau Federation asking for suggestions for the appointment of a Secretary of Agriculture to succeed Henry Wallace. The action was in response to a request from President Coolidge.

In concluding his message Mr. Bradfute said:

"The following are among those already prominently mentioned: H. M. Gore, Assistant Secretary, now Acting Secretary of Agriculture, and candidate for Governor of West Virginia; A. W. Gilbert, Commissioner of Agriculture for Massachusetts; L. J. Tabor, Columbus, Ohio, master of the National Grange; F. O. Lowden, Oregon, Ill., former Governor of Illinois; Samuel Adams, Washington, editor of Public Opinion; J. W. Coverdale, Ames, Iowa, and Chicago, Treasurer of the Farm Bureau Federation and Secretary-Treasurer of the Grain Marketing Company; M. D. Howard, Iowa and Chicago, formerly and successively President of the Farm Bureau Federation and the Transportation Institute; C. H. March of Minnesota; Dr. John Lee Coulter, President of the North Dakota Agricultural and Mechanical College at Fargo, N. D."

The ancient Egyptians so adored the cabbage that they raised altars to it.

The Greeks and Romans believed that it possessed the happy faculty of preventing drunkenness.

Some there were who even held it to be a sovereign remedy against paralysis.

Such is the enviable reputation of this delightful vegetable so popular with the patrons at CHILDS.

PEPPER FORECASTS A COOLIDGE VICTORY

DISCUSSES 3D PARTY MOVE

Says La Follette Has Capitalized Widespread Distrust, but Has Two Fatal Handicaps.

By WILLIAM H. CRAWFORD.

In reply to the following list of questions submitted to him, George Wharton Pepper, United States Senator from Pennsylvania, has mailed me the accompanying statement:

"Senator, now that the campaign is nearly over, will you give the readers of THE NEW YORK TIMES your opinion concerning:

"First: The campaign as a whole.

"Second: How will the West vote and why?

"Third: What chance has Davis in the East?

"Fourth: Has La Follette the support with which he is accredited?

"Fifth: Do you prophesy a Republican victory?"

Senator Pepper replies:

"West of the Mississippi Davis is dead politically and can by no possibility be resurrected. Whether or not McAdoo was sincere in his announced intention to support Davis loyally, the fact is that his supporters in the West have interpreted his line of conduct as an expression of lack of interest in Davis, and most of them are making sheeps' eyes at La Follette.

"Bryan is on record, in his inaugural speech as Governor, as in substantial sympathy with all the things in the La Follette platform which the Democratic Convention declined to swallow. He is not, therefore, available as a speaker, because if he uses the Democratic platform as a text, he can be confronted by his inaugural, and if he sticks to his inaugural he might as well come out for La Follette. The simple fact is that he is a mere disguise for William Jennings Bryan. William Jennings Bryan lost out three times running under his own name and now he is trying it again under the name of Brother Charles.

"East of the Mississippi and outside the solid South, Davis has no visible strength except such as the Smith leaders choose to give him. What they will decide to do cannot yet be determined, but whatever it is it cannot possibly suffice to give him an electoral majority.

"La Follette has been very successful in capitalizing the widespread distrust of public men and the widespread impression that Government is essentially corrupt. This impression is the direct result of the gas attack launched by the Democrats during the last session of Congress, in the mistaken belief that they can hurt the Republican Party without harming America. The result shows that they have missed their aim, but that they have created an atmosphere in which La Follette will destroy them and will extend the Republicans to their utmost in an effort to purify the atmosphere and to disclose Coolidge like a clean-cut snow-capped mountain peak rising high above the mists that fill the valleys.

"La Follette works under two fatal handicaps: One is the widespread and growing conviction that the proposals upon which he stands are really unsound, and that he himself knows that they are, and is not particularly serious in pressing any of them.

"The second handicap is the impossibility of holding together for the period of the campaign the two groups whose inconsistent interests stand in the way of permanent and lawful marriage. The farmers and the industrial workers cannot successfully be combined for political purposes except for a moment of time, and that moment has passed, while every day is widening the gap between them.

"With the lines which indicate the condition of business on the upward trend, with agricultural conditions steadily improving, with hopeful progress in the economic rehabilitation of Germany, with a growing conviction that Coolidge's leadership is safe and sane, the great mass of American voters, in both the East and West are in the process of determining to use their votes to keep Coolidge at the helm instead of giving La Follette and Davis a chance to rock the boat."

BURKE ON 'SLUSH' INQUIRY.

Says La Follette Planned It and Republican Party Is Vindicated.

The outcome of the Borah committee's investigation into campaign contributions has been a vindication of the Republican Party's campaign methods, according to former Congressman James Francis Burke. In a radio speech from Republican Eastern Headquarters, 2 West Forty-sixth Street, last night, Mr. Burke said:

"Now that the so-called 'slush fund' investigating committee has concluded its sessions and disclosed nothing but clean management by the Republican National Committee the American people might just as well know the facts as to its origin, its purpose as well as its failure.

"This committee was not appointed as a result of any act on the part of the Republican National Committee. It was not created to investigate any scandal that had arisen. It is known as the Borah committee, but Senator Borah had nothing to do with its creation.

"The whole affair was part of the well laid plan of Robert M. La Follette to discredit and destroy the Republican Party by creating a Government instrument through which he and his followers could embarass the Republican leaders, divert them from their duties and throw mud at the most critical period of a Presidential election.

"In proof of this, I call attention to the fact that the resolution creating the committee was introduced in the Senate by La Follette himself on the 5th day of June and passed two days later.

"Senator La Follette then knew that there were already six different laws on the Federal statute books providing for the most rigid manner of accounting for campaign fund receipt and expenditures, and the committee could therefore serve no purpose other than to give La Follette and his cohorts an opportunity to deal in slander through a Senatorial channel.

"In proof of this, he made his groundless charges and followed it with the appearance of his lawyers loaded with insinuations and nothing more."

TO WATCH ALBANY COUNT.

Two Hundred Federal Deputy Marshals Requested by Wadsworth.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Oct. 31.—Two hundred Deputy Marshals will be appointed tomorrow to watch the count of the vote cast in Albany Tuesday. The order was given this afternoon by Oliver D. Burden of Syracuse, United States Attorney, who came here today to investigate a complaint that had been forwarded to him by Senator Wadsworth.

The Senator received a request from Edward Easton, Chairman of the Republican county organization, asking that he take steps to put Deputy Marshals in Albany, as he believed that otherwise the count would not be a correct one. He pointed out that thirty names had already been removed from the registry lists.

CALLS FOR SUPPORT OF PARK BOND ISSUE

An appeal to voters to support proposition No. 1 for a $15,000,000 bond issue for the improvement and the extension of the State park system at the election next Tuesday was issued yesterday by the Parks and Playgrounds Association of New York City through George Gordon Battle, its President. The proceeds of the bond issue, if voted, will be applied to the improvement of the State forest preserve and the Palisades Interstate Park, for parkway connections in Westchester County, for the development of a State park system on Long Island and for the development and extension of other State parks and the acquisition of land for still others.

"It is impossible to conceive a more worthy or a more important object," the statement read. "For some years the State parks were developed in a more or less haphazard manner without any comprehensive system.

"In Albany, last year, legislation was enacted authorizing the State Council of Parks to coordinate and develop these State parks and to provide so far as possible for the orderly growth and development of the system. This State Council of Parks, under the able administration of its Secretary, Robert Moses, has worked with great energy and zeal in this direction and has accomplished very valuable results. A vast deal of property owned by the State has been dedicated to park purposes. The parks themselves have been immensely improved and made more accessible and attractive. Playgrounds have been established and are being maintained in many of the parks.

"As the city becomes more populous the problem of providing more parks and playground space, especially in the more crowded sections, is becoming more and more acute. The Parks and Playgrounds Association has been doing its best for some years to conserve the park spaces and to develop a playground system throughout the Greater City. The State Council of Parks and its allied bodies, such as the Commissioners of the Palisades Interstate Park, the Westchester County Park Commission and the Long Island State Park Commission, have been bending their energies in the same direction for the area outside of the Greater City of New York.

"If this issue of bonds to the amount of $15,000,000 is approved at the coming election it will be a substantial aid to the labors of the State Council of Parks and an incalcuable benefit to the people of the State. It will mean a vast addition to the park area of the State as well as a most necessary and beneficial improvement of the existing park and playground system."

MRS. A. S. HEWITT GIVES FIRST VOTE TO DAVIS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—According to an announcement made at Democratic headquarters today, Mrs. Abram S. Hewitt of New York, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Jay Schieffelin and a great-great granddaughter of Commodore Vanderbilt, will cast her first vote for John W. Davis. Mrs. Hewitt is a member of the New York Junior League. The Democrats stated that her parents are Republicans.

A letter from Mrs. Hewitt was issued as well as letters from factory, business and professional women first voters explaining why they will support the Democratic ticket.

Mrs. Hewitt wrote as follows:

"I am proud to enroll in the Democratic Party and cast my first vote for President for a man who possesses bigger qualifications for the Presidency than any other candidate we have had for many years. I intend to vote for Mr. Davis because I have complete confidence that in his character there are those qualities of exceptional ability, selfless devotion to duty, full understanding as to the problems at stake, and soundness of judgment in dealing with them, which are essential in the President. I believe him to be the very big man, far bigger than any of his opponents."

Miss Mary F. Bowen of Worcester, Mass., who works in a factory, stated:

"I am supporting Davis principally because I am a working girl. We have had very good labor laws in Massachusetts, but it is not because it is a Republican State, but rather in spite of it. Whatever we have gotten has been because a Democratic minority has fought until decent laws have been put into effect.

"I know that working people got more done for them under the last Democratic Administration than ever was done before in the history of the world, and the platform this year promises to carry out the Wilsonian standards, and that is good enough for me. I admire Mr. Davis for his labor stand, now and all through his career as a public man, and he looks like a President, talks and writes like one; no one has to tell him what to say or write."

Miss Rita Jackson of Indianapolis, Ind., a buisness girl, stated:

"I shall vote for Mr. Davis, first, because Mr. Coolidge has failed as our President to accomplish the things which we demand. He has broken faith with our dead, forsaken our wounded and deserted our living soldiers. He has tolerated graft and seemingly approved a tariff under the Republican Administration, which swindles instead of protects the proletariat. And last, because Mr. Davis is diplomatic, courageous, honest and a disciple of Woodrow Wilson's ideals."

Miss Agnes Adams, 4,167 Shaw Avenue, St. Louis, a professional woman, stated:

"Mr. Davis is the ideal American citizen and the champion of clean government. Under his leadership our foreign relations will be conducted in a dignified manner and our domestic affairs will be under the guidance of a man of keen vision, large sympathies and fearless courage. Under him there will be no Daughertys, Denbys, Meanses or Falls in the Presidential galaxy of 'master minds.'"

BOLTERS AID JACOBSTEIN.

Rochester Democrats Feel Sure of Re-electing Representative.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 31.—Although Charles C. Bostwick, former leader of the Tenth Ward and insurgent Republican, bolted the Republican nominee for the Assembly in the Fourth District two weeks ago, he declared today he was out to depose James L. Hotchkiss, Republican organization leader. He then directed his 200 ward workers to promote the candidacy of Representative Meyer Jacobstein, Democrat, for re-election.

Two years ago Bostwick fought the Republican organization and gave Jacobstein a plurality of 653 in a ward that usually goes Republican from 2,000 up.

Jacobstein has developed marked strength, and until today his chances for re-election were figured about even. With the serious defection of Bostwick and his large following, Democrats tonight claim the banner Republican ward of Rochester in next Tuesday's election.

TEN MONTHS' LEAD

In ten months of this year The New York Times published 21,568,274 agate lines of advertising, a gain of 1,786,864 lines over the corresponding period of last year and an excess over the second New York newspaper of 7,548,298 lines, nearly 35 per cent.

BUDGET IS ADOPTED; TOTAL $398,954,228

CRAIG VOTES AGAINST IT

Resolution Adopted Calling on B. M. T. to Permit Hirshfield to Examine Its Books.

The New York City 1925 budget was adopted yesterday by the Board of Estimate. Its total is $398,954,228.29, an increase of $23,486,228.21 in excess of the final budget for 1924.

Controller Charles L. Craig voted "No" on the adoption of the proposed budget because of the third paragraph in its preamble, which places the duty of reporting on salary and wage accruals upon Edward W. Buckley, director of the Budget Bureau, instead of upon the Department of Finance, as heretofore.

The Board of Estimate, under the law, now has no further power to revise the budget either upward or downward. The completed schedule now goes to the Board of Aldermen, which will have twenty days for its consideration. The Board of Aldermen may revise the budget downward, but may not increase it. After adoption by the Board of Aldermen, the budget goes back to the Mayor, who has power to veto any cuts that may be made by the Board of Aldermen, which board, in turn, can override the Mayor's veto by a two-thirds vote. It was predicted by Aldermanic leaders, however, that the budget as it now stands would go through without material change.

Demand Examination of B. M. T. Books.

Against the protest of Controller Craig, the Board of Estimate, on Mayor Hylan's motion, adopted a resolution calling upon the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Corporation to permit an examination of its books and accounts at the hands of David Hirshfield, Commissioner of Accounts. The B. M. T. management recently refused the Mayor's demand to the same effect on the ground that the dual contracts provided for no such check or revision by any such official, but did provide for supervision either by the Controller or the Transit Commission, to whom the B. M. T. stood ready to open its books according to law.

As soon as the Mayor's resolution was read, Controller Craig declared: "The Board of Estimate has no legal right to demand such access to that company's books and accounts. The contract calls for other inspections to safeguard the city's interests."

Mayor Hylan replied: "This resolution was prepared by the Corporation Counsel. Anyway, these other agencies you refer to have failed to do what we want the Commissioner of Accounts to do. The Interborough has permitted access to its books and has not refused an investigation of its data. I want to add also that if the Controller had done what he ought to have done we should not have to pass this resolution."

Controller Craig cast the only negative vote. The resolution was ordered to be sent to the B. M. T. with a demand for an immediate reply. Its preamble recited that the City of New York had expended approximately $150,000,000 in "and toward the construction of subway railroads now forming part of the Brooklyn-Manhattan system and has a contractual interest not only in receiving a return on this investment but also in securing for the inhabitants of the city a safe and adequate service from the railroads constructed under said contract."

Issue of Corporate Stock Granted.

The Board of Estimate voted to issue in corporate stock $2,705,900, of which $1,005,900 is to be used for dredging the main channel between Barren Island and Mill Basin; $1,200,000 is to be used for the construction of a northerly pier on the waterfront between Mill Basin and Barren Island, and the remaining [illegible]00,000 for a large pier at Canarsie. Members of the Board of Estimate indicated that these appropriations were made as an expression of the good faith of the city in the Jamaica Bay improvement project and with a view of demonstrating the city's right to large appropriations from the Federal Government, its partner in the development scheme, when the River and Harbor bill is framed by Congress next Winter.

A proposal to change street grades so that bridges might be built across the Long Island Railroad cut, which crosses several Brooklyn streets between Eighteenth and Nineteenth Avenues, was laid over for one week by the Board of Estimate. The streets affected are Fiftieth, Fifty-first, Fifty-second and Fifty-third streets. They are to give access to a new $500,000 public school. At present the pupils walk eight blocks out of their way.

Alderman James F. Kiernan asked that two bridges be built, one on Fiftieth and one on Fifty-first Street. A representative of the railroad said that the bridges already existed at Fifty-second and Fifty-third Streets. He added that the proposed bridges would cost $50,000 each.

"What's $50,000 alongside of the life of one child?" asked Kiernan.

Borough President Edward Riegelmann of Brooklyn consented to the postponement at the request of the railroad company, but said he was heartily in favor of the bridges. Aldermanic President Murray Hulbert said that Fiftieth and Fifty-first Streets are not adequately protected. He was promised that fences would be built immediately.

ABSENT VOTERS SEND BALLOTS BY AIR MAIL

Two of Them Reach the City From the West Just Before Expiration of Time Limit.

Two ballots from absentee voters were received by air mail yesterday at the Board of Elections office in the Municipal Building. One was from Henry A. Wise of 18 East Seventy-third Street and was postmarked 3 P. M., Oct. 27, at Los Angeles, Cal. The other, from Charles S. Murray of 861 East Twenty-first Street, Brooklyn, was mailed at 11 A. M. last Wednesday in Dubuque, Iowa. Each envelope carried 48 cents' worth of stamps, and each arrived shortly before noon yesterday, the time limit for absentee voters to get their ballots to the Board of Elections.

Of 928 ballots sent to absentee voters, 770 had been returned and approved by the Election Board by noon yesterday and will be sent to the proper election districts to be added to next Tuesday's count. Fifteen absentee voters lost their vote because they failed to make the required affidavits on the back of the envelopes. Twelve returned their ballots unmarked, saying they would be back in New York in time to vote.

ADMITS MISUSING FRANK.

North Dakotan Republican Says He Sent Postcards by Mistake.

FARGO, N. D., Oct. 31.—Logan Powell, Coolidge campaign manager of Stutsman County, was at liberty today under $1,000 bond, following his appearance before a United States Commissioner on a charge of using the Government frank of Representative Will R. Wood of Indiana in sending out campaign literature in the Second Congressional District.

The complaint was made by R. W. Frazier, in charge of the La Follette headquarters at Bismarck. Mr. Powell appeared voluntarily to answer the information. According to the complaint, matters relative to the North Dakota campaign were added to postcards carrying excerpts of a speech made by Congressman Wood on the Coolidge campaign. They were distributed under the frank of the Congressman.

JAMESTOWN, N. D., Oct. 31.—Logan Powell of the Stutsman County Coolidge Campaign Committee, who is charged with misusing the Government frank of Congressman Wood of Indiana, declared today that the alleged violation was unintentional, being caused "by a misplaced piece of type across the type of the postal cards."

"As soon as it was known that a mistake had been made on the postal cards sent here, it was rectified and no more were printed," he added. "Further, we immediately got in touch with postal authorities and promptly paid the postage due. This was done even before the complaint was made by Mr. Frazier."

DANIELS SAYS WEST TURNS.

Declares American Conscience Is Aroused There Against Corruption.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, visited Democratic Western Headquarters today after several weeks of campaigning in the Trans-Mississippi region in behalf of Davis and Bryan.

"There is not a single State west of the Mississippi which the Republicans are sure of carrying," Mr. Daniels said. "Throughout the West, the conscience of America is aroused, and there is a determination that Administrative corruption shall not be blessed by the success of the corrupted political party."

Mr. Daniels is scheduled to speak tomorrow night at Charleston, W. Va., and to wind up his campaign tour Monday night in his home State, North Carolina.

MAYOR BROADCASTS ANSWER TO O'RYAN

the Citizens Union. This sniping crowd never did want the police to sell the field day tickets. O'Ryan doesn't want them to do it either. The fact that the returns from these police field days bring in revenue for the relief of widows and orphans, as well as of dependents of policemen killed in the performance of their duty and for whom no other provision has been made under the law, is a matter of no moment to O'Ryan or the Citizens Union. The people enjoy the police field days and approve of the purpose for which they are held. Any person with a morsel of humanity in him would offer no objection.

Says He Is Afraid of Job.

"O'Ryan seems to be hot all over. He is sore because he was not able to put the moving platform scheme in which he and the Vanderbilts are interested over on the city, or get some of my friends to invest in it. He is sore because he feels that his soft job of doing nothing for $15,000 a year and taking little fees of $25,000 on the side may be taken away from him. He dreads being asked how many other employes of the Transit Commission whose salaries are paid by the people received additional funds for outside work as he did.

"O'Ryan doesn't feel that most of us are fit for his 'sassiety.' We lack the finish and the polish to say one thing and to do another. If I had allowed the traction companies to get away with $60,000,000 annual increase in fares, perhaps Mr. O'Ryan would not have turned his mud guns upon me. If I had allowed the B. M. T. to get away with the $44,000,000 Brooklyn crosstown steal and the additional $2,500,000 which would have been included in the budget for the people to pay, I might have become eligible for membership in his 'sassiety.'

"If I had permitted the Transit Commission to shift the blame for the present disgraceful conditions on the transit lines to the shoulders of the Mayor and the City Administration, O'Ryan might even have been willing to break bread with the Administration and to admit us all to his 'sassiety.' But I would rather have the friendship of the people, the plain ordinary citizens, than the friendship of any so-called high-class individuals who know no God but the golden calf and who worship in the temple of hypocrisy.

Mayor Quotes the Bible.

"He went back about one hundred years to repeat something attributed to a man named Pratt. The name must have appealed strongly to O'Ryan. It suggests Standard Oil, the big interests, big profits and the exploitation of the people. Too bad he didn't go back a little further in his researches. He might have stumbled across this one: 'Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor.'

"This swivel-tongued prater, who would love to be called a high-class gentleman, will attend to everything but his own job. He speaks of diseases, which seems to be a favorite topic with him, and parades his power of analysis and treatment. But Dr. O'Ryan does not seem to be able to diagnose the trouble of the transit situation or provide against such calamaties as elevated trains, trains running off the elevated structure and killing and maiming people. The only remedy he offers is to let conditions go on or to find a possible cure in the pockets of the people.

"O'Ryan professes amazement at the very substantial vote accorded me in both elections. He simply can't understand it. He wants to know if all those who voted for me can really be so dense. And he preens about as the only font of wisdom and intelligence in the greatest city in the world, and he struts about as proud as the peacock which does not deign to look at its own ugly feet.

"He speaks about transit and when he speaks about the only thing he should be speaking about, he makes only misstatements. He is a man with a vast fund of misinformation. He says that $26,000,000 was invested upon the reorganization of the B. M. T. and he says that the $26,000,000 was issued in preferred stock, and he says that the only dividends which have been paid by the B. M. T. since are on this preferred stock. That statement is false and he knows it.

Refers to Stock Gamblers.

"Let the traction Democrat O'Ryan explain how this $26,000,000 became $65,000,000 over night. Let him explain how a road, for which he is urging an increase in fares, can earn $4,922,000 first year's profit after reorganization on a gross income of $40,000,000 and a new investment of only $26,000,000. Why should Wall Street stock gamblers and manipulators get hundreds of millions of dollars of city money for buying lines of traction companies which the Transit Commission Triumvirate claims cannot be run at a profit?

"He says that I am opposed to his so-called plan to buy out the traction companies. I am opposed because he wants the city to buy countless surface tracks and equipment which the roads themselves are on the verge of discarding and scrapping, but which the Transit Commission wants to unload upon the people at a cost of several hundred millions of dollars.

Does O'Ryan apply the term demagogue to me because I have insisted that wooden cars, forty years old, are dangerous and unsafe and should be removed both as a matter of justice and because the contract between the city and the railroad companies so requires?

"Does he apply the term demagogue to me because I have resisted every attempt of the traction corporations for the past seven years to steal the people's subways from them and to extort $60,000,000 a year out of the people through unwarranted increased car fares?

Refers to Wrecks.

"Does he apply the term demagogue to me because I have insisted that automatic safety devices and signals be installed on the railroads so that there may not be a recurrence of wrecks and disasters which make widows of wives and orphans of children?

"Does he apply the term demagogue to me because of my insistence that the city belongs to the people and that its parks and highways and schools and public property shall be used solely in the interest of the people?

"If such be the case, I accept full personal responsibility.

LABOR RESIGNATION EXPECTED TUESDAY

will be brought to bear upon Sir Robert Horne to surrender, for the time being at any rate, his many interests in the business world in order to take up this office. If he declines, then doubtless the position will be offered to Neville Chamberlain. There is a general desire that if Sir Robert Horne joins the new Cabinet, Neville Chamberlain should resume his old post at the Ministry of Health.

The general expectation is that Sir Douglas Hogg will again serve as Attorney General, Sir Thomas Inskip as Solicitor General, and that the Lord Advocate for Scotland again will be William Watson, K. C., who was without a seat in the House in the last Conservative Administration.

The position of the two senior members of the Conservative Party, Lord Curzon and Lord Balfour, is also of interest. It is suggested that Lord Curzon, though not returning to the Foreign Office, may be willing to serve in the Cabinet as Lord President of the Council, or Lord Privy Seal (offices in which there are no active duties), and it is thought that Lord Balfour may also be willing to place his great experience at the disposal of the new Administration.

The decision of the Labor Cabinet today to appoint a committee to examine the question of the authenticity of the Zinovieff letter is the outcome of the Ministers' desire to have some definite information on this subject before finally laying down their task, and the committee thus set up started to work immediately. A long meeting was held in the afternoon.

There is no suggestion that this hurried inquiry can in any way be exhaustive, particularly as the Cabinet also wishes to discover how a copy of the Zionvieff letter found its way into the hands of a London newspaper. Some surprise was expressed by members of the Cabinet at the fact that they had not been informed of the existence of the Zinovieff letter before it was broadcast, and there was a good deal of discussion as to how the letter came into the hands of the British Government. As to the authenticity of the document, they were prepared to suspend judgment until the committee had presented its report.

Oswald Mosley, who, although a son-in-law of Lord Curzon, stood as a Labor candidate in the Ladywood division of Birmingham, and was ably assisted by his wife, Lady Cynthia, is understood to be dissatisfied with the result of the numerous recounts by which Neville Chamberlain finally obtained the seat.

On the first count Mr. Chamberlain was declared elected by four votes. The second telling of votes awarded the seat to Mr. Mosley by two votes, and the final of five counts gave the seat to Mr. Chamberlain by 77 majority.

Talk of Lord Grey for Foreign Post.

LONDON, Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—There already is much speculation over the allocation of portfolios in the prospective Baldwin Cabinet, and especially over the question of whether Lord Curzon will return to the Foreign Office. According to some reports Lord Curzon will not come back to the office of his former labors, in which case it is possible the portfolio might be offered to J. Austen Chamberlain, or even to the former Liberal Foreign Secretary, Viscount Grey. The choice of Viscount Grey, though it is considered unlikely, would not, in the minds of some of the political leaders, be inappropriate, since the axiom held here is "continuity in foreign policy."

There is a deal of speculation also as to whether Mr. Baldwin would now accept the services of Mr. Chamberlain and Lord Birkenhead, who have been ostracized from association with any Government under Conservative administration since their intimate association with former Premier Lloyd George. As Mr. Lloyd George now is definitely committed to the good or ill fortunes of the Liberal Party, and there no longer is any hope for the formation of a Centre Party, the belief prevails in some circles that Mr. Baldwin will take back these former Minsters into the Cabinet fold.

In consequence of the large number of new men on the Conservative side in the new House of Commons, there is almost certain to be considerable new blood in the next Conservative Cabinet.

Says MacDonald May Lose Leadership.

One feature of the aftermath comment by the press on the outcome of the elections is the somewhat frank discussion of what many of the newspapers regard as Mr. MacDonald's mismanagement of the Zinovieff affair, and of the events generally which led up to the present disaster to the two progressive parties, and there already is talk of a change in the leadership of the Labor Party, by which James H. Thomas, Secretary of State for the Colonies, or John Wheatley, Minister of Health, might replace Mr. MacDonald and thus be in the running for the Premiership whenever Labor again approaches the goal of government.

All of the London afternoon newspapers, with the exception of the Star (Liberal), which frankly deplores the Conservative victory because of its effect on the Liberal Party, today acclaim the defeat of the MacDonald Government, but warn the Conservatives that Labor is still a very live corpse. Whether the supporters of former Premier Stanley Baldwin will remain in the saddle, the newspapers say, depends largely upon the formation of his new government and upon its ability to work out a well-rounded policy.

The Evening Standard calls attention to the fact that Labor polled a larger vote than ever before in its history, but says the opportunity is now presented to Mr. Baldwin to form one of the strongest governments of modern times, "setting it to a work which will render obsolete five years hence the idea of class war, upon which socialism depends for its spiritual energy."

The Evening News declares that the election result was the voice of the "quiet people," who voted for "the old order under which England achieved greatness," but the newspaper asserts that while the old foundations remain unshaken, there is much building to be done and the task is never finished.

The Star attributes Mr. MacDonald's defeat to blunders in policy and "abusive attacks on the Liberals, whose votes he had to ask." The newspaper regards as without justification the predictions of a virtual disappearance of the Liberal Party, which it finds the natural sequel of "war hysteria."

"If," the Star continues, "conservatism is to satisfy the varied passions it has aroused, it will need a magician, and Mr. Baldwin is no conjurer."

All Ulster Goes Conservative.

One outcome of the election was to make Northern Ireland representation in the British Parliament wholly Conservative, the polling in Fermanagh and Tyrone having resulted in the return of two Conservatives by huge majorities.

These seats were held in the last Parliament by a Nationalist and a Sinn Feiner.

The sensational reduction in the Liberal representation is the subject of much remark, and facetious commentators in the press point out that the entire Liberal Parliamentary Party will now be able to go to the Commons in a single London omnibus.

The assumption by some that the historical party—successor of the eighteenth-century Whigs—is bound to disappear permanently is not taken for granted everywhere, however. Its elimination would be welcome by those of its opponents who desire a return to the two-party system, since the third party, Labor, has evidently come to stay, but many believe that the eclipse of the Liberals is only temporary.

Former Premier Lloyd George last evening laughingly rebutted the suggestion that his party was dead.

"What—dead?" he exclaimed. "Why, it has just polled three million votes!"

Of interest to Americans is the success in the Parliamentary elections of the American-born Captain Sidney Herbert, Conservative, who retained his seat in the House of Commons for the Scarborough and Whitby division of Yorkshire. He is a son of the late Sir Michael Herbert, whose wife, also deceased, was Lelia B. Wilson, daughter of the late Richard Wilson of New York. She was married in 1883 to Sir Michael, who was long in the British diplomatic service and once was Ambassador to the United States.

Captain Herbert was born at Newport, R. I., July 29, 1890. He was educated at Eton and Balliol College, Oxford, and is a bachelor. He served in the World War and later held the posts of private secretary to the Secretary for War, the President of the Board of Education and for Stanley Baldwin, the Conservative leader.

In the balloting on Tuesday Captain Herbert received 18,911 votes, as against 11,223 for Ashley Mitchell, Liberal, and 2,713 for H. D. Rowntree, Laborite.

GERMANS MAKE USE OF BRITISH ELECTION

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—The reactionary press in Germany hails the victory of the Conservatives in Great Britain with joy as though they themselves had won a battle, forgetting entirely that British conservatism and Prussian junkerdom are two quite different things. Most of these reactionary organs prophesy similar results in the German elections, contending that by the victory of the English Conservatives, the principal argument with which the German republican stump speakers operate against the reactionaries, has been eliminated, namely, that a Cabinet of Junkers will never be able to deal advantageously with the democracies of France and England.

There is no doubt that the result of the British elections has acted as a very effective stimulant on the reactionary German parties, which were gradually beginning to realize their loss of popularity all over Germany since the last elections about six months ago.

The German republican press argues that MacDonald's defeat is mainly due to his inability to solve the unemployment problem and to the Zinovieff letter. All newspapers agree that the result of the elections will not change England's attitude toward the Dawes report.

The democratic Boerse Courrier tells the German republicans that the victory of the British Conservatives does not mean reactionary rule in the Central European sense. "A Tory democracy will be very careful not to drive more voters into the Socialist camp by making laws which are annoying to the mass of the people," the paper says.

STOCK BUOYANCY MAINTAINED.

Dealers See Danger of Anti-Capital Legislation Eliminated.

LONDON, Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—Buoyancy spread throughout the Stock Exchange this morning in consequence of the sweeping Conservative victory in the Parliamentary elections. The activity prevalent at the close last evening continued today, when an accumulation of orders posted overnight from the provinces and outlying districts and those telegraphed from the Continent came in for execution through brokers. They embraced virtually all kinds of securities, but chiefly standard investments such as war loan, conversion loan and colonial bonds, home and Argentine rails and industrials.

Professional operations in the more speculative issues were also more confident, with the elimination of fears of legislation likely to prove detrimental to capital generally, and the brokers were having a busier time than they had experienced for some months.

The rises recorded this morning included fractions on the war loans and other Government bonds from ½ to 1 per cent. on home rails and from 6 pence to a shilling on British industrials.

An American industrial reaction to the results of the British election was contained in a statement made yesterday by Calvert Townley, assistant to the President of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. Mr. Townley said the results should be regarded as a good omen by the American people.

"Great Britain seemed to be progressing surely, if slowly, in the right direction when the Labor Party suddenly went into power," he said. "This was regrettable in the opinion of American business, because it was evidence of the uncertainty as to how far the new Government would go in the direction of radical ideas.

"The large majority just given to the Conservatives not only is assurance of a stable Government in Great Britain for some time to come, but also shows that the British people have no intention of experimenting with questionable political theories during this critical reconstruction period.

"Every step toward stabilization in Europe is certain to have a favorable influence on American welfare, and every evidence of political sanity abroad diminishes the opportunities of those who would destroy our own constitutional Government."

SHAW SEES PEACE IN DANGER.

He Fears Both Grey and Curzon in British Foreign Office.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUDAPEST, Oct. 31.—In an interview with George Bernard Shaw, published here, the dramatist declares that whether Lord Grey or Lord Curzon becomes MacDonald's successor as British Foreign Minister, the peace atmosphere of Europe will be endangered.

Mr. Shaw is quoted as upholding the proposal of a British loan to Russia, even if it should never be repaid, stating that this would be better than supporting the unemployed.

This natural "anti-knock" gasoline is one of Nature's wonders
Knocking in an engine is caused by the gasoline mixture exploding too quickly or too violently. There is no knock if the mixture burns progressively and evenly.
The Midgley Indicator, a remarkable scientific instrument, enables us to photograph the progress of the explosion of a gasoline mixture in the combustion chamber.

Explosion of Tydol mixture—This graph shows how a Tydol mixture explodes. The smooth, even curve denotes progressive combustion. There is no tendency to knock.
NOTE: Tydol, of course, will not eliminate knocking in motors which are defective mechanically.
Motorists are now being told that they must pay extra for gasoline in order to stop motor knocks. Tydol users save that extra money. If you use Tydol consistently, it is not necessary to doctor your gasoline or pay more than the regular price per gallon. Tydol is a natural anti-knock gasoline.
* * * *
When you hear a motor knocking desperately on a steep hill you have visions of the damage that may result. You know that motor knocks steal power, pound bearings, rack your motor and lead to repairs.
For years scientists sought vainly to produce a gasoline that would not knock. Then Nature, in her own underground laboratories, produced a crude petroleum oil, from which it is possible to refine gasoline having natural anti-knock qualities.
It is from this particular crude that Tydol Economy Gasoline is made, by special processing, at the Tide Water Refinery at Bayonne, N.J. Tydol is, therefore, a natural anti-knock gasoline.
Tydol will not only eliminate knocking in your engine, but it will also give you a speedy start, quick pickup, full power and mileage, and minimum carbon.
Prove all this to yourself. Fill up at any Tydol pump and pay no more than the regular price per gallon.

TREASURY CALLS IN CURRENCY BOND ISSUE

Redemption on Feb. 2 of $118,459,000, Dated Feb. 1, 1895, Is Announced by Mellon.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The Treasury has completed its plans for redemption of the loan of 1925—one of the issues of Federal obligations used to secure national bank notes—and thereby is prepared next February to take a big step toward the eventual replacement of national bank notes by currency issued under the Federal Reserve Act.

Announcement of the Treasury's program was made tonight by Secretary Mellon as follows:

"The Treasury announces that it has called for redemption and payment on Feb. 2, 1925, the United States 4 per cent. bonds of 1925, dated Feb. 1, 1895, and that such bonds will cease to bear interest on that date.

"In order to facilitate redemption, holders are urged to present their bonds well in advance of Feb. 2, so as to insure prompt payment when due. This is particularly important with respect to registered bonds, as payment cannot be made until registration shall have been discharged by the Treasury Department, Division of Loans and Currency."

The call will end the life of $118,459,000 in Federal securities. It also will force the retirement of an equal amount of national bank notes issued against the bonds now scattered widely over the country in perhaps 500 national banks. The banks now holding the bonds, however, have an alternative in that they may obtain through purchase other Federal bonds bearing the circulation privilege and merely substitute the outstanding securities for those to be retired.

The loan of 1925 automatically matures next February under its thirty-year life and the law providing for its retirement specifies that the Treasury shall give three months' notice to holders of the securities. The announcement of plans for redemption was made tonight in accordance with that provision.

In addition to the $118,000,000 to be paid off, there will remain outstanding bonds bearing the circulation privilege to the amount of almost $750,000,000. Six hundred million dollars of these securities—the 2 per cent. consols—will mature in 1930, and the rest fall due in 1936 and 1938.

As the maturing bonds are believed by Treasury officials to be held in every section of the country, the amount of national bank note circulation to be retired in each locality is expected to be relatively small. Some officials believe that the actual retirement in February will be materially reduced, as many of the banks, they said, already have anticipated the retirement and have bought other Federal securities to place behind their own currency issues.

PROFITEER ON WAR GRAVES.

French Firms' New Fortunes Lead to Suspension of Contracts.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—Cessation has been ordered of the work of transferring the bodies of men killed in the war from the temporary graves in which they were buried to national cemeteries, because of the report of Deputy Jourrault that flagrant profiteering has characterized the whole work done up to the present.

M. Jourrault, who was appointed by the Chamber Commission to investigate the matter, reports that fortunes have been made in a most scandalous manner at public expense, and that irregularities have been committed which seem to him to justify an immediate cessation of the work, pending a further inquiry which may lead to judicial proceedings against the contracting firms.

BLAIR WILL INQUIRE INTO TAX OBSTACLES

at Broadway and Fifty-seventh Street, the books were not available, and inquirers had to go through the slow routine of submitting their requests in writing and waiting their turn for the replies. In some instances this took hours.

Acting on instructions from Washington and fortified by the decision of a Federal Judge in Ohio that the records were Government property, Collector Frank K. Bowers in the Custom House continued his policy of making available such books as were not in use, and it was from these that individuals and newspaper men obtained their information.

19 Records in Third District.

Reporters were at the information desk at the office of the Collector of the Third District from the opening to the closing of the office. In seven hours they succeeded in obtaining nineteen tax payment records. Thirty other names were returned by officials as having "no record."

Collector Charles W. Anderson did not see newspaper men. During the two hours the Collector was in the office he was busy in conference, but inquirers were informed that there had been no change in the policy of the office in refusing to open the books to inspection by the press. Last night no change in attitude was expected, despite the announcement of the Ohio Federal Court decision, Collector Anderson persisting in his interpretation that the statute should not apply to 1923 returns.

During the day approximately fifty individuals applied for and received information with greater facility than on previous days, but the inquiries of representatives of the press were delayed in one instance for a period of four and a half hours.

Publication of income tax reports is strongly attacked on the ground of policy by the National City Bank in its November Review, which is being mailed today to its customers and stockholders. Fostering of "envy and class hatred" and stimulating of "agitation for the leveling of incomes" are seen by the bank as the "probable intent of those who advocate this publicity." The National City Bank, which is known as America's largest bank, has as its President Charles E. Mitchell, who paid one of the heavy taxes of 1923, the published figure having been $237,395. The article represents the bank's view on the subject, and indirectly reflects the opinion of Mr. Mitchell, who approved the article before it was turned over to the printer.

As a defense against agitation for leveling of incomes the bank refers to the biggest income tax of all, which was paid by the United States Steel Corporation; to the $19,000,000 tax paid by the Ford family, to the $7,000,000 tax paid by John D. Rockefeller Jr., and in its analysis of these returns endeavors to show that these "surplus incomes are devoted to public purposes as truly as though they were owned by the State."

The article follows:

"The making public of income tax payments is a sign of the increasing strength of the movement for the suppression of individualism and the extension of mass authority over what in the past have been considered private affairs. It is improbable that the publication will be of any importance in aiding collections. The competitors, acquaintances and relatives who scan the lists are much more likely to be interested in the information for what it may be worth to themselves than from any interest to aid the Government. Moreover, in view of the amount of tax-exempt income and the various lawful offsets against income in any given year, figures that are unexpectedly low have little real significance to readers who do not know the details of a report.

Sees Intent to Foster Envy.

"The probable intent of those who advocate this publicity is to foster envy and class hatred and stimulate the agitation for a leveling of incomes. 'Why should a few have so much when the many have so little?'

"The answer is that in reality the few do not have what is represented as going to them, at least in any such sense as commonly understood. The United States Steel Corporation heads the list of income tax payers, but it has 150,000 stockholders who share that portion of its income which is distributed, while the important portion which is not distributed is used for improving the industry, to the advantage of the public.

"The second largest taxpayer is the Ford Motor Company, ownership of which happens to be almost entirely in one family, but this company furnishes an even more striking demonstration of the fact that these incomes do not signify great sums devoted to a few. The portion of its income which is devoted to the Ford family is insignificant, the great bulk of it from the beginning to this day having been devoted to the development of an industry giving livelihood to thousands of families and supplying hundreds of thousands of people with a convenient and helpful means of transport."

The Ford Tax Analyzed.

The article says that "the implication throughout the agitation against large incomes is that the owners are without good right to them" and that this money is not properly distributed. In answer, the bank takes the $19,000,000 tax paid by the Ford family.

"What would have become of the $19,000,000 if it had not been taken by the Federal Government? Would the Ford family have increased their personal expenditures? Probably not. Most likely the Ford Industries would have gotten it, the Ford payrolls would have been that much larger, and the Ford plans for revolutionizing industry would be that much further along. Is the fact that $19,000,000 were lost last year to these purposes a matter for public congratulation? Would it have been advantageous to the public if taxes running up to one-half his net income had been levied upon Mr. Ford from the beginning of his career?

"And so it will be found as individual cases are examined that the agitation to equalize incomes is, in its effect, an agitation to equalize the power, the efficiency and influence of individuals upon a common level, which of course would have to be the level of the lowest. It is an agitation to destroy leadership by depriving it not only of its legitimate rewards, but of the means by which it accomplishes its service."

Whether surplus incomes are large or small, it is argued, they serve the public weal if invested in industries, or in the bonds and stocks of industries, and do this as truly as though they were owned by the State. The article continues:

"The third tax payment in size as reported was that of John D. Rockefeller Jr. His fortune is closely associated with that of his father, and the general uses to which it is ultimately dedicated are well known. In the history of private benefactions those coming from this source have been unequaled for the scope of their benefits or the wisdom of their management. It is quite certain that not one dollar of the $7,000,000 tax collected in this case was taken from that portion of this income which was destined to serve the personal wants of the recipient. The effect inevitably was to reduce the sum available for public purposes."

TELLS ABOUT CONTRACT FOR ELK HILLS LEASE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—Details of bids and conferences for letting of contracts in the Elk Hills Naval Oil Reserve No. 1 in California, which the Government seeks to cancel on charges of fraud and conspiracy involving E. L. Doheny and Albert B. Fall, were revealed today in continuance of testimony by Dr. H. Foster Bain, Director of the Bureau of Mines, a witness for Mr. Doheny and the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company.

Under examination by Frank J. Hogan, chief counsel for the defense, Dr. Bain testified that when bids were opened for the first contract, Fall, then Secretary of the Interior, was in New Mexico. Edward C. Finney, assistant Secretary of the Interior, and Dr. Bain, with representatives of the Associated Oil Company and the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company, were present.

Discussion of the bids resulted in the conclusion by Finney and Dr. Bain that the Pan-American alternative bid, known as the "B" proposal, was the best, and contracts were drawn up by a solicitor of the Department of the Interior.

Mr. Cotter, representing the Doheny company, "thought it might be important that the Secretary of the Navy be made a party to the contract." Finney and Dr. Bain agreed to this, and the contract was drawn up April 15, 1922. Finney suggested getting formal approval from Fall, and he replied by wire that if Rear Admiral Robinson and the Secretary of the Navy thought best, to "go ahead."

Other points the prosecution brought out were that Dr. Bain, who was directed by Secretary Fall to negotiate for the contracts, was in almost constant consultation with J. J. Cotter, Vice President of the Pan-American Company, during the time proposals for bids were being formulated, and that the proposals did not ask for bids involving a preferential right for additional leases in the reserve.

It was then shown that the Pan-American contract of April 22, 1922, included such a preferential right.

Dr. Bain testified that several weeks before the contract was let he called Mr. Cotter to assist with specification and details in drawing up the proposals, and that at no time did Mr. Cotter mention an alternative bid which would grant a prior right for other leases in the reserve.

Dr. Bain then was asked if he knew if any company would submit a bid involving a preferential right.

ROOSEVELT'S Administrative Ability

Read what five great Americans, who have known and worked with Col. Roosevelt, think of his character and executive capacity

President Coolidge

My dear Colonel Roosevelt:

Since you are not leaving the service of your country in resigning as Assistant Secretary of the Navy, but merely transferring your activities into another and perhaps more important field, I shall not express any regret, but only add my good wishes to the thousands which you have already received. Your activity and energy have served as an inspiration to those who were associated with you in the conduct of your office. In accepting the call of the Republican Party in the State of New York to be its candidate for Governor, you will be entering a field which is not new to you, for you have been reared in an atmosphere of practical political action. This has given you the training and equipment which the people of New York State may well wish to call to their service by choosing you for their Chief Magistrate. I wish to express to you my congratulations at the honor which is implied in the confidence bestowed upon you by the Party, and the new opportunity which lies before you for public service. In order that you may be entirely free to discharge your new duties, I accept your resignation to take effect on the first day of the coming October.

With every wish that your future efforts may be crowned with complete success, I am

Yours very truly,

Hon. Charles Evans Hughes

It gives me pleasure to support the candidacy of Theodore Roosevelt for Governor of this State. It is a high tribute to say that he does honor to the name he bears. It is a name which not only recalls a most illustrious public career, but it brings vividly to our minds the best ideals of the American home. In that home, every day had its lessons in the principles of Americanism, loyalty, courage and self-denial. We speak of training for public service. What training could be better than to be nurtured, guided and disciplined in such a home?

But the Republican candidate for Governor has made his own record. He made it in industry and business, working his own way and earning his own success. He made it on the field of battle. Gassed at Cantigny and wounded at Soissons, he knew what it was to suffer for his country. He wears the Distinguished Service Cross. He had made his record in the even more difficult public service of peace. He knows the government of the State and he knows the Federal Government.

As to his intelligence, vigor and capacity, I do not have to depend upon the reports of others. At the time of the Washington Conference on Limitation of Armament and in preparation for that conference I had opportunity to judge for myself. Colonel Roosevelt as Assistant Secretary of the Navy was early assigned to represent the Navy Department in this preparation. I was in constant association with him in these preliminary studies and during the conference. When I wanted naval facts he got them for me. Loyal to the navy, careful as we all were to preserve its relative strength, he brought to the work the sympathetic effort of one who was intent on the interests of peace.

What impressed me most was the alertness, the industry, the promptness and the executive capacity of Colonel Roosevelt, the worthy son of a great father. His aid was invaluable. He is young, but only about two years younger than his father when he ran for Governor. If he is elected you will have the strength and enthusiasm of youth and the caution of experience. You will have a Governor who will give you a strong and honorable administration which will be a credit to the State, to the Republican Party and the Roosevelt name.

I desire to see him elected, not only for these reasons, adequate as they are, but also because I wish to see the cause of the Republican Party strengthened by a complete victory in this State. The victory of Roosevelt will supplement and strengthen the victory of Coolidge.

Hon. Herbert Hoover

I should have liked to come to New York to give any help possible to Mr. Roosevelt's campaign. It is an honor to support a man of his fine intelligence, high integrity, proved executive ability and his devotion to public service.

Hon. Elihu Root

I have known Theodore Roosevelt since he was a child. I was very fond of his father and his mother, and I have always taken a very deep interest in his career. He used to come and talk to me when he was in the Legislature, and I know how deeply solicitous he was to make his course there contribute to the public good. I followed him in the reports of the war in France with especial sympathy, because I felt what a balm for the wounded heart of his father, who had been denied the opportunity to fight for his country there, it would be to see what his boy was doing. At Cantigny and the Somme, at San Mihiel and in the Argonne advance, as major and then lieutenant colonel of the 26th United States Infantry, he showed that he had in him the character of his forebears.

When he came to the Conference for the Limitation of Armament in Washington, when it was necessary that the United States should act with force and wisdom, day after day, and week after week, Mr. Hughes and Mr. Lodge and Mr. Underwood and myself were in conference with officers of the navy, and with the representative of the Navy Department, who was Theodore Roosevelt.

It was a very hard thing for the navy to give up all those great battleships, in course of construction, the finest naval outfit in the world. And it was a very complicated thing to prepare and make the proposition of the United States which made the famous conference a success. The young Assistant Secretary of the Navy was the mouthpiece of the navy of the United States in that all-important study. It filled my soul with joy to see with what ability and intelligence and patriotic spirit he performed that difficult and important duty. He knew his subject; he had studied it with the greatest thoroughness and he was appreciative of every question and every reason for action. The success of that conference was in no small degree attributable to his intelligent zeal.

I have known personally every Governor of the State of New York for the last fifty years, and I can say to you that in my judgment, based upon close observation of the way in which he works, the way in which he worked in that important position, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, the present candidate for Governor, would stand high up in the list of all the Governors of the State during that half a century.

Hon. Oscar S. Straus

It cheered me greatly when I learned of the nomination of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt for Governor.

It took me back to the days when I was enthusiastically supporting his father for the same office. His business, public and Army record are noteworthy and give every promise that he will make an excellent Governor. In his letter of acceptance and on the stump he has demonstrated his knowledge of state affairs. He has taken his stand squarely on all the issues and in Rooseveltian fashion he will carry out all his promises. No one with a drop of Roosevelt blood in him will ever have the charge brought against him of discriminating against any citizen. I wish him Godspeed in the election!

Col. Theodore Roosevelt Is A Leader and Executive

Theodore Roosevelt learned his lesson of leadership in business—by starting at the bottom and working rapidly toward the top. In the World War, he was a leader of men. He commanded regiments in action. He did his fighting on the fighting front. As Assistant Secretary of the Navy, he was the leader of some 35,000 civilian employees. He administered a budget which provided for the expenditure of more than $300,000,000 every year—almost double the amount expended by the State of New York.

MUSIC

By OLIN DOWNES.

New York Symphony Opens Season.

The audience which attended the first concert of the season by the New York Symphony Orchestra, Walter Damrosch conductor, last night in Carnegie Hall, had been informed in advance, in no uncertain terms, that Arthur Honegger's symphonic movement, "Pacific 231," would be heard for the first time in this city, and that this piece, [illegible] was a musical description of a locomotive rushing across a continent at midnight. It would have taken another line to have added [illegible] of the speed, but Mr. Damrosch saw to that in the performance. The methods followed, appropriately enough, in this announcement, attracted numbers of the curious who came in to hear Honegger's piece and promptly left when it was over, though there were such masterpieces as Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, Vaughan Williams's Fantasia on a Theme of Thomas Tallis—music of haunting loveliness and imagination—and d'Indy's superb "Istar" variations, also to be heard. They did not matter. The people wanted to hear the "locomotive," and even blasé critics, troubled by many concerts, did leg work so that they might arrive on time to describe the much advertised tone-picture to an expectant public.

This is the piece previously introduced by Serge Koussevitsky in Europe and America, of which the composer himself remarked that he had always loved locomotives passionately, "as others love women or horses"; that he wished to convey "not the noise of an engine, but the visual impression and physical sensation of it." And so there is the suggestion of the monster in repose, just breathing, then the start, in heavy, chunking chords low in the orchestra, then the gradual acceleration, and generation of a fragment of joyous song. This is as successful a balance of realistic and genuinely musical ideas as we have encountered in the concert room. The suggestion of it is unmistakable, and is accomplished with expert technic, with a well-developed harmonic idiom and a thorough knowledge and ingenious employment of the orchestra. But we have more than the imitation of a noise. We have music, youthful, energetic, full of laughter. The units of rhythmic energy cohere and develop in the most organic manner to the moment when great smashing chords bring the end.

The composition need not be taken portentously or as the discovery of a new phase of art; it is rather a highly amusing "jeu d'esprit," and a sign of perhaps the healthiest, most genuine and optimistic spirit of that group of composers who formerly advertised themselves as the Paris "Six." From this group Honegger has swung off at a tangent, in a manner that betokens a talent probably more sincere and original than those which formerly surrounded it. One listened to his score, and could not help remembering the stocky figure, the boyish face, the laughter of the man as he talked of everything in heaven or earth on a street corner one midnight last Summer in Paris.

"Pacific 231" was not the only novel offering of an uncommonly interesting program. Mr. Damrosch played, also for the first time here, Bernardino Molinari's orchestration of the piano piece of Debussy, "L'Isle Joyeuse." It is a good instrumentation, keeping very closely to the original text, yet coloring it skillfully and in the Debussyan manner; and it is beautiful music, a little sensual, in the Watteau manner; music that might have been wafted from the island of Cythera.

The performance of the symphony was in Mr. Damrosch's familiar vein, distinguished by his love and native enthusiasm for the immortal score and by a frequent absence of nuance, crispness of attack, finish of detail. He took certain passages at his own sweet tempi, which he has always done, and doubtless always will. The tempo at the opening of Vaughan Williams's Fantasie, which is a little too long for perfection of form, but which we would fain were an hour or two longer—it is so beautiful and of the "moyen age"—was faster than we have had from other conductors. The same thing was true of the earlier pages of Honegger's piece, as compared with readings of Mr. Kussewitsky heard by the writer in Paris and Boston. The Damrosch performance was, in fact, somewhat in the circus manner. But a man runs a great risk when he writes a symphonic movement about a locomotive. He invites sensationalism and perhaps he himself is not wholly innocent of it.

FLORENCE MULFORD SINGS.

A pleasant afternoon was spent at Aeolian Hall yesterday listening to Florence Mulford, contralto, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera Company. The competence of the singer, except for audible half-breaths, called for respectful attention. In the classics, Beethoven's "Song of Penitence" fell with particular grace on the ear; the Handel Aria was somewhat breathless, but better Handel than many singers of the day can compass. For this reason Mme. Mulford's Brahms had much of beauty and, especially in "O wüsst' ich doch den weg zurück," had more sincerity than the French group, which was least in harmony with her individuality, because more artificial.

The uninterrupted contact was resumed with the American songs, recalling in this instance the reality and tenderness of the best English source; they were all worth hearing, as sung by Mme. Mulford. Two of them were by Richard Hageman, who accompanied and who shared the applause, and a "Serenade" in the Spanish style was by John Alden Carpenter.

The contralto was warmly applauded and received a bank of chrysanthemums and other flowers.

Otto H. Kahn to Be Host at His Home Tomorrow Night.

Otto H. Kahn will give a dinner in honor of Firmin Gemier, who is soon to begin an engagement here with his Paris company, on Sunday night at his home, 1,100 Fifth Avenue. Mr. Kahn is Honorary President of the committee which invited M. Gemier and the French National Theatre to visit America.

Among those who will be present are James K. Hackett, Lee Shubert, E. F. Albee, David Belasco, Arthur Brisbane, Senator Royal S. Copeland, Paul D. Cravath, Walter Damrosch, Morris Gest, Murray Hulbert, Robert Underwood Johnson, Robert Edmond Jones, Jesse L. Lasky, ex-French Consul General Gaston Liebert, J. Hartley Manners, Gilbert Miller, Augustus Thomas, Hendrik Willem Van Loon, George W. Wickersham and Adolph Zukor.

M. Gemier and his company attended last night's performance of "The Miracle" at the Century. On Monday the French director will address the faculty and students of Columbia University and will be guest of honor at a reception at the Faculty Club.

Fokine Judgment Is Reversed.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court reversed yesterday a judgment for $1,500 obtained by Michel Fokine, Russian dancer, against Jacob J. Shubert for a balance due on a contract by which he was to get $2,000 for training the ballet in "The Rose of Stamboul." The court ruled that Shubert was justified in canceling the contract because of a temperamental outburst by Fokine during a rehearsal.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"God Bless Our Home," formerly known as "Poor Richard," is in rehearsal under the direction of Robert Milton and will open in Baltimore on Nov. 17. The play is a comedy by Philip Barry, and the cast will include Richard Bird, Olive Tell and Katharine Alexander.

FISK JUBILEE SINGERS CHARM IN TOWN HALL

Had a supreme musician sought ideal expression for the Eve of All Saints, he might have combed this country and found none fitter than the Hallowe'en program of American negro "spirituals," sung with haunting beauty at the Town Hall last night by the Fisk University Jubilee Quintet. The spirit of these songs has flamed out again from the same quarter whence the first jubilee singers went round the world more than fifty years ago.

The present Fisk party, heard abroad last year and now brought here by Professor Samuel C. Fairley, includes James A. Myers, tenor, leader and spokesman; Carl J. Barbour, second tenor; Mrs. Myers, contralto, who is not a soloist, but a strange potent voice in the blended and enriched ensemble; Horatio O'Bannon, baritone, and Ludie D. Collins, bass. The two end men, giant figures both, carried the bulk of melodious refrains, high and low.

"These jubilee songs," the negro leader explained to 1,500 hearers, "have been variously called folksongs or spirituals. They are the true expression of human passions, songs of love, of suffering, of despair. There have never been written, I think, any negro songs of hate, violence or revenge."

Perhaps, most remarkable, aside from "Steal Away" and "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," of the famous old jubilee pieces that opened and closed last evening, was the performance midway in the bill, by singers "to the manner born," of Harry T. Burleigh's version of "Deep River." It had the real folksong essential of tribal or mass feeling, as a mingled cry of burdened souls, and the audience was moved to long applause.

Another local musician's arrangement was Frank La Forge's of "Little Star," made for this quintet. A traditional lullaby was mistakenly credited in the programme to Brahms. Indeed, the printed list was put aside repeatedly, as when the tenor in Foster's "Kentucky Home" was encored with "Carry Me Back to Ole Virginia," followed by "Golden Slippers" for second tenor, and "Go Down Moses," hummed to a bass solo. The later songs were varied with readings by James Myers from the negro poet, Paul Lawrence Dunbar.

Mischa-Leon in Song Recital.

Mischa-Léon, who gave a recital at Aeolian Hall last evening, sings French songs better than any others; he is at home in the language and has caught the style to good effect, but the same methods do not apply to English songs and become monotonous by the time the German group is reached; the sentimental stop is too much in evidence.

It was a relief when he changed to the dramatic vein and allowed his voice to ring out to its full extent. He is an agreeable and persuasive young singer and infuses much warmth into his songs.

TWO HIGH OFFICERS IN SPANISH PRISONS

Thousands Called to Colors.

In consequence of the natives' rising and the ensuing sharp fighting, the Spanish army in the field called for strong reinforcements. Tens of thousands of troops were hurriedly dispatched from the peninsula. Many barracks were emptied, necessitating the calling up for a period of military training of thousands who were heretofore exempted from active service owing to unfitness.

The losses during the fighting in the western section of the Spanish zone protectorate have been unusually heavy since the beginning of September. The military hospitals throughout Spain have been crowded with wounded, while many private buildings have been transformed into hospitals. Meanwhile, in and out of Spain, former political leaders have taken advantage of General Primo de Rivera's absence from the country to begin an agitation. Copies of letters from several of these former leaders have been passed around among the public with the intention of creating an atmosphere favoring the resumption of a civil government.

The Ateneo (Free University of Madrid), which is the centre of activities of the more radical elements among politicians and intellectuals, maintained a complete silence for several months, but this week it announced it would hold an assembly for the election of a new governing body. A large number of members gathered on Wednesday evening to participate in the voting, but they found the Ateneo occupied by the police, while the surrounding streets were strongly patrolled. The meeting and election were postponed.

Earlier in the week a dinner was organized ostensibly for the purpose of congratulating Professor Pedro Saenz on his attitude at the opening exercises of the university. It was believed by many, however, that the gathering was intended as a political manifesto against the military directorate. Many leading politicians announced they would attend, including Marquis de Alhucemas, former Premier; Melquiades Alvarez, former President of the Chamber of Deputies; Nieto Alcala-Zamora, former Minister of War, and Lieut. Gen. Damaso Berenguer, also former Minister of War and High Commissioner to Spanish Morocco.

Two of the expected guests failed to appear, while General Berenguer arrived only in time for the dessert and the speeches. During the dinner the room was invaded by the police, who, when the orators made inciting remarks construed as an appeal to General Berenguer to take the lead in overthrowing the military dictator, started clearing the place. Several Radical leaders were arrested and taken to jail.

General Berenguer, however, left the room quietly. Nothing was permitted to be published regarding the banquet or the arrests, but the story, somewhat embroidered, spread quickly throughout Madrid. It was rumored that General Berenguer was to be punished for his part in the affair. The attitude of officers of several branches of the army, supposed to be among General Berenguer's adherents, was discussed in various circles. Nothing has been reported to have happened, however, since the dinner incident.

Spain Gives Up Seven Years' Gain.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TANGIER, Oct. 31.—No surprise has been occasioned here by news of the evacuation by the Spaniards of Sheshuan, which already had been begun by the withdrawal of outlying posts. To have attempted to keep open more than thirty miles of communication by a single road through an enemy country would have been an impossible task.

When the Sheshuan forces are withdrawn and the few remaining posts that fall outside the portion of the zone which Primo de Rivera means to hold are evacuated, the occupied part of the western Spanish zone will be exactly that of 1917 with the exception of the small district of Fondak which the Spaniards took later. The entire results of seven years of strenuous warfare and vast expenditure will have been abandoned.

Evacuation of posts in other districts is progressing favorably, largely owing to the adoption of the policy of ransom. The Jabala tribes are not desirous of taking prisoners who are difficult to house and feed and thus their ransom is easily arranged. Garrisons are often permitted to withdraw, sometimes with their arms, on terms which include large sums of money and not infrequently the abandonment of all stores.

In the case of one important post it is reported the Spaniards, in order that the garrison should march out with its arms, supplied the enemy with a number of new rifles equal to that which the Spanish soldiers were allowed to take away, and there has been less fighting in the western sector for as the Spaniards withdraw to the plains the Jabala tribes have fewer opportunities for attack. The Spaniards will shortly be back upon the permanent line they mean to occupy, when no doubt negotiations will begin with the local tribes.

During this last month native agents have been passing between Tetuan and the Rif, but Abdel Krim's proposals remain impossible to accept. Withdrawal of the Spaniards from such extensive territory and the losses inflicted by the enemy in men and material have completely turned the heads of the Rifs. The Jabala tribes are anxious for peace and it should not be difficult to come to terms with them, but the Rif still demands absolute independence. The Anjera tribe still continues to waver, but so far, with the exception of small acts of aggression has not committed itself. Spanish authorities are offering these tribesmen very advantageous terms to remain loyal.

MANY FOES BATTLE ON GRIDIRON TODAY

TEAMS NEARING TOP FORM

Majority Are Farther Advanced Now Than at the Same Time in Any Previous Season.

The arrival of November finds a different football world this year than it has encountered in the past. November is used to finding the leading elevens just swinging into full stride with the final drive for perfection still ahead, but this season the abundance of big games early in the campaign has brought the machines along with greater rapidity than usual and in consequence they have been rolling forward with speed for some weeks. They are not expected to reach their maximum momentum until the end of this month, but the speed at which they are traveling now is enough to cause opponents to heap the fuel higher and get up more steam in order to keep pace.

Columbia had to get going three weeks ago when it faced Penn. It had to keep moving right along for Williams last week and today it can't let down with Cornell to be met. Yale also has been striding along for something over three weeks with Dartmouth and Brown as its last two opponents and the Army looming up as the opposition for today. Pennsylvania, unbeaten and untied, with Columbia and Virginia successfully and successively passed, moved right along today against Lafayette, another unbeaten and untied team which has just come through the fire of Bucknell and W. and J. with its record intact. Penn State, beaten in its last two starts by Georgia Tech and Syracuse, will meet the Navy, which has suffered three straight reverses from Marquette, Princeton and West Virginia Wesleyan. Dartmouth, having just faced the attacks of Yale and Harvard on successive Saturdays, must go on against Brown. And so there i sno letup in the strenuous campaigns and the machines must roll on with no decrease in their pace.

Besides these games there are others this afternoon that will attract a great deal of attention. Syracuse, which with Lafayette and Pennsylvania forms the trio of teams in this section of the country which have suffered neither defeat nor tie this year, faces a possible but improbable defeat today with Pitt as an opponent. Princeton will have no easy task against Swarthmore, although the Tigers should win. Harvard will have a chance to save its stars for the Princeton game a week away when the Crimson meets little opposition in the Boston University eleven this afternoon. Local interest will be divided between the Columbia-Cornell clash at Ithaca and the battle at the Yankee Stadium between N. Y. U. and Fordham.

Columbia Grimly Determined.

Columbia has gone up to the banks of Lake Cayuga with a silent leader. The death of Percy Haughton seems to have added incentive to the Lion's invasion and the Ithacans must face a team today that is inspired to pay tribute to its head coach with a crushing victory. Comparative scores mean little in football, so Columbia's triumph over Williams, conqueror of Cornell, is no sure sign that the Blue and White will rise to greater heights against the Ithacans, but Columbia's showing against both Penn and Williams would lead one to expect a victory today.

Yale and the Army will meet in their annual battle with the scales almost perfectly balanced, but whatever there seems to be in favor of either hangs on Army's side. True the Cadets have beaten no one of consequence this Fall, but their showing against Notre Dame marked them as a powerful aggregation. There is hardly a better centre trio in the East than Garbisch, Farwick and Ellinger, and while Yale should have the better of it at the tackles and ends, the Army's first-string back field will compare favorably with any set that will wear the Blue.

Army had a chance to rest last week and not a single regular was used against Boston University. On the other hand, Yale has just come through two hard battles, one against Dartmouth, in which the Blue had to rally in order to gain a tie, and one against Brown, in which the Blue was buried in apparent defeat until four minutes from the end of the game. These two uphill fights are certain to leave their marks on the Yale team and, in addition, such stars as Lovejoy, Cottle, Bench and others have been forced to watch practice from the sidelines for the greater part of this week. If the Army back field of Wood, Wilson, Gillmore, Yeomans and Harding is able to remain in the game until the end the Army should win, but Yale is far stronger in reserve strength. Under any circumstances it should be a close and interesting battle, with the margin of a touchdown deciding the winner.

The game at Franklin Field between Lafayette and Pennsylvania will eliminate one of the leading contenders from the race for Eastern honors. Neither of the elevens has been defeated or tied this year, and a fight to the finish is expected. Lafayette would be slightly favored under any circumstances, but an injury to Kruez, one of Penn's most dependable backs, gives the Maroon an even greater margin. However, Penn is blessed with great reserve strength and may upset the predictions with another victory to add to its long string.

Dartmouth has had two hard games in the last two weeks, and today another is promised from the Brown eleven, which last week almost scored Yale's first defeat in two seasons. Brown appeared to have the material for a great team when the season started, but the Bears failed to produce the power expected of them during the early games of their campaign. They may have reached their stride with the Yale game a week ago; and in that case Dartmouth may be in for a defeat, although such a thing seems improbable and the Green is expected to win by a margin of two touchdowns at least.

Tigers Are Alert.

Harvard should have the edge on Princeton when these two teams meet a week hence, for the Crimson will be able to rest at Cambridge today, with Boston University an easy opponent, while the Tigers must face a threatening team from Swarthmore. Harvard undoubtedly will use many of its second string, with most of the regulars sizing up the Yale offense and defense at New Haven or the Princeton machine's movements. Princeton had a close call from the Navy and the Navy appears none too strong this year, so Roper probably will take few chances against the Little Quakers from Swarthmore.

The Navy, weak enough at the start of the season and with its strength further decreased by the loss of four stars for deficiency in studies, faces what may be its fourth successive defeat this afternoon when it meets Penn State. The Nittany Lions did not show any great power in losing to Georgie Tech, which in turn was tied by Florida and beaten by Alabama, but last week they did show that they are to be reckoned with when they held Syracuse to a 10-6 score. Penn State has been weakened by the loss of several stars and two crippled teams will meet, but the Middies seem to be weaker.

The East will not have a monopoly of the big battles today, however, for both the West and the South will produce attractions that will be closely followed by football fans throughout the country. In the Western Conference Illinois is expected to meet one of its greatest tests of the season when it faces the husky Iowa eleven. The Hawkeye line will outweigh the Illini forwards some fifteen pounds to the man, but behind the Illini line will be a battering-ram that seems to be able to break his way through any sort of opposition and Red Grange is expected to carry Illinois closer to the Big Ten title. Michigan and Minnesota will furnish another big spectacle in the West, while Chicago meets Purdue and Indiana plays Northwestern in other games with a bearing on the conference championship.

IOWA WILL MAKE TITLE BID TODAY

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—What probably will be the most serious threat to Illinois's bid for the 1924 football championship of the Western Conference will thrill thousands of spectators in the new $1,700,000 stadium at Champaign tomorrow when Iowa will take its turn in attempting to stop Harold (Red) Grange, sensational halfback.

The battle will be a struggle between teacher and pupil. Bert Ingwersen, coach of the Iowans, was a star player under Robert Zuppke, the Illinois coach, in his undergraduate days at Illinois and later coached the yearling teams there. Ingwersen's experience in handling the freshmen teams two years ago enabled him to get a good line on Grange, then a freshman star and now the centre of the Illinois attack.

The Hawkeyes, recalling their near success in stopping Grange last year, have set their powerful 200-pound line for this combat and are generally conceded to be capable of stopping Grange if any team in the Conference can. Iowa upset the slashing runs of Grange last year, Illinois escaping with a 9 to 6 victory. The Hawkeyes will start practically the same line-up against Grange tomorrow.

The Iowa eleven was tied by Ohio State at the start of the season, but since then the Hawkeyes have shown considerable improvement, and as proof they walloped Minnesota a week ago.

Three other important conference games will be decided tomorrow, with Michigan playing Minnesota at Minneapolis, Chicago taking on Purdue at Stagg Field and Northwestern making its bid for a Big Ten victory against Indiana at Evanston. Wisconsin will take a day off, while Ohio State meets Wooster at Columbus.

Michigan's amazing comeback against Wisconsin a week ago stamps the Wolverines as favorites to win from Minnesota, which was defeated, 13 to 0, by Iowa last week. The strength the Wolverines displayed against Wisconsin makes them the choice, but the Gophers always are dangerous when tackled in their own camp.

Coach Stagg of the Maroons seems to be "fearing" Purdue in the usual manner of past years, but he does not propose to take any chances of injuring his players as he has his eye on the Illinois game, which will be decided in Chicago a week later. Purdue promises to be no set-up, however, and the eleven is determined to make a supreme effort to upset the Maroons and end the long string of Chicago victories.

Northwestern has not won a conference game in two years and faces a desperate foe in Indiana. The Hoosiers fell before the attack of Chicago, but earlier in the season displayed considerable scoring power. The game is considered a toss-up, although Northwestern revealed extraordinary strength in defeating the Michigan Aggies a week ago.

SYRACUSE TO FACE PITTSBURGH ELEVEN

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 31.—Jock Sutherland and his Pittsburgh Panthers and Chick Meehan and his unbeaten Syracuse eleven had short workouts in the Archbold Stadium this afternoon in preparation for their battle here tomorrow afternoon. More than 15,000 are expected to see the game.

Coach Sutherland intimated that he might make one or two last-minute changes in his backfield. Coach Meehan announced that Gus Rugg had won the right guard berth from Levy and that this would be the only change in the line-up of the Orange.

The probable line-up:

SYRACUSE.		PITTSBURGH.
Noble	L. E.	Sauer
Waldorf	L. T.	Wissinger
Bayley	L. G.	Frank
Fivaz	C.	Johnson

MISSOURI IS FAVORED.

KANSAS CITY., Mo., Oct. 31.—Tomorrow promises to be an epoch-making day for Missouri or Nebraska in the Missouri Valley Conference football race. While eight conference teams are scheduled to swing into action, eclipsing all others in interest will be the annual clash between the undefeated Tigers of Old Missouri, conquerers of Chicago and the Nebraska Cornhuskers at Lincoln. Missouri rules a slight favorite because of the fact that thus far this season its goal line has been crossed only once. However, the Cornhuskers, always formidable foes, are conceding nothing to the invaders.

Second interest is the clash between Iowa State and the Kansas Aggies at Manhattan. Both teams hold decisions over the Kansas Jayhawkers and appear about evenly matched.

80,000 TO SEE YALE PLAY ARMY IN BOWL

BENCH LOST TO THE BLUE

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 31.—When the Army and Yale meet tomorrow in their twenty-fourth football controversy, 80,000 fans will fill the Bowl to overflowing. More persons than ever before have come here apparently expecting that the Army and Yale would not crowd the oval enclosure, but they have found an even keener crush for pasteboards than for the usual Princeton-Yale or Harvard-Yale contests. Tonight extra good tickets brought $50 apiece. The contest tomorrow will start at 2:30.

The game will bring many military men of prominence to this city, including representatives of the War Department, graduates of the Military Academy and officers of the First and Second Corps Area. Secretary of War John W. Weeks will view the game from the reservation of Major Gen. Fred Sladen, Superintendent of the Military Academy. Maj Gen. James G. Harbord, who was in command of the marines in France, and Brig. Gen. Marvern Hill Barnum, commander of Camp Devens, will be the guests of honor at a meeting of the Association of the Army of the United States here tomorrow night and will remain over for the football game.

Betting went back from 10 to 9 on the Army to even terms this evening. Few West Point alumni figured in the wager placing, but the Army end was taken lustily by impartial New Yorkers as a business proposition. This morning the visiting Army rooters offered slight odds, but when they found Yale rooters willing to place bets at even terms they took advantage of the more favorable betting conditions.

Bunnell to Run Team.

Yale's playing has slumped somewhat this week; five players are more or less injured, and tonight it was announced that an experienced field general, Philip Bunnell of Scranton, would run the team. Eddie Bench, who has campaigned Yale's progress through the uphill finishes against Georgia, Dartmouth and Brown, has not recovered from his attack of charley-horse, and Trainer George Conners refused to give his consent to using the first-string quarterback tomorrow. Bunnell has replaced him in every game this season, except the first, when Louie Wienecke was given a tryout. Bunnell officiated in the quarterback rôle for the freshmen last year and starred for two seasons at Mercersburg.

While Luman, end, and Halfback Cottle will start the game, they will not be used long. Jack Failing and Ted Hart will be injected into the entertainment. Henry Scott, whose shoulder was injured in the Brown contest, is not likely to be used. Captain Lovejoy will be started and will play most of the match. His trouble was not injury, but exhaustion due to playing nearly all of every scheduled match this season in his determination to lead his men until victory was assured.

While loyal undergraduate Yale sentiment covered with lightning rapidity every proffered Army wager, critics close to the Yale eleven do not regard the outcome of the battle as even, but believe that the Army should prove a 3-to-2 favorite, not only because of the individual superiority of its players but because of Yale's weakened physical condition.

Record of Previous Games.

No victory over Yale since the World War has been won by West Point in the three games played in the Bowl, although two seasons ago a tie count was registered. Of the twenty-three battles, Yale has won fifteen, five have been ties and the Army has captured three.

This afternoon the elevens held their final practices in the Bowl. Yale taking the gridiron first because of the failure of the Army squad to arrive on time. Under the direction of Head Coach Tad Jones the squad worked an hour in signal rehearsal and punt handling, turning the enclosure over to the Army invaders half an hour before sunset. Until after dark the West Pointers drilled in every variety of tentative practice. They reached their quarters at the Hotel Clark in Derby this noon, came to the Bowl in automobiles and returned to Derby for the night.

Head Coach John McEwan said that he had brought a fighting eleven down to the Bowl, well conditioned, but he refused to predict the outcome. Head Coach Tad Jones said that the Yale team had improved in attack this week and would take up the battle where it left off in the Brown game last week.

YALE.		ARMY.
Bingham	L. E.	Gilbreath
Joss	L. T.	Griffith
Sturhahn	L. G.	Ellinger
Lovejoy	C.	Garbisch
Butterworth	R. T.	Saunders
Luman	R. E.	Fraser
Bunnell	Q. B.	Yeomans
Cottle	L. H. B.	Wood
Pond	R. H. B.	Wilson
Allen	F. B.	Gillmore

CADETS TO FOLLOW TEAM.

Corps Will Depart for New Haven This Morning, Headed by Band.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 31.—The Army football squad left here this morning for New Haven, where the cadets will face Yale in the Bowl tomorrow, with no demonstration at the departure, as the corps of cadets was in quarters and there was no relaxation of discipline and regulation. Tomorrow morning at 6:30 1,000 cadets, headed by the Military Academy Band, will march to the south dock, where they will be ferried across the river to Garrison. There two sections of a special train will be made up and travel north and east over the New York Central and Central New England Railroads, arriving at New Haven at 11 o'clock.

Luncheon will be served to the corps of cadets at the Yale University dining hall. At 1 o'clock the cadets will form on Yale Commons and march to the Bowl. The cadets will entrain at New Haven immediately after the game, returning over the same route, and are due to arrive home at 9:30 P. M. Colonel Merch B. Stewart, Commandant of Cadets, will be in command of the West Point movement on New Haven.

YALE FRESHMEN TRIUMPH.

Beat Princeton Yearlings in Cross-Country Run, 28 to 34.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 31.—The Yale freshman cross-country team, in its first contest of the season today, defeated the Princeton freshmen, 28 to 34, over a three-mile course. The runners finished as follows:

Welles, Princeton, time 17:10; O'Connell, Princeton, 17:10 2-5; H. K. Weir, Yale, 17:14; Berger, Yale, 17:23; Gibson, Princeton, 17:37; Scoville, Yale, 17:45; E. T. Weir, Yale, 17:48; Ingham, Yale, 18:26; Tenny, Yale, 18:32; Wallop, Yale, 18:35; Emerson, Yale, 18:42; Huckins, Princeton, 18:49; Ballou, Yale, 19:04; Speer, Princeton, 18:18; Slade, Princeton, 19:22; Deuel, Princeton, 19:44; Atterholt, Yale, 20:07; Morse, Princeton, 20:40.

Penn Plays Soccer Today.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—The University of Pennsylvania soccer team, intercollegiate champion, will meet the New York University eleven here tomorrow afternoon. The champions have not been defeated this season.

COLUMBIA IS EAGER FOR CORNELL GAME

ITHACANS ARE OPTIMISTIC

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 31.—Cornell and Columbia are ready for their football battle here to-morrow. Both teams are reported in excellent condition, all the players are ready and enthusiasm is running high. There is, however, more hope than optimism on the Cornell campus for the New York eleven is felt to be a little stronger than Cornell, so far as records for the season are concerned, and unless Dobie has brought his charges up to great strength Cornell's string of four consecutive victories over the Lion will come to an end.

If weather conditions are favorable more than 20,000 persons will witness the game. Tomorrow will be home-coming day here and already hundreds of graduates from all sections of the State have arrived for the reunions which will be held tomorrow. A strong east wind tonight carried with it a hint of rain, but the spirits of the alumni will not be dampened and the cry for a Cornell victory is stronger than it ever was.

The Columbia squad of more than forty players and coaches reached its headquarters at Freeville this morning and after lunch motored over to Ithaca. The men rested for a short time and then got into uniform and went out on the field. For more than an hour Coach Withington kept the men busily at work. Signals were run through, plays were rehearsed time after time and the kickers were busy sending long punts down the field. It had been reported that the Columbia punters were weak but their work this afternoon belied that. Koppisch and Kirchmeyer devoted a great deal of attention to this part of the game and both got off consistently long and fast kicks.

The Columbia eleven appeared to be in excellent condition. The plays were run through without a hitch, and all showed a marked willingness for the work. There was a spirit of grim determination about the men that was reflected in their plays and movements.

After the drill Coach Withington said: "Our practice has been interrupted a great deal this week. The loss of Coach Haughton has had its effect, and the game tomorrow will tell just how much and in what direction the team has been hurt most. All the men are in fine physical condition and if the weather is good I look for a close game."

After Columbia had left the field the Cornell varsity came out for a half hour's brisk signal drill and final tuning up on the plays Dobie is counting on. The Ithacans snapped through the play at a lively clip, and they apparently are prime for a strenuous battle. Brigden continued at right end, Molinet was in for a time at right half and Patterson at left halfback.

The probable line-up:

Wager	L. E.	Henderson
Smullen	L. T.	Kearney
Wilberg	L. G.	Morris
Raphael	R. G.	Munns
Price	R. T.	Hill
Manning	R. E.	Brigden
Pease	Q. B.	Islay
Koppisch	L. H. B.	Patterson
Kirchmeyer	R. H. B.	Wade or Molinet
Sesit	F. B.	Whetstone

COLUMBIA STUDENTS LEAVE.

More than 500 Columbia undergraduates and alumni left for Ithaca at 11:45 last night on a special train run by the Lehigh Valley Railroad. They will sit in a special cheering section at today's game with Cornell. The university band did not go on the trip because of the ban placed on music at the game after the death of Percy Haughton. The Columbians will leave Ithaca tonight, reaching New York tomorrow morning.

DARTMOUTH-BROWN ON EDGE FOR BATTLE

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 31.—The Brown squad of thirty-three players went through two light workouts today in preparation for the game against Dartmouth tomorrow. This morning they had a signal drill on the Lebanon High School field, and in the afternoon came up to Hanover, where they kicked and passed long enough to become familiar with the Memorial Stadium Field.

The long punts and drop kicks of Myers and Keefer gave the Dartmouth spectators plenty of cause for worry, as the Green is particularly weak in this department. The Brown squad will be the guests of the town at a special performance in the Lebanon Theatre tonight. Tomorrow morning the Bruins will return to the stadium for another signal drill.

The Green varsity went out to the golf links of the Hanover Country Club today for a signal drill and dummy scrimmage. Following the usual procedure for Friday afternoons, the regulars had a dummy scrimmage with the third team, which used Brown formations. The coaches now feel that their charges are familiar with them, but are still pessimistic over their ability to break them up.

Jesse Hawley has been working hard to perfect a defense that will stop such fleet backs as Keefer, Dickson and Payor. He is satisfied that his fundamental plays are going off smoothly, and he now has been specializing in the new plays that he has devised for tomorrow's big game.

While the coaches of both teams stated tonight that they had not fully decided on the line-up, the men who probably will start are: Dartmouth—Tully and Bjorkman, ends; Holleran and Parker, tackles; Diehl and Smith, guards; Whitaker, centre; Dooley, quarterback; Hall and Oberlander, halfbacks; Leavitt, fullback. Brown—Broda and Stifler, ends; Roman and Sayward, tackles; Metzger and Neubauer, guards; Eckstein, centre; Myers, quarterback; Keefer and Payor, halfbacks; Pohlman, fullback.

In the preliminary game to the big contest tomorrow, the Dartmouth and Brown freshmen battled to a 6—6 tie this afternoon. A march of 60 yards after the first kick-off put the ball on the Brown one-yard line, but the Dartmouth backs could not score. Within a few minutes, however, another long march put the ball over the Brown line. In the fourth quarter a blocked punt on the Green 20-yard line gave the visitors an opportunity to tie the score. Each team failed to get the extra point. Two old rivals met today and each starred for his team—McPhail of Dartmouth, former Exeter captain, and Randall of Brown, former Andover captain.

PRINCETON READY FOR SWARTHMORE

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 31.—Coach Bill Roper will start his strongest outfit against Swarthmore tomorrow in an effort to get his offensive working smoothly and to allow the men who will face Harvard and Yale to work together once more in actual competition before the opening of the Big Three series Nov. 8. He said today that the men were all in condition to play and that he would not send any of his veterans to watch Yale and the Army fight it out, as was rumored.

There are still several doubtful positions in the Tiger line-up and Roper wants to give the closely matched men a final opportunity to show their ability before settling on the team that will face Harvard.

With three exceptions the line-up tomorrow will be the same as that which started against Notre Dame. John Davis seems to have beaten the veteran Howard for right guard, while Tom Dignan and Ted Williams have taken the places of Prendergast and Charlie Caldwell. The coaches are particularly interested in Williams's work, as he will act as field general, and if his performance is satisfactory, probably will run the team against Harvard. Although without quarterback experience before this Fall, he has taken hold very well and gets a good deal of drive into the team.

If the Tigers get away to a safe lead it is highly probable that Roper will send in his second string men in order to give them more seasoning before the big games. Ed McMillan is practically certain to alternate with Bartell at centre and Red Howard will be given a chance to win back his berth from Davis. Both substitute tackles, Rosengarten and Baldwin, are in shape to play, while Sax Tillson and Sid Legendre will relieve Stout and Drews before the afternoon is over.

The coaches have been trying various backfield combinations this week in an effort to get more speed into the attack. During the Notre Dame game the Tiger ball carriers were regularly stopped at the line of scrimmage and Roper is determined to get faster starting men if they can be found.

Charlie Weekes has recovered the regular place he held all through the early season by virtue of his speed, and Williams has been promoted for the same reason. Dignan will do the kicking and line bucking with Gibson completing the backfield as the defensive and interference specialist.

The Tigers will line up with Stout and Drews, ends; Beattie and Gates, tackles; Hills and Davis, guards; Bartell, centre; Williams, Gibson, Dignan and Weekes, backs.

NAVY ELEVEN IS READY.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 31.—Undismayed by defeat in three of its four games this season by deprivation of the services of four valuable players through scholastic restrictions, the Navy is looking forward to a hard game against Penn State tomorrow.

The team went through signals and formations in a snappy manner this afternoon, while the members of the regiment of midshipmen shouted and sang encouragement from the stands. The student body is standing by the team loyally and expects it to come through with honors. Both of the regular tackles, Wickhorst and Stolz, who have been out of practice on account of injuries this week, were in the workout this afternoon.

C. C. N. Y. PLAYS HAMILTON.

Coach Parker and twenty-one City College football players left yesterday for Clinton, where the Lavender eleven will meet Hamilton this afternoon. A student demonstration in which the college band participated served as the final send-off from the Stadium.

A strenuous week's practice has rounded the local team into shape and it should present an even better exhibition than it did in beating Rhode Island State last week. Injuries may slow the Lavender up a bit, however.

The only basis for comparison between the two teams is their respective games with Stevens, which City College defeated, 15 to 0, and Hamilton likewise by the score of 14 to 6.

C. N. Y.		Hamilton.
Tubridy	L. T.	Yates
Naiman	L. E.	Bookhout
Seidler	L. G.	Williaman
Dreiband	C.	S. Stanley
Packer	R. G.	Thomas
Washer	R. T.	Olmsted
Raskin	R. E.	Kinlock
Plaut	Q. B.	R. Stanley
Cohen	R. H. B.	Stackhouse
Meisel	R. H. B.	Barbeson
Cottin	F. B.	Towne

PRINCETON IN SOCCER TIE.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 31.—The fine goal guarding of Colebrook enabled the Princeton soccer team to hold Haverford to a tie here today, 1 to 1, in a hard-fought game which went to two extra periods. Captain Thomas scored for the visitors on a free kick, and late in the second half Charlie Davis tied it up for the Tigers by a pretty drive from the side.

The line-up:

PRINCETON (1).		HAVERFORD (1).
Davis	O. L.	Willeys
Gay	I. L.	Ball
Rivas	O. R.	Barton

Goals—Thomas and Davis.

FORDHAM AND N. Y. U. READY FOR BATTLE

ELEVENS IN FINAL DRILLS

Violet's Inexperienced Backfield Will Receive Test—Maroon to Present Full Strength.

Fordham and New York University will hold the centre of the football stage here today when these two rivals meet for the fifth time. The contest will be staged at the Yankee Stadium, starting at 2 o'clock. With Columbia playing away from home, and no out of town attractions to cause a conflict, a large gathering is expected. In the four games between the two rivals Fordham has won three, N. Y. U. taking last season's affair by the one-sided score of 20 to 0. New York University is undefeated so far this year, while Fordham showed surprising strength in holding Holy Cross to a 13-0 score last week. The teams should take the field on nearly even terms.

Coach Thorp's Violet warriors completed their preparations for today's clash by holding a light workout at the Yankee Stadium yesterday afternoon. The team was sent through long signal drill and the backs were coached in kicking off and punting. The entire squad to a man is in perfect condition.

The Violet has several experienced players on the line, but the backfield consists of entirely new men, and although they are faster than last year's backs their quality is still unknown.

Fordham's final practice also was held at the Yankee Stadium. Coach Gargan wished to get his punters accustomed to the wind currents. The team ran through signals in a drill which lasted over a half hour. The Maroon mentor stressed the forward pass, both on the attack and on the defense. Graham, Manning and Stanford were given a long practice on drop kicks, especially from the point-after-touchdown position.

The kickoff was worked on for a short time with Graham and Manning doing the kicking. Graham, Manning, Stanford and Zakszewski were doing the punting and one of the first three will probably get the kicking assignment for today's game. The past week's practice has improved the Maroon attack a great deal and Gargan is confident that his backs will come through when points are needed. Manning will be back in the line-up after having been on the sidelines for several weks. Graham will again run the team on the field, while Woerner and Zakszewski will fill out the backfield. Leary will play his second game for the Maroon at right and Captain Brennen will be back in the line-up at centre. With the exception of Smead, Fordham will be able to present its full strength.

The line-up:

Stanford	L. E.	Howley
Bill	L. T.	Milan
Obester	L. G.	Treacey
Brennen	C.	Kearney
Bruce	R. G.	Skudin
Bissell	R. T.	Braunlik
Leary	R. E.	Hannigan
Graham	Q. B.	Sehres
Woerner	L. H. B.	Holden
Manning	R. H. B.	Bolden
Zakszewski	F. B.	O'Neill

PENN WILL OPPOSE DANGEROUS RIVAL

Absence of Kruez Puts Lafayette on an Even Basis—Crowd of 50,000 Expected.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—One of the most important games in the Penn football schedule will be played on Franklin Field tomorrow afternoon between the University of Pennsylvania and Lafayette College. The kickoff is scheduled for 2 o'clock. Pennsylvania has scored victories over Ursinus, Drexel, Franklin and Marshall, Swarthmore, Columbia and Virginia, while Lafayette has been victorious over Muhlenberg, Pittsburgh, Hobart, Bucknell and Washington and Jefferson. A crowd of between 50,000 and 55,000 is expected to attend.

Both teams have veteran lines that have yielded little to the opposition. Only six first downs have been registered from scrimmage through the Pennsylvania line. Pennsylvania has a strong backfield with Fields, either Leth or Laird, Captain Rea McGraw and Thomas. Kruez, star halfback, will be unable to play. There is a possibility that the coaches will make a last minute change in the quarterback. The passing and snappy signal calling of Andy Thompson last Saturday pleased the coaches. Joe Laird, who played part of the game against Virginia at quarterback, is another possibility.

Craig and Fairchild, the wings should measure up to Berry and Crate, the Maroon ends. Robinson at center, McGinley and Wilson, tackles, and Papworth and Coleman, guards, are all experienced men.

The backfield that Coach McCracken, the 25-year-old mentor of the visitors, will start against Lou Young's aggregation, is regarded by Eastern experts as one of the best in this section. In Kirkleskie, Chicknowski, Gebhardt and Ernest. Lafayette has a quartet of speedy backs, equally capable on the offense and defense.

The Penn team will arrive from Absecon, N. J., where it finished training, tomorrow morning.

PENN.		LAFAYETTE.
Craig	L. E.	Berry
McGinley	L. T.	Duffy
Coleman	L. G.	Brown
Robinson	C.	Booz
Papworth	R. G.	Budd
Willson	R. T.	Ford
Fairchild	R. E.	Crate
Thomas	Q. B.	Ernst
Fields	L. H. B.	Chieknowski
McGraw	R. H. B.	Kirkleskie
Leth or Laird	F. F. B.	Gebhardt

Referee—Victor Schwartz, Brown. Umpire—J. H. Moffatt, Princeton. Lineman—J. B. Price, Ursinus. Field judge—E. S. Land, M. I. T. Time of periods—15 minutes.

SOCCER DRAWING TODAY.

Thirty-six Clubs Survive for Second Round of National Cup Play.

The draw for the second round of the National Challenge Cup qualifying competition will be made today with thirty-six clubs remaining in the running for the championship soccer trophy. With the second round these clubs will be reduced to four in each section, Eastern and Western, and the survivers will enter the open competition together with the twenty-four clubs that were granted exemption from the earlier rounds of play.

Entries for the Amateur Challenge Cup competition have closed. The Fleisher Yarn Football Club, winner of the title last season, has turned its attention to professional soccer and will not defend the title this year. Seventy-six clubs have filed entries, however, and the draw for the first round will be made today at Pittsburgh, where the committee will be in session.

For the first time the Amateur Challenge Cup will be sought by a group of college players, as the Alumni Association of the University of Pennsylvania has entered the competition. It is the first time that an entry of such a body has been received for any of the open cup competitions conducted by the United States Football Association, and if this team's venture should meet with any kind of success, officials of the governing body expect that more collegiate teams will enter.

HARVARD WILL USE SUBSTITUTES TODAY

DUNKER FACES FIRST TEST

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 31.—Those who have been following Harvard football this season will be surprised tomorrow when Bob Fisher's varsity trots out on the field against Boston University. Two days ago the Crimson head coach, who has been looking for better end rushers all Fall, decided to try out Ernie Camache, who for seven weeks or more has been playing centre, on one of the wings.

Gamache will be at left end tomorrow. Last season he was a promising prospect and was the man picked for varsity centre at the start of the present season. He did not go ahead much faster than Holber and Able, however, but he has been so active down the field under kicks, and also in interference, that Fisher thinks he may make a good end by the close of the season.

It will be Heinie Dunker's first game of the season, and it is not likely that he will play the game through. C. Bradford, Daley and Kilgour probably will not play at all, but Harvard has substitute guards in Daniell and Laimbeer. Sambroski is back in the game after a long layoff. He has played two seasons of varsity football and is a very handy backfield substitute. Maher, who will do the kicking, is a very shifty back and his punting is unusually good.

It is Fisher's intention to try out his complete string of substitutes tomorrow and it is doubtful whether, under any circumstances, he will use Hammond, Miller and Gehrke in the backfield. Cheek and Zarakov both will be ready by Tuesday to get in trim for the Princeton game.

Ed Thorp of De La Salle will referee the football game between the Seventh Regiment team of this city and the Third Army Corps eleven of Baltimore at the Polo Grounds on Tuesday, according to an announcement made by officials of the Giants yesterday. J. Wall of Boston College has been selected as umpire of the contest while Eddie Butler of Cornell has been designated as linesman.

The Seventh Regiment squad is being directed by Head Coach Foley, a former star linesman at Georgetown University. He is being assisted by Major Smith Brown and Captain Al King as line coaches with Goldie White in charge of the ends and Lieutenant Benson directing the work of the backfield candidates. Several college players of recent years are included in the Seventh Regiment squad.

Stevens Prep Eleven Wins.

Stevens Prep School's football eleven defeated the Kingsley School team yesterday on the latter's gridiron at Essex Fells, N. J., by a score of 13 to 6. Mundy scored the two touchdowns for Stevens in spectacular runs. Croft, with a 30-yard run, made the touchdown for Kingsley.

SHIRTS : IN THE NEW YORK MANNER

"Funny thing about evening clothes—"

BECAUSE of their silk linings and luxurious tailoring they should be the most comfortable clothes in a man's wardrobe. When they're not, it's usually because of a rebellious dress shirt.

A dress shirt must have stiffening, but when it's applied only where necessary—as it is in Manhattans—you're never conscious of it.

LEATHERWOOD WINS ELLICOTT HANDICAP

PARKE SCORES A DOUBLE

Special to The New York Times.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 31.—Running out in front from the fall of the flag, Leatherwood, three-year-old gelded son of Light Brigade and Dorna, owned by B. Harding and trained by J. B. Smith, this afternoon won the Ellicott Claiming Handicap for all ages, the featured number on the card at Laurel Park. Ivan Parke had the mount and the winner was the public choice at odds a little less than 4 to 1. Leatherwood paid $9.90 for a $2 ticket. The race was worth $1,100 to the owner of the winner, and the time was 1:13 1-5.

Ivan Parke carried off the riding honors of the day. In addition to piloting Leatherwood in the handicap, he brought Rock Bottom home a winner in the second. He was second once, third once and unplaced on his fifth mount.

Leatherwood, which was beaten a neck by Walter J. Salmon's Carlton in their last outing, reversed the decision this afternoon. Parke got Leatherwood away very fast from the post and opened a length on Leonard G., increasing his advantage the further they went. Parke shook the gelding up a bit in the stretch run and he had speed in reserve at the end, going away to beat Leonard G. by three lengths. The latter tired slightly right at the end and L. Lang had to punish him to hold the place by a length from Wraith.

Miss Greble Wins Opener.

Nine paraded for the opening number, a five-furlong dash for maiden two-year-old fillies, and it proved an easy victory for J. A. Buchanan's Miss Greble, chestnut daughter of Jim Gaffney and Blaze o' Gold. Brouning had the mount and he took the filly away fast when the break came. She opened up a good lead and had all the others staggering trying to keep within hailing distance. Miss Grebel held on well to win by five lengths from E. B. Jacobs's Rin Tin Tin, which tired and only took the place by a neck from the Glen Riddle Farm's Red Hawk. The latter was outrun in the early stages to come fast in the stretch and take the short end by half a length from the Belair Stud's Flivver. The race was run in 1:01 3-5 and the winner was the 2-to-1 favorite, Rin Tin Tin being the second choice in the wagering.

Rock Bottom, Mrs. A. Swenke's four-year-old gelding, under top weight of 115 pounds, was the winner of the claiming race at a mile and a sixteenth for three-year-olds and upward, beating the odds-on favorite, Mrs. M. E. Williams's Dernier Sou, by two lengths in a hard finish.

Rock Bottom was held closely behind the pace, which Trooper cut out for most of the journey. When Trooper began to tire Rock Bottom drew away, but Parke had to shake him up a bit in the last sixteenth to hold Dernier Sou safely. The latter had four lengths on Trooper at the finish. Dernier Sou was slow to get going, but was gaining on the winner at the end.

S. Louis's Can't Say No graduated from the maiden class in the mile claiming dash for the two-year-olds, easily beating nine others. Maiben held the bay son of Skyrocket under stout restraint to the turn into the homestretch and drew away when called upon to win by a couple of lengths from G. W. Foreman's Bryndear. The latter forced the pace, but tired when challenged by the winner. The Liliane Stable's Young April showed the way to the field, weakening in the final drive and only gaining the short end by half a length from Villager.

Only five went to the post for the claiming race for three-year-olds and upward over the course of a mile and a half. It resulted in defeat for M. J. O'Leary's Fancy Free, the short-priced favorite. After showing the way for most of the long journey the mare stopped in the final furlong to finish out of the money. The winner was F. H. Smith's old gelding The Archer, by Uncle Busy Bess, which was well rated close to the pace by Breuning. In the stretch drive The Archer drew out, finished gamely and held Bounce safely. Old Faithful took the short end of the purse by a length and a half from Fancy Free.

Bonaparte Is Victor.

The gallop of a mile and seventy yards, restricted to the three-year-olds, was a victory for A. C. Bostwick's Bonaparte, the son of Troutback and Bramble Rose being well handled by Scoble. Bonaparte took the lead with the rise of the barrier, made all the pace and won by a length from E. F. Whitney's Joy Smoke. Scoble was alert at the barrier, saved ground with his mount and rode him out vigorously when challenged by Joy Smoke. P. Walls, who had the mount on the latter, was kicked in the leg by Ballot Brush at the post but was not seriously injured.

Mrs. F. Farrar's five-year-old gelding Gondolier won his second straight victory at the meeting when he beat seven others over the course of a mile and a sixteenth in the closing number. He was held behind the early pace, saved ground when the others went wide around the final turn and held on gamely to beat Mrs. A. Swenke's Royal Duck by half a length. Prince K. took third money.

UNITED HUNTS MEET WILL OPEN TODAY

150 AT ANNUAL DINNER

Prominent Sportsmen Attend Initial Function of Association at Hotel Biltmore.

At Belmont Park this afternoon the United Hunts Racing Association will hold the first day's racing of its two-day Autumn meeting, the second to be held on Tuesday. Racing will begin both days at 2:30 o'clock, and special trains will be run on the Long Island Railroad, leaving the Pennsylvania Station at 12:30 and 1:40 P. M. Many prospective visitors to Belmont Park will prefer to go by motor from New York, and the association has mapped a route which avoids railroad crossings. This is by way of the Fifty-ninth Street bridge to Hillside Avenue, to 188th Street or Flushing Avenue, to Hollis Avenue, Springfield Avenue, Hempstead Boulevard and thence to the race course.

As these two days will provide the last opportunities to witness thoroughbred racing in the vicinity of New York it is expected that large crowds will attend, more especially because of the splendid entry that has been received for the opening day, which gives assurance of a fine card for the holiday sport.

For both days there will be cards of six races, the opening program having two steeplechases listed, while that for the holiday also has two events through the field. The feature for this afternoon will be the Temple Gwathmey Memorial Steeplechase Handicap for four-year-olds and upward over the course of about two miles and a half, and among the eighteen named to go are some of the greatest cross-country performers in training. There is an equally large entry for the first half of the Double Event, which is for hunters at about three and one-half miles over a timber course.

Star Entries in Feature.

Included in the field for the Gwathmey Memorial are Guingamp, winner of the $10,000 Woodbine Steeplechase; Saint Savin, conqueror of a good field in the $5,000 steeplechase at Laurel a few days ago; Houyhnhnm, Pirate Gold, Grenadier, Woodley II, Bethany and others which have made cross-country history during the present season.

Lytle, which was a winner of the Grand National Steeplechase a few years ago for Joseph F. Flanagan, has been named for the first half of the Double Event, among others entered being Ormond, Silver Prince, Daybreak, Bulgar and Captain Omar.

The Patchogue for two-year-olds over the six furlongs course has a lot of classy juveniles named. Sweet Ann, Irish Marine, Socrates, Peanuts and others in it are all recent winners in fast time.

The Garden City, at six furlongs for three-year-olds and upward, should result in a clinking race from barrier to wire with such good ones engaged as Skyscraper, Nellie Gray, Leopardess, Fly By, Resolution and others.

The other two races on the flat also have filled with well-matched ones.

150 at First Annual Dinner.

More than 150 men prominent in racing for years gathered together at the Hotel Biltmore last night for the first annual dinner of the United Hunts Racing Association. The assemblage was made up of sportsmen from all sections of the metropolitan district and from Pennsylvania and New England.

The United Hunts Racing Association was organized in 1905 and last night many of its charter members mingled with the younger sportsmen. Its first President was Perry Belmont. The present President of the association is John McEntee Bowman, who sat at the centre table. Others at Mr. Bowman's table were Major August Belmont, Chairman of the Jockey Club; William R. Coe, S. Bryce Wing, Major Gen. Robert L. Bullard, Foxhall Keene, F. Ambrose Clark, R. Penn Smith Jr., R. H. Williams, Stephen Sanford, H. S. Page and Arthur A. Fowler.

President Bowman in his address of welcome to the members recounted the early days of the United Hunts Association from its formation. He stated that the association now has 400 members and said that he hoped that in 1925 the membership would reach 500 and that the books might be closed with a waiting list.

Mr. Bowman expressed the thanks of the association to the Westchester Racing Association for the facilities offered for the United Hunts meeting.

Major Belmont Returns Compliment.

Major Belmont, who in addition to being Chairman of the Jockey Club is President of the Westchester Racing Association, returned Mr. Bowman's compliment by saying that racing was rather indebted to the United Hunts Association for carrying on when the racing associations were out of business. He characterized the United Hunts as a sporting cradle from which have come many of the most prominent thoroughbred racing men of today, and that it was through the instrumentality of the United Hunts that tolerance toward racing was finally built up.

A novel feature of the dinner was the showing of moving pictures, among others being the film of the 1923 Grand National at Aintree, Liverpool, which was won by Sergeant Murphy. The picture follows the progress of the steeplechase classic from the start on over the many jumps to the finish and triumph of Sergeant Murphy, which is now owned by Stephen Sanford, who presented the picture to Mr. Bowman. The vast crowd of spectators was filmed and among the notables picked out were the King of England and the Prince of Wales.

Francis Gallett, young Scottish professional star who has been in charge at the Laurelton Golf Club, Laurelton, L. I., during the past year, has resigned. Gallett will remain in the city during the Winter months, but he may leave the district next Spring unless some opening turns up here. SIX BOXERS AGREE TO ENTER TOURNEY

Kaplan, Paluso, Lombardo, Garcia and M. Dundee Signed for Elimination Title Series.

KRAMER ALSO TO COMPETE

Notifies Commission He Will Be Ready for Trials—McTigue Fails to Apply for License.

The last preliminary detail to insure the proposed elimination tournament to determine a successor to the world's featherweight championship title vacated by Johnny Dundee when the Italian veteran made known his inability to make the class weight yesterday was accomplished by the State Athletic Commission. Following the regular meeting of the boxing governing board, Chairman George E. Brower announced that the six boxers selected by the board had agreed, through their managers, to the terms of the tournament and that five managers had affixed their signatures to contracts for bouts under the terms outlined in the commission's regulations for the tournament.

The sixth contract, that binding Danny Kramer, Philadelphia featherweight, to compete in the tournament, was not signed because Max (Boo Boo) Hoff, manager of Kramer, could not attend the meeting. He was represented by Joe Jacobs, his local representative, who accepted the contract with the announcement that he would forward it to Philadelphia for Hoff's signature.

Jacobs incidentally announced that Hoff had reconsidered his previously announced intention of withdrawing Kramer from the proposed tournament because of previous contracts. Kramer, Jacobs said, will compete and will forfeit his contract for a bout against Kid Kaplan, another entrant in the tournament, which had been signed for Madison Square Garden for Nov. 21.

None of the six boxers recognized as eligibles for the title competition appeared before the commission. Jacobs appeared to look after Kramer's interests; Scotty Montieth was at the meeting representing Kaplan; Leo P. Flynn acted for Lew Paluso, Salt Lake City featherweight; Bob Levy for José Lombardo, Panama boxer, who has been notified to come here; Dick Curley for Mike Dundee of Rock Island, Ill., and Jimmy Bronson and Lou Brown for Bobby Garcia of Camp Holabird, Md.

Draw to Be Made Nov. 7.

The tournament will get under way with the elimination trials among these six boxers on Nov. 21 in Madison Square Garden. With the approval of Frank Flournoy, matchmaker for the Garden, who represented Promoter Tex Rickard at the meeting, the commission set Nov. 7 as the date when the principals in the three bouts will be determined through a draw such as is employed in amateur boxing. At the time of the drawing managers of the boxers entered in the tournament will be compelled to post weight forfeits of $500 each, guaranteeing observance of the clause in the contracts which stipulate that the boxers "must not weigh in excess of 126 pounds."

In outlining the plans for the tournament Chairman Brower announced that the commission had decided upon several alternates, who will be called upon if emergency demands. The names of these substitutes, however, were not made public, the commission having ruled against divulging the names of the alternates unless it was found necessary to enter them in the tournament.

Chairman Brower announced that the tournament would be completed in six weeks from the date of the elimination matches. The semi-finals are to be held three weeks after the eliminations and the final bout will be held three weeks after the semi-finals. Chairman Brower pointed out that injuries to any competitor would not be permitted to interfere with the schedule. In the event a boxer is injured and is unable to compete in the succeeding series of matches, he will automatically become eliminated, Chairman Brower said.

The prospect of difficulty in maintaining the original list of eligible boxers loomed in the enforcement of the commission's recommendation that boxers entering the tournament consent to waive all previous contractual obligations. It developed that several of the boxers had been signed for other matches in different sections of the country, but under the tournament regulations these matches will either have to be abandoned or the boxer affected will have to withdraw from the tournament.

Board to Aid Boxers.

Chairman Brower called attention of the managers to the fact that participation in the tournament was wholly voluntary and in no way compulsory. He promised the influence of the commission in endeavoring to straighten out any difficulties with out-of-town commissions which might arise through the efforts of boxers entered in the tournament to withdraw from matches already contracted for, pointing out, however, that the Empire State authorities would not presume to dictate the cancellation of any bout contract if a promoter declined to release one of the eligibles in the tournament.

Jacobs, speaking for Kramer, announced that efforts would be made to effect the Philadelphian's release from contracts binding him to box Eddie Anderson at Milwaukee on Nov. 5 and Jackie West at Philadelphia on Nov. 10. Dick Curley said he had matched Dundee to box Joe Ritchie at the Laurel A. C., Newark, Monday night and would seek to have the promoters release the Rock Island battler. Jimmy Bronson said he was at present working on negotiations to obtain the release of Garcia from contracts to box Georgie Day at Hartford, Conn., on Nov. 6 and Eddie Anderson at Cleveland on Nov. 14.

Managers Flynn and Montieth announced that several bouts had been accepted for their boxers, but with the understanding that the matches could be rejected if the featherweight tournament were conducted. Lombardo now is enjoying a rest at Panama and has no match in prospect which would interfere with his participation in the tournament.

Chairman Brower announced that the commission had recommended to the License Committee that Frankie Carpenter, Freeport light-heavyweight, and his manager, Henry Bartell, and Jock Malone, St. Paul middleweight, with his managers, Nate Lewis and Tom Walsh, be placed on the ineligible list. Action against Carpenter and his manager followed the Freeport boxer's bout against Mike McTigue, world's light-heavyweight champion, who will be denied a license for the period of a year if the License Committee approves a previous recommendation of the commission.

In the case of Malone, Walsh and Lewis, the commission explained its action was prompted by Malone's appearance in the ring against Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, who is barred here until he consents to defend his title against Dave Shade, California challenger.

Chairman Brower announced the commission had not received an application for a boxer's license from Mike McTigue, and added that the board had not been officially informed of any legal proceedings McTigue contemplated.

Larry Goldberg, boxer, and his manager, Tom Stanley, were before the commission again, Chairman Brower said, on Goldberg's demand that his manager be compelled to render an accounting. Stanley was ordered to render an accounting and Goldberg was instructed to notify the board when the accounting was made.

Walker-O'Hara Bout Canceled.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—A ten-round bout between Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion and Joe O'Hara of Chicago, scheduled for next Wednesday in Milwaukee, has been called off by order of the Wisconsin Boxing Commission.

Johnny Dundee to Make Tour Of Europe; Will Sail Dec. 6

Johnny Dundee, veteran Italian boxer, who at one time held the world's featherweight title and the 130-pound championship belt, has arranged to sail for Europe on Dec. 6 for a tour of England, France, Germany and Italy. Dundee, according to his manager, Charlie Johnston, has booked passage on the liner Olympic. The boxer will be accompanied by his wife and Johnston, who declared that, while no arrangements had been made for European bouts in which the Italian will participate, Dundee will accept matches in London, Paris, Milan and possibly Berlin if Continental promoters submit suitable financial inducements.

SYNDICATE TO BUILD SIX-METER YACHT

Seawanhaka Corinthians Plan New Challenger to Race for Seawanhaka Cup.

A syndicate made up of members of the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club of Oyster Bay will build a new six-meter boat, it was announced yesterday, to try for the honor of being the yacht which will represent the club as challenger in the races next July on the Clyde for the Seawanhaka Cup, now held by the Royal Northern Yacht Club of Glasgow. The Seawanhaka Corinthians sent a challenge some time ago to the Royal Northern Yacht Club which was accepted.

Clinton H. Crane, who has plans under way for a new six-meter to be built by himself in conjunction with Commodore W. A. W. Stewart, will also draw the plans for the syndicate boat. Mr. Crane was the designer of Heron, the six-meter which was chosen for the American team in the last international races and which made an excellent showing in strong breezes.

The Seawanhaka Cup was captured at Marblehead in September, 1922, by Coila III., the noted six-meter which was a member of the British team which came over that year. Coila III. successfully defended the cup against the American challenger Lea the following year in races held on the Clyde following the British-American Cup match on the Solent.

The sale of the New York Yacht Club thirty-footer Countess, by J. H. Dunbaugh to C. Sherman Hoyt, secretary of the Yacht Racing Association of Long Island Sound, was announced yesterday. Mr. Hoyt, who was the helmsman of the American six-meter yacht Paumonok in the British-American Cup match off Oyster Bay, in September, will race Countess on Long Island Sound next season. The terms of the sale were not disclosed but it is said the thirty-footers hold up in value extremely well, as compared to their original cost of $4,000 when built by Herreshoff in 1905.

Countess, which was originally named Maid of Meudon and built for W. D. Guthrie, has raced well under the colors of Captain Dunbaugh, one of her prizes of the past season being the cup won on the New York Yacht Club cruise when Countess defeated Ogden Reid's Lena by three seconds on the thirty-seven-mile squadron run from Newport to the head of Buzzards Bay. In 1923 Countess won the championship of Long Island Sound in the thirty-foot class but finished fifth in the class standing this year, the winner being W. H. Hoffman's Minx.

J. H. Dunbaugh, former owner of Countess, is now part owner with W. H. Hoffman of the New York Yacht Club forty-footer Shawara, purchased some time ago from C. Barnum Seeley. Shawara will be raced in the forty-foot class next season.

RICHARDS AGAIN VICTOR.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 31.—In the seventh day's play of the international tennis tournament here this afternoon Vincent Richards of Yonkers, N. Y., continued his winning streak by defeating Tom Ferrandini. The young international star had a hard task in winning the first set, which his opponent carried to seven-all, the former finally breaking through for a victory at 9—7. Richards had easier sailing in the second and third sets, which he took at 6—2, 6—2.

Miss Mary K. Brown was a victor in the women's doubles. Paired with Mrs. Dudley, the California star defeated the Misses C. and M. Villaurrutia.

W. ZBYSZKO WINS ON MAT.

Gardini and Judson Also Throw Opponents in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—Wladek Zbyszko, Poland; Renato Gardini, Italy, and Frank Judson, America, were the victors tonight in the international heavyweight wrestling tournament, which was resumed after a three days' rest for the grapplers.

Zbyszko threw Oreste Vadalif, Italy, with an arm and leg hold in 24 minutes 47 seconds; Gardini threw Nick Lutz, Notre Dame coach, with a head lock, in 21 minutes 7 seconds, while Judson pinned Reggi Siki, Abyssinia, to the mat in 46 minutes 52 seconds, with a body scissors and wrist lock.

Gardini and Zbyszko will meet in the final match tomorrow night, and the winner will be declared by the State Athletic Commission to be the foremost challenger for the world's title held by Ed (Strangler) Lewis. A bout between Judson and Lutz also is on tomorrow night's program, but the result will have no effect on the commission's decision, Gardini and Zbyszko having piled up the greatest number of points during the tournament.

GOODRICH BEATS COONEY.

Buffalo Lightweight Gets Decision in Pioneer Feature.

Jimmy Goodrich, Buffalo lightweight, won the decision over Danny Cooney of Trenton last night in their ten-round battle, which served as the feature attraction at the special boxing show of the Pioneer A. C. It was a slugging match from start to finish, and in the spirited exchanges and head-to-head action which marked the bout Goodrich proved superior.

In the ten-round semi-final Frankie Fasano, Passaic bantamweight, received the decision over Terry Miller of the East Side. Maxey Rosenbloom won the decision over Jimmy Amato, west side middleweight, in one of the six-round bouts. In the other six-round encounter Yale Okun, former amateur light-heavyweight, carried off the verdict over Jack DeMave.

COLUMBIA BEATS N. Y. A. C.

Captures Encounter by Score of 5 to 2—Princeton Club Wins From Crescent A. C.

The squash tennis season got into full swing yesterday when the third and last of the Metropolitan Squash Tennis League interclub championship tournaments began with eight clubs competing for the Class B title. The Yale, Columbia and Princeton Clubs won three of the matches, while the fourth was left unfinished. The Harvard Club and D. K. E. played only five matches on the courts of the Shelton Apartments, D. K. E. winning three of them and Harvard the two others. The sixth and seventh will be played on Monday.

Yale, which started off in the Class A tournament on Wednesday by making a clean sweep of its matches, showed equal strength in Class B by taking all seven from the Montclair A. C. on the Eli courts. Both clubs put veteran combinations on the courts, but the youthful Harry Wolf, who was promoted to Class A, was missing from the Montclair team. One of the matches went by default and three others were closely contested. Arthur Goldburg led off for Yale and defeated B. H. O'Connor in a hard-fought match at 15—10, 18—17. Jesse Spalding was carried to three games by J. G. Waldron before winning at 7—15, 15—9, 15—10. A. G. Gulliver and C. Halsey met in another close match, the former winning at 18—14, 15—7.

Princeton and the Crescent A. C. were also closely matched, the former winning at 4—3, on the Crescent courts. All three of the Crescent victories were gained by good margins, while Princeton won three of its four victories only after struggles. Edwin Muller and J. C. Tredwell, the No. 1 men, fought through three games before the former won at 6—15, 15—12, 15—8.

Perhaps the hardest fought match of the day's play was that between W. D. L. Starbuck of Columbia and F. F. Loughman of the New York A. C., played on the Columbia University Club courts. Loughman was the winner after Starbuck had been within a point of victory in the second game. The Blue and White star took the first game by a good margin, at 15—9, and led at 14—10 in the second game. A single point would have given him the match, but Loughman squared the score at 14—all and after the game had been set 3 points, took three more, making it seven straight. He then went on to win the third game, at 15—10.

In spite of this defeat, Columbia took the match at 5—2. The only other victory gained by the visiting players was won in three games also, M. M. Sterling defeating J. W. Pulleyn, No. 2 on the Blue and White. One of the matches ended after the first game, James Butler Jr. defaulting to Peter Grimm of Columbia after the latter had won the first game at 18—15.

CZECH ELEVEN WEAKENED.

Loss of Star Handicaps Sparta, Championship Team.

Sparta, the soccer team that has held the championship of Czechoslovakia for the last three years, is not faring so well this season and no longer stands at the top of the list. Several of the players who made the team famous in Central Europe have been forced to quit play and the new men who have taken their places have not shown the dash or brilliance of their predecessors.

Slavia is at the head of the standing and experts rather favor this eleven to come through to the final and even to the championship. In the nine games it has played so far it has won eight and lost one. The eleven that is in second place, representing Viktoria, has played eight games and has won seven, tied one and lost none. In spite of this Slavia is the favorite, for it has met stronger teams than its rival for first place honors, and it has shown a much better attack and defense than has Viktoria, which has become very erratic at times.

McAndless Posts His Forfeit For Title Match With Cutler

David McAndless of Chicago yesterday posted his forfeit to clinch a match with Albert G. Cutler of New York, the champion, for the national junior 18.2 balkline title. McAndless, the eligible challenger, had until Monday to post his forfeit, but decided to act yesterday. Cutler now has ten days in which to accept. The rules stipulate that the match must be played in the city selected by the champion and within thirty days after the completion of the last match. Cutler retained his title in a match against Ary Bos which ended on Oct. 23, and this means that the dates for the coming match would be Nov. 22, 23 and 24. As soon as Cutler accepts the challenge, which he is expected to do next week, terms and other conditions for the games will be discussed. It is know that Cutler favors New York for the match.

ST. JEAN TRIUMPHS OVER HARMON TWICE

Is Victor in National Pocket Billiard Play by 100 to 75 and 100 to 62.

The third and fourth games yesterday in the National Pocket Billiard League championship tournament at Lawler Brothers' Academy resulted in victories for Henry St. Jean, representing Minneapolis, over Charles Harmon of this city. In the afternoon St. Jean defeated Harmon by a score of 100 to 75 in thirty-six innings, the winner making a high run of 10. Harmon's best cluster was 13. St. Jean captured the evening game by a score of 100 to 62 in twenty-three innings, making a high run of 21, against Harmon's best run of 14.

In each game St. Jean went away to an early lead and held the advantage throughout. He gave his most impressive exhibition in the evening contest, when he started with a run of 15, and in the first nine innings scored 34 points while Harmon was collecting 5. In the thirteenth inning St. Jean led his rival by 59 to 6. Harmon picked up some ground in the next three innings, and in the sixteenth session the score favored St. Jean by 74 to 26. Harmon rallied thereafter, but could not overcome the early lead of his rival.

Beats Columbia Junior Varsity Eleven in Stirring Battle.

The Columbia junior varsity eleven met a strong soldier team on Baker Field yesterday and bowed before the Sixteenth Infantry machine's fire, 13 to 0, in a hard-fought game that was filled with thrilling incidents. The infantrymen are undefeated this season so far, but yesterday was their first test against an aggregation of college players and they proved their ability, Coach Grombach rushing in several substitutes in the second half when the Columbia junior team made a long march down the field and seemed on the verge of scoring. However, the replacements held their ground and the Columbia charge was brought to a halt on the infantrymen's 5-yard line.

The soldiers got off to an early lead in the first quarter. A long pass of 30 yards was completed and brought the ball to Columbia's 12-yard line. Stevenson, the fleet back who has been the scoring mainstay in the infantry team's victorious march, then skirted left end for a touchdown on a fake line play. In the second quarter McGovern, who was a tower of strength on the offense all day, intercepted a Columbia pass on his own 20-yard line and sprinted across eight white chalk marks for the soldiers' second touchdown. Stevenson and McGovern provided most of the infantrymen's offensive strength, while Marcus was brilliant as a defensive back.

DOLAN PAPERS NOT FILED.

As far as the record in the office of the clerk of court showed, papers in the $100,000 slander suit which Cozy Dolan plans to bring against Kenesaw M. Landis, Commissioner of Baseball, was not filed in the Federal Court here yesterday. W. J. Fallon, Dolan's attorney, announced a few days ago that the papers would be filed not later than yesterday. At Fallon's office it was said that he had been delayed in starting the action.

FRENCH STAR BEATS HOFF.

In a track meet in Norway recently Andre Mourlon, French sprinting ace, defeated the great Hoff in a 60-meter dash. The time was :06 7-10. Hoff was badly beaten although he got a better start than the Frenchman. In the 200-meter event, however, Hoff got his revenge and easily defeated his rival from France, finishing in 0:22 7-10. Both were off together although another runner in the field made a better start, but Hoff soon was in front and he stayed there, winning by a wide margin with the Frenchman crossing the line in third place.

The meet attracted 6,000 spectators and was held in a rather small town, an indication that Norway is taking to track and field games with a great deal of enthusiasm. It was hoped that Hoff would try to pole vault for the spectators but he refused to do so, saying that two races in one afternoon made a complete program and he did not feel that he could perform very well after that.

MILLIGAN BEATS HAMILTON.

Two of Scotland's leading welterweights, Johnny Brown, champion, and Tommy Milligan, challenger, both of Hamilton, fought their match for the championship in their class recently at Waverly Market, Edinburgh. The contest was at strict class weight, 147 pounds, over the title route of twenty rounds, with substantial side stakes depending on the result. The battle went the full distance, Milligan proving the winner on points.

OPENER IN LOS ANGELES

Will Be Played Nov. 25, 26, 27 and 28—Second in San Francisco Dec. 2, 3, 4 and 5.

Willie Hoppe, the balkline champion, will meet Young Jake Schaefer, the former champion, in two 3,200-point matches at 18.2 balkline in California the latter part of this month and early in December. This announcement was made yesterday by Hoppe, following his return from a brief trip in the Middle West. Hoppe, who has been playing three-cushions almost exclusively since last June, stated that he would be in condition when the time came for the big test at balkline.

Schaefer accepted the ultimatum of the champion to the two matches and under the arrangements, which were satisfactory to both players, the first match, to be played in eight blocks of 400 points each, will be played in Los Angeles on Nov. 25, 26, 27 and 28, and the second 3,200 points in San Francisco on Dec. 2, 3, 4 and 5. Hoppe insisted that the matches be played in different cities, as it will mean that one, Los Angeles, will be neutral territory. San Francisco is the home of Schaefer. Hoppe plans to leave about the middle of this month and to have at least a week on he Coast before going into the match. This will be Hoppe's first big effort since he successfully defended his championship against Edouard Horemans, the Belgian champion, at the Hotel Pennsylvania here last Spring.

Hoppe said that he already had started to get in condition for the balkline tests and that every morning for the past two weeks he had been devoting his time to the playing of balkline. He said that his public exhibitions for the next week at least would be at three-cushions, but that after he had filled those engagements he would settle down to balkline until after the Schaefer match.

Liked His Three Cushions.

"They liked my three-cushions in Chicago and Detroit," Hoppe said, "and I guess I was playing at a good speed. Following my match against Augie Kieckhefer, a first-class three-cushion player, in which I averaged better than one for 400 points, I have reason now to believe that my three-cushion game is as good as that played by any man in the game, and that goes for Bob Cannefax, the champion. I expect to challenge him for a special match, but will wait until after the balkline matches with Schaefer. Upon my return from the Coast I plan to try to arrange a three-cushion match with Cannefax."

The Hoppe-Schaefer balkline matches are the result of a challenge from Schaefer, which was made about three weeks ago. At the time Schaefer posted a forfeit in San Francisco for one 3,200-point match, to be played in his home city. Hoppe, however, would not consent to such an arrangement and immediately notified Schaefer that the match would have to be played in two 3,200-point games, with different cities as the scene of each game. It was not until yesterday that Schaefer informed Hoppe that the terms were acceptable.

Hoppe has arranged to make another trip West next week. His first stop will be Cincinnati, where he will play Jess Lean, a member of the three-cushion league last year, in a 200-point three-cushion match on Tuesday and Wednesday. He also will meet Lean in another 200-point three-cushion match in Indianapolis on Thursday and Friday. He will end his trip on Saturday with an 800-point balkline match against George Sutton in Chicago on Saturday.

Taberski to Play Monday.

Frank Taberski, the former pocket billiard champion, will make his début in the National Championship Pocket Billiard League on Monday afternoon, when he meets Erwin Rudolph of Chicago, last year, of this city, in the first game of a [illegible]-game series at the Fourteenth Street Billiard Academy. This also will be Taberski's first appearance in this city as a New York representative, for this year he has agreed to play for the Fourteenth Street Academy, holders of one of the two league franchises in the Manhattan district. Taberski has been showing brilliant form this season and only a few days ago ran out a 100-point game in two innings, making a run of 44 in the first inning and completing his total with an unfinished effort of 60.

Bob Cannefax, the three-cushion champion, yesterday sent a message from the Middle West to Charles S. Kline of the Strand that he would arrive here one day earlier than he was scheduled in order to get a rest for his match against Tiff Denton, which will be played at the Strand on the afternoon and evening of Nov. 5. This will be Denton's first appearance of the year in a league match here. Cannefax dethroned him for the championship.

MR. MACDONALD RESIGNS.

Before the election in England, Mr. Thomas, a member of the Cabinet, said defiantly that even if the Labor Government were defeated it would not resign. He declared that it would meet the new Parliament with a King's Speech. But evidently he did not speak by the book. The triumph of the Conservatives was so complete that the Government is quickly to make way for its successor, so that Mr. Baldwin may have time to form his new Ministry before Parliament assembles. The Labor Government will hold on a few days, it is reported, only for the purpose of running down and publishing all the facts in regard to the Zinovieff letter. This is very like a post-mortem and much as if the Labor Party wished to stop to pull the weapon out of its own fatal wound; but it is a muddle which somebody ought to clear up, and Mr. MacDonald is the man indicated to do it.

There is no settled constitutional practice requiring the resignation of a Prime Minister when he has been beaten in a general election. For many years the custom was for him to remain in office and to meet Parliament, making his best effort to assume the air that nothing had happened. Then he would be displaced by a positive vote of want of confidence. In recent times the precedents have varied. Disraeli resigned in 1868 without waiting to meet Parliament, and so did Gladstone after his defeat in 1874. Yet the latter Prime Minister had his doubts about the propriety of such a course. "It is Parliament," he said, "and not "the constituencies that ought to dismiss the Government, and the "proper function of the House of "Commons cannot be taken away "from it without diminishing some-"what its dignity and authority." Later Lord Salisbury did not resign until voted out by Parliament, nor did Mr. Baldwin after his defeat last year. He had a plausible excuse, since he led the largest single party in the Commons, and could be defeated, as he was, only by a combination of the Labor Party and the Liberals. But Mr. MacDonald, facing a Conservative majority of 200 in the House, can have no doubt what fate would instantly await him in Parliament, and, very properly, hastens to bow to the will of the British electorate as emphatically expressed last Wednesday.

"SWEETENING" THE FUND.

Some of the testimony before the Special Senate Committee investigating campaign funds is calculated to make respectable Republicans hold their noses. There is nothing new in kind about it, so far as the genial activity of Southern Republican bosses and patronage "referees" is concerned. Our old acquaintance, Joseph Tolbert, long Chairman of the South Carolina Republican Committee and member of the Republican National Committee, has again attracted the notice of the United States Civil Service Commission. He is the statesman who was three times nominated for United States Marshal and finally withdrew, disgusted with the obstinacy of the Senate. Senator Dial was prejudiced against him; charged that he had been convicted for misappropriating funds when a Postmaster more than twenty years ago and that he was selling Republican patronage. Mr. Tolbert strongly denied. The accusations against him were made by Republicans who believed in a black-and-white Republican ticket. He is the hope of the stern and unbending Lily Whites.

Senator Dial has been beaten in South Carolina by the distinguished Mr. Cole Blease, who certified two years ago that Mr. Tolbert was "tried and true." Tried he has certainly been, if Mr. Dial was right. True to old Southern Republican principles he is, if the affidavits submitted by the Civil Service Commission are to be trusted. Federal offices in South Carolina were vended on condition that the vendee would pay from 10 to 15 per cent. of the salary to the Republican campaign chest. One affiant declared that Mr. Tolbert was going to give him a Postmastership, regardless of civil service examination, "if his "heart and pocketbook were in the "right place." This is a sound statement from the point of view of old-fashioned official Southern Republicanism. Rural mail carriers as well as Postmasters are said to have been assessed. Assessments of Southern officeholders and sale of appointments are familiar details in reports of the Civil Service Commission and the Civil Service Committee of the Senate. If enthusiasm overlooks or derides certain United States statutes, let us remember the peculiar temptations of zealous Republican managers in hopelessly Democratic States. All friends of simplicity honor Mr. Tolbert as the Cato who never wears a collar. His nephew was appointed United States District Attorney last Winter. Mr. Tolbert was active in increasing the Southern apportionment in the Republican National Convention. If he or any Southern Republicans have been too zealous, we must remember that they have been working for a great end. As Colonel George Harvey would put it, it is a case of Cash or Chaos.

Out of the old fields cometh this new corn; and so with the milking of the cotton, wool and silk industries. These are veteran contributors. They express, they have to express, their gratitude to the beneficent tariff. They pay back to the G. O. P. some of the money that the taxpayer has to pay them. These testimonials occur every four years. Familiar as they are, there is something a little crude about them. Why must the sensibility of us poor devils of consumers have to be rasped before election? But a new and interesting feeder of Mr. Butler's budget is exhibited. Manufacturers entitled to permits to withdraw alcohol "voluntarily" contributed to certain New York officers of the Internal Revenue. Some Democrats seem to have joined in this curious volunteer movement. An Inspector in the Twentieth Assembly District collected about $2,500. Then the alcohol benefactions were suddenly stopped. The "Collector suggested" that the Inspector "had better stop, and we had enough for our district."

The fact that a chiel was amang us investigating and taking notes of this "touching" of alcohol permittees had nothing to do with the end of the volunteer movement. It wasn't known to the officials, we are told. It seems too bad that such novel ways and means were abandoned so abruptly. They are a new triumph of Republican efficiency. The Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act pour money into the pails of the incomparable Republican milkers.

LABOR'S SECOND THOUGHT.

Last September the Central Trades and Labor Council of Greater New York formally ratified the endorsement of La Follette's candidacy by the national officers of the American Federation of Labor. On Thursday the Executive Council of the New York organization formally transferred its allegiance to John W. Davis. This action is more significant as an index of sober second thought in labor ranks than as a potent influence, coming at this late day, upon the outcome of the election. From the practical point of view there is no more reason to overestimate the importance of this eleventh-hour reconversion than the importance of the original relapse. We have Mr. Gompers's own word for it that the labor vote is non-deliverable. A handful of labor leaders gave to La Follette and a handful are now taking away—whatever it was they gave. The great mass of the membership thought for itself last September and will continue to do so.

Yet on the part of the labor leaders the bolt from La Follette does represent the breaking of a sudden light. Perhaps the action of the local Labor Council, on the heels of the British election, is a mere coincidence. But if the leaders themselves were moved by other motives it is inevitable that many of their followers should be seriously pondering a 200 Tory majority in the House of Commons brought about by the strife between British Labor and Liberals. When Mr. Gompers and his associates endorsed La Follette they were careful to state that labor retained a free hand in the Congressional elections. Mr. Gompers aims to capture a clear majority of "friends" in the next Congress in place of the block of 150 "friends" he claims in the present Congress. But a Coolidge sweep would sadly cut down the existing number.

When the Labor Council officials now explain their abandonment of La Follette by saying that the Senator stands no chance of election, we fear that they are not quite frank. There never was the slightest expectation in labor circles of La Follette's election. But Mr. Gompers must have persuaded himself that La Follette would bring him new Congressional strength from the Middle West, while Democratic labor in the East would hold the gains of two years ago. What the leaders see now is that such reinforcements as La Follette may bring up from the West may easily be more than wiped out by the La Follette attack on the Democrats of the East. Anything like a Harding vote for Coolidge in New York and New Jersey may shake enough Democratic Congressmen out of their seats to establish Republican control in the next House. Then Mr. Gompers will have learned that 2 and 5 make 7 only on condition that both are plus; 2 plus and 5 minus yield something else.

For what he considered prudential reasons Mr. Gompers allowed himself to be swerved from his own copyrighted policy of non-partisanship only to find today a large section of his following going back to his own abandoned position. He must be wondering now whether next Tuesday will not prove that he has somewhat modified his historic policy by going in for a policy of punishing his friends and rewarding his enemies.

FOUR THOUSAND COOKS.

People who think that the Girl Scout is a mere side issue of the Boy Scout (as Eve is said to have been of Adam) are much mistaken. She has nothing whatever in common with the katabolic female to whom sociologists point as the destruction of our race. The Boy Scout may range the world energetically, hacking and hewing as he goes. She prefers anabolic domesticity, arranging and organizing her life to the end that new values may be created. As we learn from headquarters on Lexington Avenue, her favorite occupation is not camping but home making. Cooking heads the list of her studies, and then comes laundering. Last year almost four thousand girls passed the tests as cook.

Not merely rightness of mind was needed for Jane Scout's culinary preference, but a high order of courage. For of all the critics of the hearth Jack Scout is the most arrogant and opinionated. Has he not himself done eggs to a turn amid sizzling bacon, grilled his catch of trout over live coals, boiled coffee to the King's taste—by which he means his own? Old scouts have been known to boast of feeding themselves on the fat of the land, and with no more time spent on dishwashing than is given to three cigarettes a day after meals. And women have the effrontery to complain that their work is "never done"! That is the way the old scout talks, remembering his boyhood glories.

Doubtless Jane knows all this, and knows that the true explanation of his pride in his housekeeping lies in his atavistic delight in exercise, in sport in the open—briefly, in his boyhood appetite. But her courage is undaunted. Tired as old Jack may be with his day's labor and fretful with his life within doors, he shall at least have no reasonable cause for complaint. And in her repertory there are other things than fried eggs and boiled coffee, things that suggest no comparisons with his ancient cooking and appetite. How about creamy waffles, thick mutton chops and broiled chicken? How about salads and cheeses?

Four thousand cooks, and in one year! In spite of the prophets of despair and notwithstanding flapperdom, there is still hope for the rising generation. And in her own way Jane Scout is a woodsman too, able as any one to enjoy the life of the campfire—even ten-minute dishwashing.

A FORWARD-LOOKING CENTENARIAN.

Moses Cleveland, a cousin of the founder of the City of Cleveland and a relative of Grover Cleveland, started yesterday on his one hundred and third year. Though confined to his bed by a broken hip, he takes a philosophical view of life. For him not even a hundred years are sufficient for solving the mystery of existence, and he asks for more time. But at the one hundred and second milestone he paused to make an observation which is rare among the aged. It is that people as a whole are holding back, looking back and resisting progress. They will not move from old ways "sooner than they have to." When he was a boy in Connecticut his neighbor said to a salesman of scythes that "a sickle was "good enough for my father to reap "oats with and it's good enough for "me." When the mower came the users of scythes said that it would never cut. And a similar attitude he found general during the succeeding decades of his century: the steamboat would never run; the locomotive never would be practical; the cable across the Atlantic would break and could not be mended; the Wright brothers would meet the fate of Icarus, and the radio—well, that was simply as fantastic as Aladdin's lamp or the magic carpet.

"I have lived," said he, "to see them take back all these things." He added: "Today nothing seems impos-"sible to me—not even the straighten-"ing out of the country's politics, bad "as they look." To face a second century with such a spirit is a stimulus to faith and fortitude and a reproach to those of fewer years who walk backward and talk despairfully of the future. This Cleveland seems to have been discerningly named "Moses." The promised land is always ahead for him. Whether he is permitted to enter it or not, he has had sight of it—the land where the impossible of today becomes the commonplace of tomorrow.

THE BOND ISSUE FOR PARKS.

In voting for the candidates of their choice on election day, the citizens of New York must not overlook Proposition 1 on the ballot. It provides a referendum on the question whether there shall be a bond issue "not to "exceed $15,000,000 for the extension "and improvement of existing State "parks and the establishment of new "State parks and parkways in order "to create a comprehensive and uni-"fied State park system for the pro-"motion of the recreation, instruction "and health of the people." Not only the recreation of 11,000,000 people but the protection of watersheds from which municipal supplies can be drawn is involved. It is estimated that interest and bond retirements will cost each resident of the State seven and one-half cents a year. The health and enjoyment of families and individuals using the parks for camping, fishing, hiking, bathing and picnicking will be worth to them incalculably more than the few cents per capita per annum. Posterity will be benefited not only in access to a constantly extending system of wild parks but in inheritances of vitality. There is no greater boon provided for in taxation of the people than that of public playgrounds: seashore, lakes, rivers, forests and mountains. In these natural features no State in the Union is richer than New York. Not to extend and unify into an administrative system the lands and waters donated by generous proprietors and purchased by the State would be folly.

Of the $15,000,000 to be raised by the bond issue, the sum of $5,000,000 is to be used in adding to and maintaining the Adirondack and Catskill reserve; for the Palisades Interstate Park, which lies at the back door of this city, $3,500,000 will be expended; for the Allegany State Park in Western New York, $2,000,000; for Niagara Reservation, $1,000,000; for parkway connections in the Bronx and Westchester County, $1,000,000; for Long Island parks, $1,000,000; for the beautiful Finger Lake region, $500,000; for Letchworth Park, a gift to the people, $500,000, and for the Saratoga Springs Reservation, Taconic Park and the Tongue Mountain peninsula at Lake George, collectively, $500,000. The moneys apportioned will be expended by local commissioners under the direction of the Conservation Commissioner, who will be responsible to the Governor and Legislature. At every step the interests of the people will be safeguarded. The park lands existing belong to them, and those to be acquired will be theirs. For all purposes of use they will be the proprietors. Not an acre can be "posted" against them. To every beautiful spot in the scattered and vast domain they can go for week-ends, holidays and vacations. The record of visits in the past year shows that the people are appreciating their opportunities for outings. The automobile has carried them to parks far distant from their homes. Take one instance: On Sunday, Aug. 31, 14,205 persons in twelve hours passed through the entrance to Watkins Glen, one of the most beautiful spots in the world.

It should be understood by voters that while the Legislature has designated "park areas," much of the land within their boundaries is still to be acquired from private owners, and that it will be economy to obtain deeds before the price of land advances. The State must pay what it is really worth. At their State convention at Rochester the Republicans declared: "We favor the bond issue of $15,000,000 for State parks." At the Syracuse convention the Democrats endorsed "the park issue to be voted on at the coming election." Every citizen should vote "yes" on Proposition 1 on Tuesday.

DEEDS OF DANGER AND DARING.

It is an impressive list, published today, of the medals and awards presented by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission. Thirteen are given for persons who lost their lives trying to save others. The remainder are also in recognition of deeds of unselfish heroism, where, with that reckless disregard of danger which is the pride of humanity, men and women risked all to help some one in peril of death. They are common accidents, most of them, in which the actors had had no previous claim to fame. "Rescued a young boy from drowning," one citation reads; "attempted to save a "child from an automobile stalled at a "crossing," reads another; "saved a boy from the path of a train," reads still another. Bradley, Smith, McGillicuddy, Cochran are some of the names of the life-savers, and Ozminkowski, Buchold, Trittipo and Vermeulen are others. They come from all over the country, "just folks," with enough courage and instinctive reaction to emergencies to do the right thing bravely.

The persons rewarded are typical of the hundreds of others who are destined to remain unknown, for the Hero Fund necessarily is ignorant of countless brave deeds and glorious sacrifices. Like soldiers cited for bravery in war, these happen to have been unable to hide their light under a bushel. This recognition, therefore, while a well-deserved and altogether fitting appreciation of their courageous deeds, is at the same time a silent tribute to the courage of those who are still unsung. In the wars many an unknown soldier died in an act of supreme heroism. So also in peace have many lives been offered without counting the cost, in instinctive efforts to save others from danger and death.

Perhaps the principal merit of the Hero Fund is that the acts which it recognizes are almost without exception "in line of duty." They are thus further proof that the old idea that brave deeds can best be done under extraordinary circumstances is not sound. Individuals who, like most of us, go through life meeting no untoward event, are sometimes inclined to think that unless we have dragons to slay we may not show the proper response in emergencies. The Carnegie Hero Fund pays public tribute to the fact that when the test comes the average man or woman meets it without shrinking. Deeds of danger and daring need not be spectacular to be appreciated, for mankind has always looked kindly on courage.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Impossible and Undesirable.

Perhaps the most ill-advised of the many who are complaining about the recent revelation of amounts paid as income tax are those who say that all the harm which they claim has been done by this invasion of privacy would have been prevented if the newspapers had consulted together and all agreed not to publish the figures.

That, very fortunately, could not have been done, such an agreement among the papers of the country on anything whatever being impossible; and this is very fortunate because such an agreement on any subject would be a national calamity, since it would be an agreement to withhold information from the public. Who are the owners and editors of the newspapers that they should decide among themselves what the people should not know?

Nothing conduces more to the public safety than the fact that in the press opinions on every side of every question are expressed and all arguments presented. An opposite policy is the favorite of military dictators, as it was of the old-fashioned tyrants of all varieties. Freedom of speech and the suppression of information always were the first of their devices for the maintenance of their power and the longest used.

Of course, any newspaper was free to refuse to print the income-tax figures, but by doing so it simply sent its readers to its journalistic neighbors for news that they wanted and had a right to get, as it had been made available by law for all who wanted it. Newspaper publication only followed the original publication in the offices of the several Collectors, and it did well what the Collectors only could do ill and in a way that lent itself to more than a few abuses, including that of blackmail. With the figures within easy reach of everybody they could not become an instrument of private spite and extortion—nobody could be threatened, nobody could be made to pay for silence, and nobody could buy silence by paying for it.

Put Criticism Where It Belongs.

It cannot be too often repeated and emphasized that it was the intention of Congress to give publicity to the income-tax figures, so far as concerns the amounts paid and the identification, by giving their addresses, of those who paid. Congress did not commit the absurdity of attempting to compel the newspapers to print this part of the returns; but it must have assumed that, in recognition of their duty and obligation to print as much news of importance and interest as they can get, they would carry out the purpose of Congress.

After Congress acted, anybody who wanted to know the exact payment made by anybody else could get it for the asking, or from inspection of the lists which every Collector had been ordered to prepare and put on view. Thereafter real and permanent concealment could not have been effected by the newspapers, even if they had desired it, and the harm done by publication, if any, cannot be ascribed, justly or reasonably, to them.

That many of the papers, perhaps most of them, disapproved of the revelations made is true; but they are purveyors of information, not suppressors of it, and it is not their duty to impose the censorship of silence on the acts of the Government.

Will Charge What They Please.

Doctors in the Medical Society of the District of Columbia have done formally what all doctors everywhere always have done informally—they have established a system or scale of minimum and maximum fees to be charged for their services. Their action is novel only in that these doctors have agreed among themselves as to the limit, up and down, of the fees to be demanded for each sort of patient, medical and surgical; but the limitation is seeming rather than real, for under the new rule the maximum fee can be exceeded "for good cause."

In practice, therefore, the plan will not differ much from getting "all that the traffic will bear."

As usual, the ancient habit of making the rich pay far more than the poor or people in moderate circumstances is explained by the District physicians as justified—or perhaps one should say excused—by the plea that a greater responsibility is imposed on the doctor when the patient is well-to-do or otherwise eminent. This, to laymen, always has seemed to be a misuse of the word "responsibility," and some of them cannot help wondering if it means any more than that a doctor is more likely to be criticized adversely if his treatment of a patient in some way notable fails or can be called wrong than if the patient lived in a slum and had no articulate friends.

The claim that the giving of much gratuitous service to the poor makes it right to charge the rich big fees is sound; but it might be wished that there was more frequent recognition of the fact that the gratuitous practice in hospitals and clinics is not a dead loss to the doctor—that it forms an appreciable part of his training.

Probably the safest thing for the doctors to say about their fees is that they do not charge the rich more, but the poor less. Some of them have said that, and some also have said that every patient is rich when he appeals for help, and every patient poor when the bill is presented, thereby getting back at us.

Business Profits and Service.

Mr. Ford manages to be interesting, though not always edifying, when he passes out of his own domain, and he will get as well as deserve some more free publicity for dividing business into two varieties. In a proclamation just sent out to newspapers west of the Mississippi, and cheerfully picked up by those of the East, he says that "two systems of business confront each other in this country—production for use as against production for profits only."

It is well that he added the word "only" to that sentence, for thereby he escapes being told that he seems to deny the fact that for production to be possible it must be profitable in one way or other. But he would be the last, of course, to assert that profits are incompatible with virtue in business.

Mr. Ford apparently regards the words "production" and "service" as closely related if not interchangeable. As a rule that reaches, or at least approaches, the truth, but in much entirely legitimate business the thought of service is quite subconscious, if it exists at all, and the service, from the standpoint of the server, is purely incidental, though fortunately inevitable. The grocer does not vaunt himself as saving his customers from starvation, nor the tailor on keeping his from freezing to death in Winter. All honest business does render service as well as imply production and profits; but the less it talks about the service the better taste it displays.

THE TAX PUBLICITY LAW.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I enjoyed very much your leading editorial this morning. I hope you will pardon me for making a few suggestions, as I have been engaged exclusively in tax work for the past eleven years.

1. I believe that the publicity provision in the 1924 Revenue act is applicable only to a tax return made under such act, and as the last payment under such act would be due Dec. 15, 1925, no such publicity should be given until after that date. Certainly the present Commissioner has made rulings with less regard for the spirit and letter of the statute than this.

2. Providing, for the sake of argument, that it is applicable to a tax return made for the year 1923, then the Collector has given out information not provided for in Paragraph (b) of Section 257. You will notice that that paragraph gives the Commissioner authority to exhibit lists containing the names and addresses of persons making income-tax returns and the amount of tax paid. Certainly, the Collector here has only exhibited the tax assessment book, which shows neither the tax paid (in most cases) nor the tax due to be paid. For example, the book shows the tax as shown on the tax return made under the 1921 act, and credits for the payments made up to the date it is exhibited. You are, of course, aware that the taxpayer has the privilege of paying his tax in four instalments, the last one being due Dec. 15. It is safe to say that few taxpayers with any considerable income fail to avail themselves of this privilege. Therefore, the Collector cannot exhibit, in many cases, the tax paid.

You are also, no doubt, aware that after the tax return was made for 1923 Congress passed a provision permitting the taxpayer to reduce his tax by 25 per cent. Therefore, the total tax shown by these assessment books is erroneous by 25 per cent., which will not have to be paid. For example, suppose the taxpayer showed on the 1923 tax return that he was due to pay $1,000 tax. He would have been required to pay, on or before March 15, 1924, $250. On his next payment, June 15, he could take credit for the excess payment made in March and pay $125. His next payment would be due Sept. 15, when he should pay $187.50. Therefore, if the Commissioner prepared a list prior to Dec. 15 this taxpayer would have paid $562.50, instead of the $1,000 shown on the assessment list. At best, the provision is a vicious one.

Wants the Law Changed.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When our letter of Oct. 24 referring to publication of income-tax returns was forwarded to you, the impression prevailed that The New York Times was the only paper to publish these data in the face of the refusal of other papers to do so. We have since learned that we were mistaken in this respect; that practically all the papers published these lists.

While we believe that The New York Times, even at the risk of its reputation for being prompt to put out news of general interest, could have set a fine example in refusing to publish these lists, we quite appreciate that this was "hot" news and that you were probably justified in what you did. Accordingly, we hasten to withdraw our rather harsh criticisms. The New York Times is regarded by us as the world's most influential and valued publication, and we were startled to find this confidential information published in its columns.

This whole business of publishing confidential information, while possibly pleasing to a minority, is extremely distasteful to intelligent people, and we trust that The New York Times will use its best efforts to have the law changed.

National Council of American Importers and Traders.

ALL SAINTS' DAY.

For every cause well lost since time began,
Each hope forlorn, each dear, defeated plan,
I, living and remembering, give thanks.

For those who fought to give my soul its breath,
Who suffered, knowing not they suffered—death,
I, breathing now their quickening airs, give thanks.

Heedless of lashings, on they fought and hoped,
And through ungrateful dark for vision groped;
I, by their vision led and crowned, give thanks.

Down into death they stumbled, unaware
Of treasure left, unspeakable and rare;
I, rich forevermore thereby, give thanks.

"The dead speak not!" Could I, indeed, attend,
Their ardent deeds a mortal speech transcend.

THE CHOICE BETWEEN PARTIES

A Plea to Independents, When They Vote, to Be Guided By American Political Experience.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

British and American democracies presuppose for their effective working two great political parties. Normally, one of them has secured the confidence of the people and has been put in office to realize the promises made the campaign. The other is the party of the Opposition, whose function it is vigilantly to watch the administration of the Government party and to keep the people informed as to the respects in which that party has failed to realize its promises and has allowed incompetency or corruption to creep into the administration of the people's affairs. When the Government party has failed in any of these respects, normally it is voted out of power at the next general election and the opposition party assumes the reins of government. When a third party arises, it is due either to the failure of one of the two existing parties to perform its function properly, as in the case of the Whig Party in our country after 1852, or to the disintegration of one of the parties owing to a contest for control by factions within it, as is the case in the Republican Party at the present time. Normally, the third party lasts only until it either absorbs one of the other two or is absorbed by one of them.

In the British system the executive power, i. e., the Cabinet, is in the Legislature, is part of the Legislature, and is responsible to the Legislature. In the determination of governmental policy, therefore, whether foreign or domestic, harmony necessarily exists. For if the executive differs from the Legislature on any matter of policy it must either resign or be voted out of power by the Legislature, which is the supreme organ of Government. In the American system the Legislature is not supreme, but only coordinate with the executive. When the latter, i. e., the President, differs in his view of policy with the Legislature, i. e., Congress, he does not resign. If he belongs to one political party and either house or both houses of Congress belong to the other political party, there is an impasse. Ordinarily it is almost impossible to enact any except absolutely necessary legislation and the Government can merely carry on. If, however, the executive and the Legislature, i. e., the President and Congress, belong to the same political party, it is the function of the party organization to bring about harmony between those two organs of government. If the President is the real leader of his party, as was the case with Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Wilson, Congress usually yields. If the President is not the real leader of his party, he usually yields.

In 1920 the Republican Party was given the confidence of the people by the largest majority in the history of the country and was put in control of both the legislative and executive organs of government. It was reasonable to expect that it would realize the promises made in the campaign and that it would provide efficient and honest government. It has done none of these things. Sometimes it did not try to keep a promise, as in the case of the promise made with reference to foreign policy to attempt to form an "Association of Nations" which should be an improvement on the existing League of Nations. The existence of irreconcilable factions prevented party agreement upon a program. The President approved the Mellon tax plan, opposed the bonus bill, urged our membership in the World Court. Congress defeated the President on each of these propositions. Not only has the Republican Party, in control of all the organs of government, failed to give us competent and efficient government, it has allowed corruption to seize control of departments of government.

In accordance with the practice of party government, the people ought not only be ready to vote the Republican Party out of power, but the party ought to be resigned to that fate—as it was in 1912. On the contrary, it asserts that to put it out now would result in chaos in the Government. This means that there can be but a one-party government in this country, viz., by the Republican Party, whether that party be united and harmonious or distracted by factionalism. No intelligent Republican will claim, but he will maintain that we are confronted today by a peculiar and serious situation. If the people vote to keep the Republican Party in power, they have a right to expect, in accordance with the theory and practice of parties in our country, that the party will compel the President and Congress to agree upon questions of policy. But how can they expect that today? We have a large number of Republican Senators and Representatives in the West and Northwest seeking re-election upon platforms which are the very negation of what Mr. Coolidge stands for. Is it likely that they will repudiate their platform if they are elected? Is it not evident that to keep the Republican Party in power is to doom the country to another four years of intensified conflict between the Executive and the legislative organs?

There remain the Democratic and Progressive Parties. No independent will be determined in his choice by the charges of Bolshevism and revolution that foolish people are making against Mr. La Follette, who is attempting to secure changes in our Government in the manner prescribed by our political theory and practice, viz., by means of the ballot. A constitution and a nation that survived the Civil War are not likely to fall into ruins because of the election of Senator La Follette. The only fair thing to do is to study the reforms demanded by Senator La Follette and consider whether his proposed methods are better than those suggested by the Democrats.

It is a great mistake for conservative people to assume that it is only unthinking extremists who maintain that there has been an unjustified growth of judicial authority in our country. The increasing frequency of issue of the writ of injunction has not merely endangered the liberty of the individual but has made the efficient administration of Government difficult. The extent of the prohibitions enumerated in the injunction secured by Mr. Daugherty in the railway shopmen's strike of two years since was a national scandal. The Supreme Court's recent decision guaranteeing a jury trial to a workman violating an injunction during a strike is an excellent corrective. This abuse of the writ of injunction is a matter of the inferior Federal courts, not the Supreme Court. Now, the inferior Federal courts have not a constitutional status. They were created by act of Congress and they secure their jurisdiction and powers from Congress and their jurisdiction and powers may be modified by Congress. It is in that way Mr. Davis proposes to attack the problem.

To Mr. La Follette, the chief evidence of unwarranted control by the judiciary is the power of the Supreme Court to declare an act of Congress unconstitutional and he proposes an amendment to the Constitution whereby such a decision may be overcome by a subsequent act of Congress. The Supreme Court has decided thousands of cases in the one hundred and thirty-five years of its existence. Only thirty-one decisions nullifying acts of Congress, and of the thirty-one but ten were five-to-four decisions so abhorrent to Mr. La Follette. The number of decisions of the Court nullifying an act of Congress, which have been fairly generally condemned, such as the Dred Scott decision or the reversal of the legal tender decision or the income tax decision of 1894 can be counted on the fingers of one hand. Had Congress been endowed by the Constitution with the power of final interpretation, is it likely that it would have made fewer decisions that would have been generally considered mistakes? And is there any justification for believing that were Mr. La Follette's amendment to be carried, Congress would always overrule a decision of the court to which general objection had been made? Certainly, Congress would not have done so in the Dred Scott case. It seems to me that Mr. Davis has more successfully pointed out where the danger lies of an excessive use of judicial authority in our system and how the danger is to be overcome than has Mr. La Follette.

It is recognized today by every intelligent American that scientific invention has made the world so small that all nations are neighbors. A nation cannot live unto itself, but finds international cooperation an absolute necessity. What happens in one country may have profound effects in a distant country. The fall of Ramsay MacDonald in England has weakened the position of Herriot in France. The result of the British election will have an undoubted effect on the German elections. We have never been an isolated nation, but something more is required today than ordinary intercourse with other nations and good-will toward them. A fine vision of the world's real needs, a will to cooperate with other peoples to realize those needs, a knowledge and an experience to enable one to know how and to what extent America can cooperate, these are qualifications which ought to be possessed by the next President if the United States is to play its part wisely in the world of tomorrow. Much of the destructive criticism of Mr. La Follette regarding the Treaty of Versailles, our own foreign policy and the acts of the principal allies since the war, may be admitted correct. But his constructive suggestions are much more vague than those of Mr. Davis and apparently would make such demands upon other nations as to be hopeless of execution. They lead one to the conclusion that Mr. Davis has, in greater degree, the qualifications mentioned above.

It seems to me that this is a campaign in which sound political principles and practices ought to determine for whom a citizen should vote. If his vote be determined on that basis, I think it should be cast for John W. Davis.

THE HIGH COST OF COFFEE.

Brazil Is Keeping Prices Up, It Is Said, by Limiting Its Exports.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The present high price of coffee, which Brazil is extracting from every American consumer, hits every one's purse, rich and poor alike. This is not due to shortage of coffee or failure of the crop. In my opinion it is a deliberate hold-up on the part of Brazil, which is taking advantage of the prosperous condition of our people since the World War. It is not the first time that Brazil has treated us in such a high-handed manner, and it should be met with a strong protest from Washington at once, no matter how displeasing it might be to the Brazilian Government and its people.

The methods adopted by Brazil to bring about this tax are as follows:

Brazil has curtailed the number of bags of coffee to be shipped daily from her ports to 35,000, a supply barely equal to the demands of our country alone, making Europe and other countries bid against us for the above limited shipments, and thus forcing us to pay a premium on top of highly inflated prices.

A large quantity of Brazilian coffee coming here now is of an inferior quality. Jobbers and roasters are forced into fierce competition to obtain even fair drinking coffee to supply the retail trade, who in turn are compelled to charge the consumer an exorbitant price, the highest known to the writer with an experience of close to fifty years in the trade. There never was a time when such poor coffee was dispensed in the restaurants of New York as at present. Seventy-five per cent. of it is unfit to drink.

In 1908 during President Taft's Administration Brazil, with its valorization scheme, forced us to pay her a huge sum to help her coffee planters. She destroyed millions of bags and, with the aid of some of our Wall Street bankers in league with large coffee importers here, managed to withhold from consumption over 800,000 bags in various warehouses throughout the country, and not until public opinion was aroused did Taft or his Attorney General take action and force the holders, including the Brazilian Government, to put their holdings on the market. This resulted in a drop to normal prices to consumers, but this action was not taken until after our people had been unmercifully robbed by those responsible for that gigantic commercial fraud.

But as bad as that deal was the present one is still worse, when we consider that we have a treaty with Brazil guaranteeing us all the benefits of a most favored nation. Have we enjoyed those benefits? On the contrary, we have always especially favored Brazil by persistently refusing to tax her coffee, of which we are her best customers.

As though to add insult to injury, Brazil is about to increase her export duty on all coffee shipped out of her ports. It seems about time for our own Government to awake to the fact that while Brazil has such a strangle-hold on the throat of every American coffee consumer not a penny of this huge sum being paid daily finds its way into our own public treasury. Is it not time for us to realize that each time we lift our cup of coffee to our lips we are paying a forced tribute to Brazil and a few profiteering pirates in our own country?

The Republican Tariff.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"We have the lowest tariff the Republican Party has enacted since 1890, and it is even lower than the Democratic tariff of 1894.

"Nearly 57 per cent. of the imports are on the free list, and the average duty on all imports is less than 15 per cent. Almost everything that is used in the business of farming is on the free list, while almost everything that the farmer raises is protected."

If this is so, what is the "joker" in the "Fordney-McCumber" tariff?

DAVID P. FACKLER, DEAN OF ACTUARIES, DEAD

David Parks Fackler, the dean of actuaries of life insurance in the United States, internationally known and the founder of the Actuarial Society of America, died shortly before midnight Thursday at the home of his nephew, John Sidney Davenport Jr., in Richmond, Va. He was a member of the firm of Fackler, Fackler & Breiby, 50 Broad Street, and lived in Montclair, N. J., and in Salisbury, Conn.

Mr. Fackler was in his 84th year. He was born in Kempville, Va., a son of the Rev. David Morris and Susan Stith Satchel Fackler, and a great-grandson of a Revolutionary officer of the same surname. Receiving his degree of A. B. from City College in 1859 and being awarded a gold medal for mathematics, Mr. Fackler was further honored by his alma mater in 1891 with the degree of A. M.

Very shortly after his graduation Mr. Fackler entered the actuarial department of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York. He remained with that company until 1865, when he resigned, and since that time had done business solely as an individual actuary.

When mutual life insurance companies were in their infancy in this country and were struggling with the problem of a method of returning to policy holders such surplus as had been earned Mr. Fackler worked out a system of surplus distribution, the general principles of which are still used by the insurance companies in the United States. This was in 1862. In 1877 he was appointed actuary to a commission of policy holders examining the Equitable Life Assurance Society, and in 1899 he brought about the formation of the Actuarial Society.

Before the insurance upheaval in 1905 and the Armstrong investigation Mr. Fackler had long fought for reform in life insurance, and this is shown by an address he made before the National Convention of Insurance Commissioners in 1892. On that occasion he held that no company should procure business through agencies after such a company had obtained $400,000,000 in assets. He predicted if this was not done that evils would creep in and that managers would not recognize that they held the funds in trust. J. W. Alexander when President of the Equitable called upon Mr. Fackler for advice, and the latter was told to be ready to testify before the Armstrong Commission as an expert, but he never was called.

Mr. Fackler was employed as consulting actuary by one of the departments of the Federal Government in 1900, and he was actuary of the New Jersey Senate commission to investigate insurance. He also served at one time as actuary to a joint commission of Congress.

The White Lighthouses Along the Coast and the buoys that mark the channels of shallow waters have an unfailing interest to almost every observer because of their self-adjustments and the variety of sounds and signals they give out, which are marked on sailing charts.

That weather-beaten stone structure yonder has for its keeper an old man and wife who, they say, have not been off their rocky island for years.

"Are you not afraid to live here in this dreadful lonely place?"

"No," replied the man, "I am not afraid. We never think of ourselves. We only think of keeping our lamps burning brightly and keeping our reflectors clean, so those in danger out on that sea may be saved."

To be even carrying a lantern on a dark night may be a help to some other person to guide him safely. The old man of the lighthouse said, "We never think of ourselves."

NO PERIL TO PUBLIC SEEN IN ETHYL GAS

MORE DEATHS ARE UNLIKELY

LITTLE USED IN THE CITY

Tetra-Ethyl Compound Sold to Only Two Firms, Which Are Experimenting, Says Standard Oil.

None of the surviving sufferers from tetraethyl lead poisoning appears to be in serious danger and it is believed that the death list of five will not be increased, according to reports from Reconstruction Hospital.

Four new patients were added to this group, making a total of thirty-six at the hospital, but two of these were discharged later as being entirely free from symptoms of the poison.

"The patients here now appear to be out of danger," said Dr. C. K. Flint, house physician of the hospital. "Some of them have no symptoms and are here for observation only, and none has developed any serious trouble. We are hopeful of full recovery in all these cases."

Dr. Flint said it had not been established certainly whether the lead or the higher alcohol in the tetraethyl lead was the cause of the illness and deaths. The lead is combined with one of the alcohol group. According to Dr. T. A. Wallace of 141 Fifth Avenue, the gas, after being breathed into the lungs, could be reduced in the blood stream to pure alcohol, producing a form of acute alcoholism. Brig. Gen. Amos O. Fries, Chief of the Army Chemical Warfare Service, reported, on the other hand, that an investigation of the use of this gas for poison gas warfare had shown that lead was the agent which produced the poisoning.

Samples of the so-called "loony gas" were used at the Edgewood Arsenal six months ago to see whether this reason-destroyer had any promising possibilities for war, and also to discover antidotes and other protections against it. It was found that it was dangerous unless the greatest precautions were taken in handling it.

Sent in Pure Form to Garages.

The tetraethyl lead, which is dispensed from 10,000 filling stations at present, according to the Standard Oil Company, is diluted about 1,000 times for use in gasoline. The tetraethyl lead is sold in its pure form, however, to the garages and filling stations, so that it is handled locally at thousands of places. Elaborate directions and warnings are sent out to those who handle the substance in its concentrated form. It is mixed with a red coloring to serve as a warning of the care necessary in handling and to prevent its use for cleaning and other purposes for which ordinary gasoline is used in the home.

Philadelphia yesterday followed the example of New York City by prohibiting the sale of gasoline containing the tetraethyl lead. At the same time a report of the Bureau of Mines was made public at Washington with the conclusion that the danger to the public from lead in the exhaust of automobiles is "seemingly remote." The report does not deal with the dangers in handling the substance at the service stations or other risks aside from that incurred by the general public in breathing air contaminated by automobiles.

The Bureau of Mines carried on its investigation at Pittsburgh, where a number of compounds supposed to increase the efficiency of gasoline were tested.

"One of the commonly used 'antiknock' compounds," the report said, "is known as tetraethyl lead. This is added to gasoline in quantity of less than one part of tetraethyl lead in one thousand parts of gasoline by volume and this mixture sold on the market as ethyl gasoline.

Problems Relating to Health.

"The problems of the health hazard due to the use of tetraethyl lead may be divided into three parts:

"1. The hazard in the manufacturing and handling of the concentrated tetraethyl lead. This hazard occurs in the manufacturing plant.

"2. The possible hazard in handling the ethyl gasoline (one part of tetraethyl lead to one thousand parts of gasoline). This possible hazard may affect those handling ethyl gasoline.

"3. The possible hazard due to the exhaust gases from automobiles using ethyl gasoline. This possible hazard concerns the entire public.

"The scope of the work undertaken by the Bureau of Mines included an investigation of all possible hazards as outlined in the above. The first two parts, namely, that of the danger in the manufacture and handling of the concentrated tetraethyl lead and the possible risk in handling the ethyl gasoline as sold to the automobile driver, are now being investigated. Sufficient data have not been obtained to draw conclusions to date. As soon as this investigation has been completed the results will be made public.

"The last part of the above outlined problems, namely, the possible hazard due to the exhaust gases from automobiles using ethyl gasoline as ordinarily sold, has been carried on for more than ten months.

"The plan of investigation was that of exposing various types of animals (pigs, guinea pigs, rabbits, dogs and monkeys, over 100 in all), to a definite concentration of exhaust gas from an engine using Ethyl gasoline. The concentration of exhaust gas in air used was that which when coming from the average automobile would be four parts carbon monoxide in ten thousand parts of air; this concentration would be allowable for but a period of one hour's exposure from the standpoint of carbon monoxide. (The concentration of exhaust gas in air used was such as to exceed that known to exist in ordinary traffic of a city street.) The carburetor was adjusted so that the carbon monoxide content of the exhaust gas from the engine used was less than one-half that found in the average automobile exhaust gases.

Showed No Sign of Poisoning.

"The animals were divided into three representative groups. The first two groups were exposed for periods of three and six hours respectively, and the third group not exposed but used as controls. The animals were thus daily exposed for three and six hours over a total period of approximately eight months to a known concentration of exhaust gas. These exposures were such that the lead content of the air breathed by the animals was similar to that which would result from exhaust gases of an average automobile using ethyl gasoline diluted so as to contain about four parts of carbon monoxide to ten thousand parts of air (the permissible exposure for one hour from the standpoint of carbon monoxide poisoning). This was a considerably higher concentration of exhaust gas than would ordinarily occur. The animals were observed throughout the entire test period for symptoms of lead poisoning, as colic, paralysis, loss of appetite and loss of weight. Also a careful examination of the blood was made for characteristic signs of lead poisoning. At various times animals were killed and the entire tissues examined for effects of lead and analyzed for stored-up lead.

"After a period of approximately eight months daily exposure to the above conditions there was no indication of lead poisoning. The animals continued to grow and mature at a normal rate. One of the dogs gave birth to five puppies. There were continued on test with the mother and in the course of the test matured normally. The absence of lead poisoning may be due to the small amount of lead present in the exhaust gas air mixture. Furthermore, observations made on man showed that most of the lead in exhaust gases coming from ethyl gasoline when inhaled is again exhaled.

"The investigation carried out indicates the danger of sufficient lead accumulation in the streets through the discharging of scale from automobile motors to be seemingly remote.

"The investigation of the possible hazards of lead poisoning from exhaust gases is being continued at the Pittsbhrgh station of the Bureau of Mines, together with the first two phases of this study."

Little of It Used Here.

The resolution of the Board of Health, prohibiting the sale of ethylized gasoline in the city, will have no immediate effect, as there have been no sales of the product here, the only deliveries in New York City having been those to three automobile companies which wanted to make tests on their cars, according to the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

At the offices of the company it was stated yesterday that the sale of ethylized gasoline has been more general in other parts of the country, particularly in the Middle West, where the Standard Oil Company of Indiana has been a large distributer through its own service stations. Because of the demand for the product, it was explained, supplies have been inadequate to supply the local territory.

A number of other companies have been marketing ethyl fluid in conjunction with gasoline. The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, which is equal owner with the General Motors Company of the Ethyl Gasoline Corporation, owners of the patents on the fluid, has got its marketing well under way in the South Atlantic Coast district in Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia. The company is now starting to introduce it at the service stations in New Jersey.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 31.—Nobody enjoys a joke better than John D. Rockefeller and he doesn't mind telling one on himself. This is the latest he is telling to his friends:

"I was up in the central part of the State this Summer to visit some of the spots where I spent my childhood. My car had stopped and I was looking around when an old farmer came up to the car and started to talk to me.

"He didn't know who I was. We chatted together for about five minutes and then he asked me where I was going.

"I'm going to Heaven," I replied with a smile.

EMERSON M'MILLIN SALE SO FAR $331,209

E. F. Albee and John Ringling Acquire Objects at Darlington Auction.

The sale at Darlington, the Mahwah (N. J.) rome of the late Emerson McMillin, and before that of George Crocker of San Francisco and New York, by S. G. Rains, yesterday afternoon realized $84,209, the total of the sales to date being $331,209. Today uncatalogued items will be offered, including a Knabe baby grand piano, paintings, the linen for the twenty-five bedrooms and other items.

E. F. Albee purchased four items for $8,700. They were Nos. 1315 and 1316 of the catalogue, two Lantonieres Renaissance tapestry, 15½ by 13 feet, at $2,900 each. No. 1359, an eight-panel, fourfold screen of old Spanish needlework, in a carved French walnut frame, gilt top and bottom, with an illuminated coat of arms and repoussé silver mounts, for $2,150. He also paid $750 for No. 1191, a pair of 38-inch tall Japanese cloisonné vases.

John Ringling paid $5,000 for three items. For No. 1362, a tapestry showing Alexander the Great urging forward his soldiers, he paid $2,300. For No. 1354, six solid walnut dining room chairs, fiddle-backed, with fine Aubusson seats, he paid $1,300, and for No. 1355, six similar chairs, he paid $1,400.

S. H. Topakyan of New York paid $6,100, the day's largest price, for No. 1368, an antique Moustaafi Fereghan rug, over 44 by 22 feet, with an unusual dark blue ground, all-over pattern and wonderful colorings; also $5,100, the next highest price, for No. 1372, a royal Tabriz silk carpet, a little over 20 by nearly 13 feet, with old maroon ground, the centre in indescribable silver iridescent colors.

Mrs. M. Tilford bought No. 1369, an antique Lovere Kerman rug, about 24 by 18 feet, for $3,900. She paid $2,750 for No. 1375, another similar rug, slightly smaller.

I. McMillin paid $1,100 for No. 1348, a screen of forged steel frame, said to have been presented by a Spanish nobleman to Mary, Queen of Scots. It has enameled mounted warriors, a coat of arms and a centre of seventeenth century emerald green velvet embroidered in gold and silver thread and silk.

P. Van Vlayaaren paid $3,000 for No. 1347, a Renaissance petit-point silk tapestry altar antependium, and $600 for No. 1309, two Queen Anne mahogany side chairs with vase splat backs.

Mrs. White of 570 Park Avenue paid $1,800 each for Nos. 1354 and 1355, a dozen solid walnut dining room chairs, fiddle backs, with cabriole carved legs and silk Augusson tapestry seats in flower design, and Mrs. C. A. Dana paid $1,800 for a dozen similar chairs.

FINDS TROPICS IN FAR NORTH

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 31.—A subtropical valley in northern British Columbia, just south of the Yukon Territory border, ringed in with glaciers and perpetual snows, is to be colonized next year by wealthy Vancouver (B. C.) sportsmen and mining men, according to S. C. Scotte, the discoverer, who was in the city today after spending three years there.

"The valley is 480 miles inland, almost inaccessible, and contains abundant game," said Mr. Scotte. "The temperature never gets below zero and freezing temperature is rare. Grass, hay, berries and wild fruits grow in profusion. It is about twenty miles long and two or three miles wide.

"I encountered several species of wild animals never seen before. The most curious was a large white deer weighing about 600 pounds. It had a horn on one side of the head. A series of hot springs on one side of the valley is responsible for the mild Winters and long, pleasant Summers. The soil is very fertile."

The Moslem ferment in French North Africa, with its pregnant possibilities of civil war, is the theme of an important article, after intensive study, in November Current History Magazine.—Advt.

CARROLL DENIES AIM IS PUBLICITY

HOPES FOR QUICK TRIAL

Says He Wants to Show "Real People" About Alleged Immoral Pictures.

Earl Carroll passed his first day in the Tombs steadfastly refusing to put up the $300 bail that would restore him to Broadway and determined to stay right next to "Yellow Charleston," negro slayer, until the court decided whether the paintings displayed in connection with his revue "Vanities" are art or something else.

"I went to jail, not for publicity," Mr. Carroll assured, "but to focus attention on these self-appointed censors. If I gave the bail of $300 set by Magistrate Ryttenberg, this case would be merely one of many. I want it to stand out, so that real people will see what is being done."

The last tap of 6 o'clock found Mr. Carroll the first up among the 500 prisoners in the Tombs. He told about it later, when reporters talked to him. His thin white hands grasping the bars of the interview room, his face framed in smiles and a grille of the Sing Sing Renaissance period, the youthful producer said the first thing he thought about when he awoke was food.

Etiquette of the Tombs.

He heard one of the prisoners "down the line"—Carroll is in Cell 118, on the second tier—calling for bread. So he called also. That was a social blunder, said Carroll, because, as one of the prisoners pointed out afterward, it is not etiquette to eat the regular Tombs fare.

"Not that it isn't fine, mind you" said Carroll with a laugh "but it is simply a question of prestige. They told me that only the lowest among them failed to send out for food. A confident order for a dish of ham and eggs from outside puts the newcomer in his proper niche at once it seems.

" 'Yellow Charleston,' who has a cell near me, was broke this morning, but he managed to maintain his dignity with $2 which I sent to him. You get a curious slant on things while you are sitting in your cell here. For instance, there isn't a single man here, so far as I can find out, who isn't certain he is going to be liberated 'in the morning.' It appears that everybody was put here by mistake. Even 'Charleston,' who is facing death in the chair, is confident his appeal will set things right.

"Incidentally, 'Charleston' asked me to put on a benefit to provide money for his appeal. I told him I would put one on at the Lafayette Theatre up in Harlem, perhaps. 'Charleston' said he didn't think that would fill the bill, 'cause they'll shoot me up there.'

Singing of Negroes Touches Him.

"There are a number of other negroes in the cells near me, and last night when they learned, in some mysterious fashion, that I was among 'em they began to call 'Carroll, Carroll.' I let them go on for a while and then one said 'Mr. Carroll.' Just for a laugh, I said 'yes,' and the colored boys began to ask me about my show. They even sang for me, one in particular, a 'bathroom' tenor. He has a fine voice. He sang 'I Wish I Had Died in My Cradle Before I Grew Up to Fall in Love With You.' It was touching in the Tombs.

"They rattled their tin cups for accompaniment, just as they do up in the cabarets. One of the boys said to me, 'What you-all in yere foh?' I told I was in for art. He didn't get that at all."

Carroll praised Warden Hanley as an "ideal host," and added that even if he couldn't have any visitors tomorrow he hoped to kill time easily over the week-end. His trial, he said, might come up on Monday.

CHORUS GIRL TRIES TO DIE.

Miss Florence Allen, 22 years old, rehearsing to regain her place as chorus girl in Earl Carroll's "Vanities of 1924," attempted suicide early yesterday by drinking lysol in a taxicab at Seventh Avenue and Fifth-sixth Street. She was reported improved last night at Roosevelt Hospital.

Thomas Vaughan, operator of the taxicab, said Miss Allen entered his machine in front of the Club Richman, 157 West Fifty-sixth Street, and evidently took the poison at once. Vaughan sped to the hospital, where the prompt use of a stomach pump probably saved the girl's life.

BRITON SAYS AMERICA NOW RULES THE WORLD

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—Declaring that the government of the world has passed into America's hands, Cecil Roberts, British war correspondent and editor of The Nottingham Journal, in an address here today, added:

"All we ask of you is not to act too hastily."

As to the fall of the Labor Government of England and the triumph of the Conservatives, Mr. Roberts said that the Liberal Party in his country has no future for at least ten years. He regretted the defeat of Herbert Asquith.

"You are going to have in America a new phase—a phase in which the mental and intellectual will clash with the physical and industrial," he said. "If they cannot combine without physical struggle, God alone can save the nation."

"England and America stand as the last two units in the trial of civilization," he added. "Our England's sun is about to set—but it will be a glorious sunset."

BANKER GIVES $50,000 BAIL.

W. L. Conner Hopes to Make Restitution, Attorney Tells Magistrate.

Bail of $50,000 was accepted yesterday by Magistrate Dale in the Bridge Plaza Court, Brooklyn, for the release of Wallace L. Conner, a former manager of the Sumner Savings Bank, Brooklyn, on charges of grand larceny and forgery. Conner, who lives at 29 Macon Street, waived examination, which transfers the case to the grand jury.

J. J. Walsh, attorney for Conner, told the Magistrate that Conner intended to use his freedom to get aid of his friends in an effort to raise money enough to make complete restitution to the bank. He had already turned over to the bank $30,000 toward a reduction of the amount of the shortage, the attorney said.

Enright Heads Old Telegraphers.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 31.—Delegates to the forty-second reunion of the Old-Time Telegraphers and Historical Association had an entertainment today. Richard E. Enright, Police Commissioner of New York City, yesterday was elected President, succeeding F. A. Mohr of Dallas, Texas. All the other officers were re-elected and New York was chosen for the next convention.

Brandegee's Estate Is Believed Insolvent; Senator Assigned Realty to Obtain Loans

NEW LONDON, Conn., Oct. 31.—Administration was granted by the Probate Court in the estate of the late United States Senator Frank B. Brandegee this afternoon, after a hearing over the admission of the will which the Senator executed many years ago. Indications were that the estate was insolvent.

The petition to admit the will was made through counsel by heirs at law and next of kin. Many attorneys were present representing financial institutions here and elsewhere, which are said to hold obligations of the late Senator. Judge A. B. Calkins also had been addressed by letter in regard to administration by banks in New York, Philadelphia, Washington and other places as far West as Detroit.

After hearing arguments the Court named W. Don Lundy, the Senator's secretary, and the National Bank of Commerce of New London administrators with the will annexed. Their bond was placed at $25,000. The appraisers are James R. May, a real estate broker, and Warren B. Burrows, attorney, both of this city.

It was understood that Senator Brandegee's realty holdings in Washington and Maryland, which are said to have been extensive, do not stand in his name, having been assigned to various banks and trust companies in exchange for loans. There are, however, many items of personal property, such as paintings and furniture, in the Washington home of the late Senator.

Locally the holdings consisted of the Pequot Hotel, all of the capital stock of the Pequot Hotel Company and several houses, including the Brandegee homestead. Until an appraisal of the estate is made the value of the equities held in various enterprises of the late Senator will not be known, but in the course of the hearing, when attorneys were presenting names for administrators, it was stated that the likelihood was that Senator Brandegee's obligations far exceeded the value of the estate

OHIO CITY IN TERROR, FEARING KLAN CLASH

OUTBREAK IS FEARED TODAY

Special to The New York Times.

NILES, Ohio, Oct. 31.—With State troops held in Youngstown and Warren in readiness for a hurry call, with Deputy Sheriffs guarding the homes of city officials, with merchants barricading their stores, which will be closed tomorrow, and with families deserting their homes temporarily, this city tonight is tense with fear of an armed outbreak between Klan and anti-Klan factions at any moment.

Open hostilities were expected tonight when the Knights of the Flaming Circle held a meeting, openly stating the purpose was to make preparations for stopping a Klan parade scheduled for tomorrow.

The meeting broke up, however, without any hints of violence tonight. Most of those in attendance gathered in downtown streets and some of the Knights of the Flaming Circle seized four Klansmen and turned them over to the police, who held them on the charge of carrying concealed weapons.

Their announcement followed the refusal today of Mayor Harvey C. Kistler, reputed to owe his recent election to the Klan, to revoke a permit for the hooded parade, against which protests have been received from more than 500 citizens. At the same time he refused to grant a permit to the Knights of the Flaming Circle to hold a celebration tomorrow.

"I find no reason why the parade permit should be revoked," the Mayor said, and followed this statement with a plea for peace and order.

As soon as news of the Mayor's action became known crowds began to congregate around the City Hall and in other central sections. Excitement ran so high and the Mayor was so bitterly assailed that, fearing the meeting of the Knights of the Flaming Circle might decide on a foray on his home and that of other city officials, Sheriff Thomas swore in special deputy sheriffs and posted them on guard at the residences of the Mayor, Police Chief Round, Safety Director Hewitt and Charles Gilbert, former police lieutenant.

Klan leaders declare the parade will be held tomorrow. The Knights of the Flaming Circle are equally positive they will stop any Klan demonstration. The Klansmen asserted they would have 25,000 members in the city. The Knights of the Flaming Circle counted on being 10,000 strong, enough they said, to rout the hooded celebrators.

These statements and the bitter temper of the opposing factions led Mayor Kistler and Sheriff Thomas to ask Governor Donahey for troops. While the Governor declined the request unless there should be "tumult, riot or serious disorder," in which event "every agency of the State Government will be used to restore order." it became known that companies of the National Guard would be mobilized at Youngstown and Warren tomorrow and held in readiness to move here quickly should the necessity arise.

Merchants plan to close their stores early Saturday and barricade the doors. The beautiful and costly Niles Memorial to William McKinley, who was born here, will be closed throughout the day, officials fearing damage to the structure.

Several families have signified their intention of going to Youngstown, Warren, Cleveland and other cities tonight, fearing to stay in town tomorrow.

Open Drive to Aid Music Students.

More than a thousand members of the Society of American Music Optimists attended the first concert of that organization last night at the Waldorf-Astoria. A drive for membership was launched to enable the society to establish a scholarship fund for deserving American students of music. Among those present were Andres de Segurola and Joan Ruth of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

TURCO-GREEK SNARL YIELDS TO LEAGUE

Report Drawn Up by Japanese Representative Is Quickly Accepted by All Parties.

TO REPORT ON MINORITIES

BRUSSELS, Oct. 31 (Associated Press)—When the members of the Council of the League of Nations separated here tonight to meet in Rome on Dec. 8, they made no effort to conceal their satisfaction that in the five days since they assembled in Brussels they had been able to settle two political problems which if left unsolved undoubtedly would have menaced international relations and perhaps provoked war.

Following the Council's successful liquidation the other day of the Mosul dispute between Turkey and Great Britain, the Council tonight, to the satisfaction of the delegates of the nations affected, had adjusted the complicated and dangerous controversy between Turkey and Greece which arose out of the arrest and imprisonment of Greek residents in Constantinople.

The conflict between Turkey and Greece was settled by the adoption of a report drawn up by Viscount Ishii of Japan.

The Ishii report asks the Mixed Commission, which controls the exchange of populations between the two nations, to meet immediately and to settle all of the outstanding questions arising from the recent arrests of Greeks in Constantinople.

The report emphasizes the Council's pleasure over the fact that both Greece and Turkey have agreed to recognize the plenary authority of the commission and remarks that if any juridical question arises in the future it can be referred to the World Court of Justice either directly or through the Council.

Asking the commission to render periodical reports to the Council on the progress of its work and urging both Greece and Turkey to execute loyally the convention for the exchange of populations, the report declines to express any opinion on the recent arrests of Greeks in Constantinople.

Inasmuch as Greece and Turkey had raised the general question of the treatment of minorities, the Council asked both Governments to submit to the Council at its December meeting in Rome reports on the situations of the Greek minority in Constantinople and the Turkish minority in Western Thrace.

The President of the Mixed Commission, who arrived here today from Constantinople, seemed indignant that the Council had interfered in the question of the arrests of the Greeks and frankly told the Council that the commission was quite capable of attending to its own business.

The President of the commission, General de Lara of Spain, explained that the momentary difficulty growing out of the arrests had been adjusted by the issuance of special certificates to those persons arrested who clearly were not liable under the exchange convention to deportation from Turkey. These persons were released from prison. To those arrested Greeks whose cases were not decided another type of certificate was issued, according to the General, who said the commission had obtained the assurance of the Turkish Government that these persons would be protected from further arrest.

The council took General de Lara's attack good naturedly, but it told him the study of the problem had now advanced far enough to permit of an early setlement of all outstanding difficulties.

During today's debate it transpired that the legal section of the mixed commission had favored the Greek contention that Greeks established in Constanstinople prior to 1918 should be deemed not only those legally registered, but also those possessing fixed residence with the intention of remaining permanently.

The opinion was generally expressed in Brussels tonight that if no mediating body like the Council of the League existed, the Turco-Greek controversy would have dragged along, probably getting worse and worse until it ended in an explosion.

Both M. Politis, for Greece, and Fethi Bey, for Turkey, accepted without reservation the Ishii report, which was adopted unanimously. Thus the entire controversy is regarded as being satisfactorily settled.

GEN. HUANG FU HEADS NEW PEKING CABINET

Dr. C. T. Wang Again Becomes Foreign Minister, With Li Shicheng Minister of War.

FOREIGNERS GUARD TIENTSIN

PEKING, Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—A provisional Cabinet under General Huang Fu as Acting Premier was mandated here tonight.

It was said in official circles that General Feng Yu-hsiang, whose coup d'etat recently placed him in control in Peking, wanted Dr. W. W. Yen, the retiring Premier, to head the provisional Cabinet. Dr. Yen, however, was said to have pleaded that his association with the old Cabinet would militate against his success with the new Government.

Tonight's mandate assigns to General Huang the posts of Minister of Communications and Minister of Education, as well as that of Acting Premier. General Huang was Minister of Education in Dr. Yen's Cabinet, which the provisional Cabinet desplaces.

Dr. C. T. Wang (Wang Cheng-ting), takes the post he held in 1922, that of Foreign Minister, and also will act as Minister of Finance. General Li Shucheng is made Minister of War, and Admiral Tu Hsi Kwei-tu Minister of the Navy.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PEKING, Oct. 31.—Great uncertainty still prevails as to the course of developments in North China. The part of Wu Pei-fu's army at Shahaikwan is surrounded and must surrender, leaving Chang Tso-lin master of the situation in Northeast Chihli. Wu, with his main forces withdrawn from Chinwantao, apparently disorganized but not demoralized, is preparing to meet the unexpected advance of Chang Tso-lin near Taku. With Feng Yu-hsiang, the "Christian General," coming down from Peking to attack him near Lofa, where already there has been skirmishing, Wu may soon be assailed on two sides by greatly superior forces.

All the Yangtaze provinces are still reported to favor Wu, and two Kiangsu divisions have entrained at Inukow for the north. Latest reports, however, are that the Suchow-fu junction of the Hankow and Lunghai Railways continues to be occupied by Shantung troops favorable to Feng, thus blocking the advance of any forces coming to Wu's assistance from the South.

To all appearances Wu is cornered in North China and for the present he is unable to continue his march to the capital. If his friends manage to get through he may still make a stand, but otherwise there seems nothing for him to do but attempt to turn to the South. Whether he will do this or make terms with Feng remains to be seen.

Troops Begin Firing Near Tientsin.

TIENTSIN, Oct., 31 (Associated Press).—Several trainloads of mutinous troops of the Second Shensi Division, which is composed of ex-bandits, arrived at Hsinho, near here, yesterday, and started firing promiscuously.

General Wu Pei-fu, deposed head of the Peking armies, who is concentrating his troops here, dispatched an armored train to the scene of the disturbance.

It was understood here late last night that negotiations were under way with a view of removing the rebellious troops to Siaochan, east of here. It was considered unlikely that they would force their way into Tientsin immediately.

Latest reports from Chinwangtao, north of here, said there was some firing on the wharves there last night. Women and children refugees were removed aboard the steamer Kwangping, the report added.

Two shiploads of the men arrived this evening and moored their craft on the river bank adjoining the old Russian concession. After reports were received that even more of them were coming, a Japanese destroyer was sent down the river to intercept them.

British troops tonight patrolled the Russian waterfront to keep the Chinese soldiers from landing, while American troops took charge of the opposite bank of the river, in the former German concession, to prevent any from crossing there.

Because most of the Chinese in the two ships are wounded, it was said to be probable that Tientsin foreign authorities would permit them to be removed to the city, first disarming them.

Wu Pei-fu today ordered the Bank of China to pay all salt revenues to him personally, instead of to foreign banks in accordance with the terms of the Reorganization Loan Agreement. The agreement, signed in 1913, made the salt duties security for a £2,000,000 loan.

The manager of the Bank of China reported Wu's order to the Consuls, who immediately lodged with General Wu a formal protest against this diversion of the revenues.

Reports were received late today that fighting had broken out at Tangshan. (The Chihli troops, retreating from Lwanchow, where Chang defeated them, were reported to be concentrating at Tangshan, important coal mining centre, in a former dispatch.)

Trouble also has broken out again at Taku, twenty-seven miles by rail from here, where many of the troops brought by General Wu from Chinwangtao, following the overthrow of the Peking Government and the dismissal of Wu as Commander-in-Chief, were landed. Fully 10,000 troops there are said to be out of hand.

In the face of such situations, the foreign guards here are being steadily increased. Two American destroyers from Taku, bringing United States marines, and an American gunboat are expected here tomorrow. In addition, a contingent of British marines is expected from Weihaiwei (Shantung), on the British Government steamer Marazion.

TOKIO, Nov. 1 (Associated Press).—Chang Tso-lin's forces have completely occupied Shanhaikwan, on the Chihli-Manchurian border; the port of Chinwangtao, adjoining Shanhaikwan, and Peitaho, a seaside resort southwest of Chinwangtao, according to a communiqué issued in Mukden by Chang Tso-lin, says the Mukden correspondent of the Kokusai News Agency.

SUGAR DUTY DECISION DELAYED BY DISPUTE

Tariff Commission Is Unable to Agree on Additional Report to Coolidge.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Inability of the Tariff Commission to agree on an additional report requested by President Coolidge in regard to the duty on sugar, was given as the reason for the holding up of his decision on this question, it was said at the White House today.

The difficulty was said to have arisen over an attempt to determine the cost of raising sugar beets in this country. Mr. Coolidge considers protection necessary for beet growers.

The President made it known during the day that he expects to reach a decision on the proposed reduction in duty recommended by three members of the Tariff Commission as soon as possible.

Detective Arrests His Man, A Riveter, 350 Feet in the Air

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 31.—"Come and get me," was the message sent by Abel Jones, Norfolk, Va., a riveter atop the Delaware River Bridge, to Howard Smith, a Camden detective, waiting at the foot of the structure with a fugitive warrant.

Smith took a look at the 350-foot tower, hesitated a moment and then climbed in the crude elevator used by the workmen and was shot to the top, where he made an aerial arrest. The warrant charged Jones with nonsupport of his wife and three children in Norfolk.

GEO. GOULD WEDDING APPROVED BY EDWIN

Edwin Testifies That Frank Ignored the Mandate Laid Down by Their Father.

George J. Gould asked and obtained the consent of his brother and co-trustee, Edwin, to his marriage with Mrs. Guinevere Sinclair, following the sudden death at Lakewood, N. J., of his first wife, Mrs. Edith Kingdon Gould, Edwin testified yesterday during the final day of his cross-examination in the trial of the $82,000,000 accounting suit over the estate of his father, Jay Gould, before Referee James A. O'Gorman at the office of Taylor, Knowles & Hack, 165 Broadway.

Edwin, who was prevented from resuming the witness stand Thursday afternoon by a sudden attack of indigestion, had completely recovered at the opening of yesterday's session. The question concerning his consent to his brother's marriage was asked by J. Arthur Leve of counsel for George J. Gould Jr. Edwin hesitated for an instant before saying that he agreed to the marriage on March 21, 1922.

"Is it necessary to go into all these details concerning the marriages in the Gould family at the present time?" asked David H. Taylor, counsel for the Jay Gould estate. "I have letters giving consent which will be produced."

Mr. Leve asked Edwin if his brother Frank had requested his consent to his third marriage and Edwin said he had not. Under the terms of Jay Gould's will the assent of a majority of the trustees to any marriage of his children was necessary to prevent them from forfeiting one-half of the amount left them by their father.

Edwin's cross-examination, which has been going on for the last two weeks, was concluded yesterday afternoon, although he was told by Referee O'Gorman to hold himself in readiness to reappear in case he was needed.

Edwin said his brother George loaned more than $2,000,000 of his personal funds to the Missouri Pacific Railroad while his brothers and sisters advanced nothing. George carried the burden of the entire loan for two years, Edwin said. In answer to a question by William Wallace Jr., counsel for George Gould's estate, Edwin admitted that he believed his father's estate should have shared the burden.

"I think," said Edwin, "that George was a man of means before our father's death and that the $2,000,000 he loaned the Missouri Pacific represented only a small part of his wealth."

Edwin explained that his sister Anna, now the Duchess of Talleyrand, was unable to furnish any funds for the loan. Some of the other heirs were possibly in the same condition, he said. It was found, he added, that all of the heirs could not enter into the Missouri Pacific loan at the time. There was not enough money in the railroad's treasury at the time to pay its obligations, he said.

The trial will be continued at 10:30 o'clock next Wednesday. Walter B. Walker of counsel for Frank Jay Gould said he expected to occupy the next three sessions in reading documentary evidence into the record.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA FIRST TO RATIFY PROTOCOL

League Council Members Think Britain May Call for Some Amendments.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—The first official ratification of the League of Nations protocol on arbitration and security has been made by Czechoslovakia, Paul Hymans, President of the Council of the League, announced this afternoon before the Council.

M. Hymans voiced the satisfaction of the Council and expressed the belief that Czechoslovakia's action augured well for the general approval and success of the protocol which is the first move toward the projected disarmament conference.

Czechoslovakia's ratification was transmitted to the Council in a letter from Foreign Minister Benes, who first drew up the protocol. He wrote that his nation was proud to take this step in the great work for the maintenance of world peace and justice. It is pointed out here that in Czechoslovakia treaties such as the protocol, which do not imply budgetary expenses, are ratified by the President's signature and do not require Parliamentary action.

In League circles tonight there seemed to be apprehension that Great Britain, under a Conservative Government, would not approve the Protocol without some amendments, and that this would entail the reconsideration of the document at the next regular Assembly of the League or its re-examination at a special Assembly; that, in any case, it would means the postponement of the Arms Conference scheduled for June, 1925.

The correspondent of The Associated Press finds in Brussels diplomatic circles considerable discussion of the so-called Japanese amendment to the Protocol, which if finally adopted in that document would mean that certain questions hitherto regarded as domestic in nature could be aired, though not decided, by a Council of the League of Nations.

Among the representatives of the Governments which took a prominent part in shaping the Protocol the opinion is expressed that American public opinion exaggerates the importance of the so-called Japanese clauses. Although it is generally admitted that immigration might figure as one of the problems which might find its way before the Council, there apparently is an attempt being made to mitigate the importance of the entire matter involved.

CRAIG CITY BUS PLAN IS PUT UNDER WAY

MAY REACH $25,000,000

Controller Holds That Municipal Assembly Has Full Power to Carry Out Plan.

The Board of Estimate instructed Chairman John H. Delaney of the Board of Transportation yesterday to prepare at once tentative figures on the cost of inaugurating and maintaining a city-wide municipally owned and operated bus system.

The action was taken by the Board of Estimate, sitting in Committee of the Whole in secret session. It is understood to be a direct result of the recent declaration made by Controller Charles L. Craig that under provisions of the Home Rule act the Municipal Assembly has the right to legalize city bus ownership and operation without further appeal to the State Legislature.

The executive session of the Committee of the Whole had been called yesterday ostensibly for the purpose of considering the statements made by nearly a hundred speakers who took part in the recent public hearings on the bus question, some arguing for municipal ownership and operation and many others opposing it. As a matter of fact, most of the time in executive session was consumed in discussing the validity of Controller Craig's proposal, the legal aspects of which had been referred to Corporation Counsel Nicholson for his opinion.

$25,000,000 Is Possible Cost.

When Mayor Hylan, after the secret meeting, was asked whether definite action in the matter of bus policy or bus franchises had been taken, he replied:

"We discussed the matter, but we decided to wait until Monday when the report from the Corporation Counsel on the bus situation probably will be placed before us."

Mayor Hylan, in his fight for municipal buses, always has maintained that with $25,000,000 his dream could be realized, and it was suggested yesterday that, if the enterprise should not call for more than that sum, it might be financed by issuing $25,000,000 of municipal bonds, which would be possible under the $1,000,000,000 increase in the assessed valuations of city real estate.

"In view of the repeated assertions of the Mayor, apparently backed by the other members of the Board of Estimate, that he favors and will continue to urge municipal ownership and operation of public utilities, it may be well for the tax-paying and rent-paying public to consider what such a city policy would mean. Such a subject received added importance from the Controller's introduction in the Municipal Assembly of measures to carry such a policy into effect. Leaving out of consideration the experience of this and other countries in Government ownership and operation of transportation lines, the experience of the City of New York is illuminating.

Charges $1,100,000 Ferry Loss.

"The city operates today ferries to Staten Island and to Brooklyn from Manhattan and to Queens from the Bronx and from Staten Island to Brooklyn. They are all operated at serious loss. The aggregate deficit annually, including all charges, is about $1,100,000. This deficit must be provided for in the budget, as the loss in the operations of subways is provided for in the budget in the debt service column. Controller Craig's recent investigation of the city's operation of local transportation lines showed that without considering capital charges, or taxes, or the cost of the labor and material furnished by the other city departments, the actual cost of transporting each passenger carried was 10.27 cents, while the fare charged was 5 cents.

"If all the transportation lines in the city, acquired and operated municipally, made no better showing than this, the cost can be imagined. The capital charge alone, if the Mayor's policy is carried out, would be approximately $600,000,000 at the lowest estimate furnished. The interest and amortization on this item alone would be at least $36,000,000 yearly, or 36 points in the tax levy. There would be a further loss in taxation of approximately $2,000,000. As the Mayor and his Administration are committed to a five-cent fare, there could be no hope of the proposed transportation system, municipally operative, earning capital charges.

Cites Other Objections.

"Under city operation, if the future is to be judged by the past, there would be demands for increased pay from all employes. More would be paid for supplies, and claims for damage or injury would be more feebly defended. In addition, there would in all probability be an immediate decline in efficiency of service. It is extremely doubtful if the city could operate the existing and proposed transportation lines for a five-cent fare without a serious loss in addition to the loss in taxation and the loss from capital charges. The experience with the ferries and with the Staten Island lines does not indicate any likelihood of revenue from city-owned and operated transportation lines.

"There is another very serious phase of the matter. There would undoubtedly be added to the 125,000 employes now on the city's payroll an enormous number of additional office holders, a situation fraught with political possibilities not pleasant for the rent payer to contemplate."

TRIBUTE TO ROOSEVELT.

School Children Hear Address by John Martin.

School children, representatives of the Roosevelt clubs in the public schools of Greater New York, held a meeting in the Roosevelt House, 28 East Twentieth Street, yesterday to pay tribute to the memory of Theodore Roosevelt. John Martin, the principal speaker, was applauded when he said:

"We can hear Roosevelt's laugh as he goes into new adventures of self-conquest and into new triumphs of honest convictions. And to the gravity of Washington, the fierceness of Jackson and the melancholy of Lincoln, we see added the timeless gayety of Roosevelt."

Mrs. Henry A. Wise Wood presided at the meeting. Others who spoke were Mrs. John Henry Hammond and Herman Hagerdorn.

REVERSES DECISION ON 'USURY' CHARGES

Appellate Division Holds Miller & Co. Did Not Violate Law by Charging Over 6 Per Cent.

ROBINSON CASE DISMISSED

Ruling Says That Under Certain Circumstances Brokers May Ask More Than Law Fixes.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, in a decision handed down yesterday, unanimously dismissed an action instituted by Colonel Myron W. Robinson, who was on the staff of Governor Edge of New Jersey, and reversed a decision of Justice John Ford of the Supreme Court ordering an accounting by Miller & Co., a Stock Exchange firm, of Colonel Robinson's transactions with the brokers from September, 1916, to January, 1921. The action was founded on the allegation of Colonel Robinson that Miller & Co. had charged him interest in excess of 6 per cent. on some of his margin transactions, in violation of the law, and Justice Ford, in announcing that he would appoint a referee to inquire into the transactions, denounced the interest as "usurious and unlawful."

At the proceeding before Justice Ford in the Special Term, James S. McDonough, counsel for Colonel Robinson, asserted that his client's 1,500 transactions through the brokerage firm had totaled $1,000,000. He said that when Colonel Robinson demanded an inspection of the books of the brokerage firm relating to these transactions, after Colonel Robinson closed his account in 1921, it was refused.

Louis Werner, counsel for the brokers, and who brought the case to the Appellate Division, contended before Justice Ford that Colonel Robinson was not entitled to a judicial accounting because he had accepted from the brokers, during the period of the transactions, monthly statements, and called attention to the fact that these statements were accepted by the plaintiff without objection. Mr. Werner said that when the account was closed, Colonel Robinson accepted $855.62 as the balance due him. He contended that, although the brokerage firm included in these statements in several instances items charging interest in excess of 6 per cent., this interest was not usurious.

The opinion of the Appellate Division, which was written by Justice Edgar S. K. Merrell, emphasized the fact that there was an absence during the proceeding before Justice Ford of any evidence suggesting fraud in the transactions with Colonel Robinson, and ruled that the charging of interest of more than 6 per cent. was not in every case usurious, and that under certain conditions brokers may charge greater interest than ordinarily permitted by law. "The courts have held," Justice Merrell went on, "that merely because a greater rate of interest than that allowed by statute is charged there is no presumption of usury."

THE WEEK'S PRICE TREND.

Although there were fewer changes in Dun's wholesale commodities price list this week than last, the excess of advances over declines was larger than was then the case. Of the current week's 76 changes 50 were upward, making the division almost two advances for every decline. Last week, in a total of 96 revisions there were only 16 more advances than declines, the former totaling 56. Except in the foodstuffs, where two "ups" were shown to one "down," the general list did not contain many features.

The following list gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last year and the corresponding week a year ago:

†Nominal.

The local market for provisions was more unsettled this week than for some time. A decline of 25 cents a barrel took place in Spring patent flour, but none of the other grades was changed. Middle Western lard and bacon were lower here, but hams advanced. At Chicago mess pork and live sheep went up, short ribs and live beef were unchanged, and live hogs declined.

Only two revisions were indicated in the list for dairy products. They consisted of a rise of 3 cents a pound in extra creamery butter and an advance of a cent a dozen in the best grade of fresh-gathered eggs. The latter now stand where they did a year ago at this time, but all of the other prices in the list are lower than they were then.

The list for fresh fruits showed no change one way or the other, while in the dried ones the only decline took place in citron. The advances were seen in apricots and in lemon and orange peel. Advances in choice marrow and choice pea beans offset a decline in choice white kidney stock in the vegetable list. Choice Blue Rose rice was lower. Onions went up 15 cents a bag.

The basic Brazilian coffees continued to rise, and No. 7 Rio is now slightly more than twice as expensive as it was at this time a year ago. The rise in No. 4 Santos has been very sharp also in the last year. The teas showed no changes, and the same was true of sugar. In the spices mace, ginger and red pepper were higher, while cloves declined.

Five of the six revisions seen in the grains list this week were downward. The declines took place in wheat, corn, oats, rye and malting barley, and the advance in long rye straw. Hay was unchanged. The leather list again failed to show change either way, and the only changes in the hides were advances in No. 1 buffs and No. 1 kips. For the first time in many weeks there was a break in the price of tallow.

The building materials showed only a rise in common Hudson River brick, which, however, continues 25 per cent. lower than the corresponding 1923 figure. In the metals all of the changes were confined to the minor articles, consisting of advances in electrolytic copper, zinc, lead and tin. The lumber list showed advances in redwood, bevel siding and six-inch pine air-dried "roofers," but there were declines in plain white oak, poplar, chestnut and maple.

A rise of $1.75 a pound in menthol, in jobbing lots, featured the week's revisions in the combined lists for drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs and oils. In this group only four of the fifteen changes were downward. Advances in resin and turpentine were the only fluctuations seen in the naval stores. Jute was higher.

In the paints advances took place in American litharge, American red lead, white lead in oil and dry white lead. Both Japanese and Chinese raw silks were lower, as was S. S. & C. book paper. Brazilian crude rubber advanced, but the best plantation rubber was cheaper. The textiles showed higher burlaps and lower unfinished cotton goods.

Most Retail Collections Gain.

Except for the women's specialty store group, which without exception went behind the same month last year, the member stores reporting to the Associated Retail Credit Men of New York City, Inc., showed improvement in their September collections. The average increase in the department store group is about 2 per cent., the actual range being from 46½ per cent. of the outstanding to 62½ per cent. The range in the group embracing men's and women's wear specialty stores is from 35 to 50 per cent., with an average increase of 1½ per cent. An average decline of 3 per cent. is shown by the group of stores which cater solely to women. The lowest store in this group reports collections totaling 28.3 per cent. of the outstanding, while the best showing is only 43.7 per cent. No average increase or decrease is given for the men's specialty stores, due to the few members reporting in this group. With one minor exception, however, the reporting stores showed gains over September, 1923. The range is from 45.8 per cent. to about 61.

October Sets a Record for Drought.

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—October has the record of being the dryest month except one in one hundred and seven years. There has been only six one-hundredths of an inch of precipitation. Three traces of rain were detected early in the month. With no rain in sight, the indications point to a new record for continuous drought, the Weather Bureau officials say.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Is Making New Type of Hose.

A new method of making full-fashioned novelty half-hose, golf hose and sport hose has been perfected by a local hosiery manufacturing company. According to the sales executive of the company, the goods produced in the new way will come into close competition with the hand-made Scotch goods that are handled so extensively by the better class importers and dealers. Almost any design can be made by the new method, for which a patent application has been made, as well as contrasting colors, which, it is contended, will have a far-reaching effect in the trade. It is further said that the goods made in the new way can be retailed profitably at about half the price of the imported hand-made merchandise. Business is now being taken on the novelty half-hose, which are offered in grades wholesaling at $12 and $15 a dozen. Similar ideas in the golf and sport hose will be offered in the near future.

The demand for corduroys and velveteens is reported as well up to normal in some quarters, although it is for immediate rather than future needs. One leading house reports a substantial increase in these lines over last year, and the feeling in the industry in general is optimistic. One manufacturer is having an unusual success with corduroy leggings for children, which were first shown about six weeks ago, and is unable to meet the many demands for immediate delivery. Prices are firm, although the increased cost of raw materials indicates a possible rise in the near future.

Call for Leather Novelties.

A leading manufacturer of leather novelties reports a Fall business well in advance of last year, and in other quarters as well there is an optimistic feeling for a record season. Among the recent novelties offered by one house are various small specialties in genuine ostrich leather, for which there is a great demand from the more exclusive shops. The articles, in distinctive designs in this leather, include bill-folders, vanity cases, address books, cigar and cigarette cases and picture frames. The demand for mah jong sets has shown a distinct falling off, it is said, with a corresponding increase in the call for bridge and poker sets.

Use of Artificial Flowers.

Artificial flowers are playing an ever-increasing part in home decoration, it is said, and this industry has grown 200 per cent. in the last five years, according to a leading manufacturer. The greatly increased cost of real flowers since the war has resulted in a growing use of artificial ones for church and other decoration, and department stores are rapidly building up a large demand for them. There is a wide range of prices, according to the quality of the workmanship. One house offers elaborate pieces, including vases and containers in all kinds of pottery and glassware.

Fur Buyers Lost Opportunity.

The disposition of many retail buyers of fur coats to hold off until prices are just to their liking has cost many of them a pretty penny lately. Due to the slow start of the season and the unseasonable weather, a number of the manufacturing furriers were forced to cut prices on certain types of coats in order to stimulate their movement. This did not have the desired effect. With the advent of the big football games, however, and the riding of long distances to them in automobiles, a sudden consumer demand for fur coats sprang up that caught the retailers with short stocks. This forced the buyers into the market, where they found to their chagrin that prices had been restored to their former levels. Needing the merchandise, they had to pay the higher figures. This is especially true of raccoon coats, which again seem to be "the rage" in college circles, and the call for them is reflected in the good-sized purchases of coat "coons" that have been made of late in the raw fur market.

The market for women's hats is still slow, and manufacturers are able to book orders only by offering unusually good values and immediate delivery for special sales. Small hats in the high colors are leading, soft turbans in crush effects in ribbon and satin being particularly strong. The favored material is Faille silk, with trimmings of embroidery and flowers. Spring styles are still an unknown quantity, as Paris manufacturers are also cautious in offering merchandise except for present demands.

Gray Goods Sales Were Fair.

A fair amount of business was put through in gray goods here yesterday, despite the drop in cotton and the nearness of election. In the printcloths, business was done in 39-inch 68-72s at 9¾ cents and in 38½-inch 64-60s, in a small way, at 8¾ cents. Late in the day, however, the price of the latter construction eased off an eighth and some trading took place at the new figure. Sales of 38½-inch 60-48 printcloths were made at 7⅝ cents, while in the same width 48-squares brought 6⅝ cents for late delivery and 44-40s moved at 5¾ cents. Sales of sheetings for the day included 40-inch 2.50s and 2.85s at 16 and 14 cents, respectively. For 37-inch 48-square four-yard sheetings 10¼ cents was again the best that buyers could do. Prices for pajama checks continued to be based on 10⅝ cents for the 72-80s.

Embroidered Table Linen.

Italian crash linens are reported as the leading item in embroidered table linen, luncheon sets and scarfs. They have largely superseded the Madeiras, for which there is little demand. One importer said yesterday that present wholesale prices are so low that the consumer is getting a value far greater than the intrinsic worth of these hand-made articles justifies and that, in fact, American prices are lower than retail prices in Europe. The demand for the staple Italian cut-work is only fair, it is said. Prices for Chinese merchandise are exceptionally low, as there is considerable overproduction. The Chinese mosaics are replacing the German, as they are both cheaper and of better quality.

Offset Warm Weather's Effect.

The effect of this week's mild weather on the demand for anthracite, Saward's Journal will say today, has been more or less offset by the loss of production incidental to Mitchell Day and a church holiday, to say nothing of a local strike which kept 10,000 miners idle on Friday and Saturday of last week. Had it not been for these interruptions, prices for independent tonnage might have suffered a setback instead of just holding their own. The improvement in the bituminous trade that was in evidence during September and the first part of October has run its course for the time being. Buying was less active in the second half of the month just closed than in the six preceding weeks.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 31.—Wednesday's transcontinental air mail from New York arrived here at 11:15 Friday.

The stock market, which in numerous past Presidential years has made a point of advancing vigorously just before election day (it did so even in the dismal financial Autumn of 1920), gave some signs of a strong upward impulse yesterday. It was not entirely convincing, for the noteworthy gains were pretty much restricted to the scattered industrial "specialties" which professional operators have lately moved about at will, the highest prices did not hold, and the average advance was only fractional. An unusually large business was done, however; total transactions exceeded those of any day since the first week of September and were well above a million shares. Transactions were large in the bond market also; the day's total has been exceeded only twice in October and twice in September. Prices for bonds did not change greatly, but the Treasury 4¼ per cents noticed the week's relapse in money rates by returning to its high-record price of ten days ago.

Sterling exchange went fractionally higher and closed at the best, $4.52⅞. This was still, however, 2 to 4 cents below the ruling rate of the second week of August. Paris exchange rose rather more considerably than sterling; possibly because speculators in francs were generalizing from the British election and assuming that the reaction against radical policies and programs, this season, is not limited by the boundaries of any one country. The inference is not unreasonable, judging from surface appearances or from general principles. The acceptance and application of the Dawes scheme of reparations must have gone a long way toward allaying political discontent, the subscriptions to the German loan have given an international hostage to fortune, and the change in underlying European conditions is of a sort which could hardly fail to impress political sentiment. As for the London stock market, that had evidently passed into a demonstration of real enthusiasm yesterday.

There was little or no general news with a bearing on finance, and even the grain markets moved up and down with an indecision which showed that a successful stand has been made against "runaway markets." The accumulating railway statements for September continue to show an aggregate gain in net earnings of 25 to 30 per cent. over 1923. If such a percentage were to hold for all the roads, the month's total net result would be around $116,000,000, or fully $10,000,000 above the high monthly record of October, 1921.

The week-end reviews of mercantile trade will be read with more interest after election than today; it will then be their pleasing or disappointing office to show by tangible evidence whether the prolonged "hand-to-mouth" period in a season of seemingly stimulative influences was or was not the result of political apprehension only. Their survey of this week's business leaves the observer exactly where he was before. One of them goes so far as to say that "even with the restraining effect of the near-by elections, business as a whole has made further headway." But this is promptly qualified by describing the "waiting attitude" and the "deferred commitments," while another summary can say nothing better than that "a fair, if not actually good, trade is going forward."

So far as experience is a guide, there is much probability that the report a week from now will be nearly as noncommittal, no matter how the election goes. Most of us know what disillusionment is apt to await people who are reckoning on an overnight reversal of the business situation when long expected good or bad news has been received. But Wall Street is always looking for exceptions to such rules.

MONEY.

FRIDAY, OCT. 31, 1924.

There was again an abundance of funds available for demand and period accommodation, but it failed to stimulate increased borrowing, or lower the prevailing charges. Stock Exchange call money continued at 2 per cent., with a small amount placed in the outside market at 1¾ per cent. Bankers withdrew their offering of six months' money at 3¼ per cent., but it remained the bid of borrowers without any actual business reported at that figure. Commercial paper and acceptances were dull, discounts ruling at previous levels.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Pre-Election Influences Evident in Strong and Active Market.

Yesterday's stock market was the strongest and most active of the week. Trading in 484 issues aggregated more than 1,000,000 shares, the third "million-share day" of the month. All classes of stocks were taken in hand and carried upward briskly, with particular activity in the speculative issues, which have been the subject of pool attention. Wall Street was inclined to dub it an "election market," and showed anxiety to prove it to be a Wall Street demonstration in discount of the election results. Yesterday's market was, however, almost entirely a professional Wall Street affair. Brokers were not able to note any degree of increase in the outside participation. Nevertheless, Wall Street as a whole was more cheerful yesterday than it has been at any time in several weeks.

Railways and the Market.

The railway shares played a considerable part in the stock market yesterday, and while the movement of some of the railway shares was not as spectacular as that of other stocks they were considered by many students of the situation as one of the "strengthening factors." Several of the low-priced railroad shares went to new high records for the year. Among them were the Colorado Southern, the common and preferred stocks of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, the preferred of Missouri Pacific and of Western Pacific. Earnings statements for September were considered one of the reasons that the railway shares played such an important part in the market. It was pointed out that traffic in September this year was less than in the same month of last year, but that earnings are running 20 per cent. ahead. This, it was declared, gives some indication of what comparative showing may be expected of the railroads for the remaining months of the year, when they will have been handling traffic that from present indications will be considerably larger than for the same period of last year.

Sterling and Parity.

Continued strength of sterling, in the face of heavy selling to meet import requirements, has brought to the fore again in Wall Street discussion heard early this year, namely, that the British Government would soon seek to put the pound back to par. There is sufficient financial strength in England, it was contended by some bankers yesterday, to accomplish this at almost any time, but the point on which there was some doubt was whether the British Government would find this advisable. For one thing, it was pointed out, the discount now placed on sterling is helping England to meet American competition with better success than if the quotation was at par, also that, despite the rehabilitation of Germany, there still are a number of nations in Europe which are struggling along with depreciated currencies and which now are able to buy from England, but might find it even more difficult to do so if forced to pay parity for London bills. Nevertheless, there was said by bankers to be a fairly widespread belief that the new Conservative Government would look favorably upon the idea of restoring sterling to par.

Awaiting Light on the French Loan.

With a total of $114,417,000 bonds placed with investors during the current week, bankers began casting about yesterday for other work to do the coming week, and in this connection it was quite apparent that they were giving considerable consideration to the prospect of an offering next week of the new French loan. About the only thing definitely known about this loan is that it is coming, and, according to bankers, coming soon. But some new light was thrown on the subject by reason of a statement made in Paris which indicated that the French internal loan would be floated first, and the external loan soon thereafter. It is now generally agreed that the American part of the loan will be divided into two parts, the initial advance consisting of $50,000,000, which will be used to take care of immediate trade and governmental requirements, while the second part will consist of $100,000,000 to be floated in time to meet the expiration of the present French banking credit of like amount.

Strength of Norfolk & Western.

The strength of Norfolk & Western in the face of the announcement from both the heads of that railroad and the Pennsylvania that the lease of the Norfolk & Western was no longer under consideration caused considerable comment in Wall Street during the past few days. Perhaps the greatest factor in the remarkable showing that the Norfolk & Western has made under the circumstances is the report of accumulation of the stock. From time to time the financial district has heard rumors of the Pennsylvania taking a new tact and purchasing the property, which it now controls, rather than leasing it. Whether or not this is being done is not known, but it is one of the chief reasons that the stock is not being thrown upon the market, according to those who have been watching this development.

A Market With Few Pitfalls.

The ideal security market for an investor, it was remarked yesterday, is one in which he can buy almost blindfolded and stand a 9-to-1 chance of getting a security that will not bring him a loss, and this condition had apparently held true of the bond market for the last year. There were surprisingly few pitfalls shown in the twelve months' course of prices, so bankers noted yesterday, and very rarely, it was said, has a condition like this prevailed. Whether the same condition will continue to hold true they admitted was problematical and a subject on which there was considerable dispute. Opinion among investment houses seemed to be about evenly divided as to the probable course of price movements of tax-exempt bonds, of railroad bonds and of one or two other classes in which there has been sustained and heavy buying. But there seemed to be a fair unanimity among them that corporate bonds of the so-called "second class," as distinguished from the so-called "gilt edges," would benefit, during another four or five months at least, from steady buying; while in the foreign bond division, particularly the securities of the neutral nations of Europe, there was believed to be in evidence a growing demand. But the whole subject, it was conceded, hinges upon the money market.

Formal announcement yesterday afternoon by the Southern Pacific that the securities had changed hands which made the El Paso & Southwestern a part of the Southern Pacific System was of particular significance. The speed with which the undertaking was completed was cause for comment, as it was pointed out that the agreement between the heads of the two railroads was not completed until June. Many in the railroad community considered it as an opening wedge in a year of railroad consolidations.

FORMS $100,000,000 UTILITY COMPANY

A NEW HOLDING CONCERN

Public Offering of $20,000,000 of Bonds as Part of Plan Is Expected Next Week.

One of the largest corporate groupings of public utility properties undertaken in years involves the segregation of the power and gas properties of the Cities Service (Doherty) interests from the Doherty oil properties and their inclusion in a new corporation to be known as the Cities Service Power & Light Company, it became known yesterday. The new corporation is now in the final process of organization. It will have an authorized capitalization of $100,000,000, consisting of $20,000,000 of bonds, $10,000,000 preferred stock, $5,000,000 of second preferred stock and $65,000,000 of common. A public offering of the bonds is expected to be made next week.

The launching of the new holding company for an extensive list of utilities and their subsidiaries in the West and Middle West is a sequel to the steady building-up of power zones through acquisitions and power interchange arrangements in the territory served. The new company will provide a vehicle for concentration upon this power development work, it is believed, as the tendency throughout the power business is toward consolidations and the erection of "super-power" districts, whereby cheaper service and more varied services are made possible.

The Cities Service Company, the present concern, will own all the common stock of the Cities Service Power and Light Company, in which will be placed the common stocks of public utility companies operating in fifteen States and serving an estimated total population of more than 2,000,000 scattered over 400 communities. Among the important properties to be included will be the Toledo Traction, Light and Power Company, which owns the Toledo Edison Company; the Ohio Public Service Company, Public Service Company of Colorado, including ownership of the Denver Gas and Electric Company, Kansas City Gas Company, the Empire District Electric Company, and the St. Joseph (Mo.) Light, Heat and Power Company.

Of the large cities which the operating units of the new company will serve are Toledo, Sandusky, Warren, Lima, Alliance and Mansfield, Ohio; Denver, Boulder, Sterling and Fort Collins, Colo.; and Kansas City and Joplin, Mo. Through other companies electric power is also supplied to the lead and zinc mining districts of Missouri and Oklahoma. The gross business of the properties comprising the new corporation, it is said, will total around $49,000,000 a year on the basis of the current year's increased earnings.

The formation of the company will have no effect on the financial structure of the parent company, except, it was pointed out yesterday, to provide a more flexible medium for the development of the public utility phase of its business. The step has been in contemplation for some time in order to establish a clear cut division between the oil and utility enterprises of Cities Service and to make more effective the activities of the parent companies in both fields. The officers, it is said, will include the principal executives of the Cities Service organization.

Particular interest was displayed yesterday in Cities Service Company common stock by the speculative element in Wall Street. On sales of only 560 shares during the day the stock rose 10 points to 157½. The Cities Service "scrip" rose 13 points, while there was a gain of 5¼ points in Cities Service preferred "BB" shares. The preferred "B" was off an eighth. The certificates advanced ¾ of a point.

Thermiodyne Stock Sold.

H. D. Williams & Co. announced yesterday that the issue of 70,000 shares of Thermiodyne Radio Corporation capital stock had been heavily oversubscribed.

MAINE CENTRAL DIVIDEND.

First Payment Since September, 1920, Is Declared on Preferred.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 31.—The Maine Central Railroad directors today declared a quarterly cash dividend of $1.25 per share on the preferred stock. It is payable Dec. 1 to preferred stockholders of record Nov. 15. This is the first dividend declared since Sept. 1, 1920.

Announcement was made that the plan authorized by the stockholders last April to issue $600,000 par value of additional preferred stock, to be distributed to preferred stockholders in payment of accumulated and unpaid dividends had been brought before the Interstate Commerce Commission on Aug. 8, but had since been withdrawn from the consideration of the commission. In regard to future policy the following statement was made by President Morris McDonald:

"It is proposed to continue payment of quarterly dividends hereafter if net profits of the company are available therefor, having in mind that, as the cash position of the company and its net profits warrant, payments on account of the dividends accumulated to Sept. 1, 1924, amounting to $20 per share, will be made from time to time until the full amount is paid."

F. J. Lisman & Co. yesterday announced the purchase by them of 4,500 shares of the 7 per cent. guaranteed stock of the Bush Terminal Company, the remainder of the total authorized issue of $7,000,000. The average holdings of the stock are less than thirty shares.

WEEK'S NEW BONDS TOTAL $114,417,000

Public Utility Group Leads the Offerings With an Aggregate of $31,250,000.

FOREIGN ISSUES $30,000,000

Industrials Amount to $20,650,000 and State and Municipal Securities Reach $9,077,000.

After last week's lull in new financing during which the total was $45,016,000, the volume increased this week when offerings totaled $114,417,000. This compared with $152,762,000 two weeks ago when the German loan was floated. Public utility and foreign financing dominated the market.

By groups the offerings of this week compared with those of last week as follows:

	This Week.	Last Week.
Public utility	$31,250,000	$13,500,000
Foreign	30,000,000	......
Industrial	20,650,000	22,000,000
Miscellaneous	14,975,000	......
State and municipal	9,077,000	8,516,000
Railroad	8,465,000	......
Farm loan	......	1,000,000

Save for tag-end pieces of recent offerings of tax-exempt bonds said to aggregate $125,000,000, bankers reported yesterday an actual scarcity of bonds on hand. Prospects for next week were said to indicate an active period of financing, but outside of the prospective French loan there was no large single issue in sight. The aggregate would bulk large, brokers said, owing to the great number of small issues on which banks were reported at work. One of the largest offerings now in sight was said to be $7,000,000 of bonds of a public utility corporation.

BOSTON & MAINE STUDIES MOTOR TRUCK

Creates a Department to Devise Means of Meeting New Competition.

The Boston & Maine Railroad announced yesterday the establishment of a department to study motor truck and bus transportation. Howard F. Fritch, formerly assistant general manager of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway, and Frank I. Hardy, formerly manager of the Chelsea division of the Eastern Massachusetts, have entered the service of the road to make a study of the problem. President J. H. Hustis of the Boston & Maine in a statement said:

"Motor competition in Boston & Maine territory has been constantly growing, and has reached the stage where the railroad must determine what its future attitude toward this competition is to be. The question in some sections is whether the railroad or motor truck can best serve the territory. It is apparent that in certain fields both instrumentalities of transportation cannot be continued, and that either one or the other must prevail. The railroads cannot continue to contribute toward the building of highways and their upkeep in order to subsidize a form of transportation which is sapping railroad revenues, and in the case of some branch lines reducing them almost to the vanishing point.

"This situation is not peculiar to the Boston & Maine, but the fact that in much of the territory which it serves its lines are paralleled by highways especially adapted to motor transportation makes the Boston & Maine particularly susceptible to the inroads of this form of competition, both public and private, and in both passenger and freight service. The problem is not necessarily one of competition, but involves the elimination of expensive duplication and the adjustment of both forms of transportation to a logical and permanent basis."

SAY STAGE IS SET FOR PROSPERITY

HAVE NO FEAR OF RADICALS

A canvass of Wall Street banking houses and industrial, railroad and public utility offices indicated clearly yesterday that business men generally are looking for a period of prosperity over the next few years, which will compare favorably with any previous trade expansion era in the nation's history. The stage is all set for it, according to their statements, and a study of political conditions has convinced business men that the so-called radical menace will not cause serious injury.

While they did not care to come out openly and refer to Senator La Follette as the danger sign in the present political situation, they made it plain that his candidacy was the one which troubled them. Whether Coolidge or Davis should be elected, they said, would make but little difference; and even were La Follette elected President, so one of the most prominent international bankers said, business could not be retarded long—possibly not more than three or four months. Practically all uncertainty, it is asserted, has now been removed; betting odds against Senator La Follette's chances either for election or of throwing the electino into Congress, indicating a top heavy belief that his guns are spiked.

Major promises on which financiers base their expectations of a great trade expansion follow: The increase of an estimated $1,000,000,000 or more in the purchasing power of farmers due to recent price advances; settlement of the reparations problem and the reopening through foreign credits of foreign trade fields to American industry; a potential demand within Europe for certain American commodities and products, which, even after allowing for efficient home production, would require two years or so to satisfy; and the abundance of investment capital now available in America.

Cash Reservoir Not Exhausted.

Since early January, the investment market has absorbed close to $100,000,000 of new bonds a week and as shown in the current weekly total which exceeds that figure that the reservoir of wealth has been far from exhausted.

The situation contains with its unusual combination of factors for trade expansion, a few danger spots. Principal among these, bankers said, was the possibility of gold inflation which might cause rash speculation. But the Federal Reserve Board at Washington has given this subject close study, and the opinions of bankers have been asked as to ways and means of checkmating such a danger should it come into sight. Ebbing of the tide of gold shipments into the United States, as indicated in the current review of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, was regarded as a highly desirable corrective. It was also stated that business men generally still retained a vivid memory of what inflation did to them in 1920 and 1921.

According to the National City Bank, in its review of trade conditions, the most recent car loading statement showing that for the week ended Oct. 18, loadings totaled 1,102,336 cars, and were the largest on record, "tells a story not only of great business activity, but of very high operating efficiency on the part of the railroads." The report also says:

"The entire business situation has the appearance of waiting with good expectations for something, and the common opinion in business circles is that it wants the Presidential election out of the way. That is the next landmark to pass. After it has passed and the fear of radical political changes is allayed, it may be that some people will still hesitate to see what other people are going to do, but in our opinion the way will be clear for one of the most important period of prosperity this country ever has known.

Marketing the Crop.

"The crop has been marketed with unprecedented rapidity. According to the statistician of the Oklahoma State Board of Agriculture, 72 per cent. of that State's production had been sold by Sept. 25. The strength of this situation has been in the foreign buying."

The American Exchange National Bank in its monthly letter, out today, says:

"The increased purchasing power bestowed upon the more needy farming districts by the advance in farm product prices is beginning to make itself felt in the markets for general merchandise, improvement in trade being reported from the Northwest and other sections, which are experiencing prosperity on a scale they have not enjoyed in several years.

"As in the month before, the steady recovery of various industries which have been laboring under difficulties was an especially gratifying feature of the progress of the month. Among the industries which showed further improvement were oil and copper.

"The improvement in business was again reflected in trade statistics—car loadings, bank clearings and employment all showing increases. Following a period of firmness around the first of the month, the money market eased up again and Treasury 4¼s sold at a record high price."

UTILITY ISSUES SOLD.

Books were closed yesterday on the offerings of two public utility security issues. The $25,000,000 Brooklyn Edison Company, Inc., issue of general mortgage gold bonds, Series A, and bearing 5 per cent. coupons, was announced early in the day as sold by the Guaranty Company of New York, the National City Company and Dillon, Read & Co. Sale of the 100,000 shares of Standard Power and Light Corporation cumulative preferred stock was announced by H. M. Byllesby & Co. as syndicate managers.

Upon completion of new financing for the Brooklyn Edison Company, Inc., its total funded debt outstanding will be about $46,000,000, while its properties are valued at more than $100,000,000. The entire capital stock of the company, $59,704,300, with the exception of $1,850,000 par value then outstanding, has been issued at par for cash since 1900. Its stockholders, according to the company's report, number more than 10,000, as compared with 1,900 six years ago.

Pearsons-Taft Company and P. W. Chapman & Co. will offer a new issue of $2,750,000 Transportation Building first closed mortgage 6½ per cent. gold bonds, due Nov. 1, 1941, early next week. This building is at 600-630 South Dearborn Street, Chicago. The bonds will be secured by a first closed mortgage on the leasehold estates, comprising 18,384 square feet and the building.

Atchison Completes 4-Track Line.

The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad will open its double-tracg roadway from Chicago to Los Angeles within the next few weeks. With the exception of an easy level stretch east of Winslow, Ariz., on which the work is being pushed, the entire line of 2,231 miles has been four-tracked. Construction of the four-track roadbed was started a decade ago, and according to present estimates has cost the railroad more than $73,000,000.

Cars in Need of Repair Decrease.

Freight cars in need of heavy repair on Oct. 15 totaled 153,564, or 6.6 per cent. This was a decrease of 3,891 compared with Oct. 1.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Sterling exchange bounded forward to another current high yesterday, touching $4.52⅞ at the close, a net advance of 1 cent, and the best price since mid-August when the rate started down at the conclusion of the reparations agreement. The improvement was made in a session considerably more excited than Thursday, the alternate action of the "shorts" in first selling, and then repurchasing, imparting a nervous atmosphere throughout. Some dealers were of the impression that the speculators had oversold the market, for it was largely their covering purchases, aided by substantial buying by the big banks, that turned the market strong in the late afternoon after an earlier period of backing and filling.

Continentals were also buoyantly higher. In fact, the activity and breadth of dealings far eclipsed any recent session. French francs advanced 3¾ points, to 5.26¾ cents. Italian lire 1 point, to 4.35¼ cents, Belgian francs slightly less than three points, to 4.83 cents, and Holland guilders 9 points, to 39.45 cents. The Spanish, Swiss and Scandinavians moved apace. Far Easterns and South Americans were strong, good size gains interspersing these rates.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC ABSORBS EL PASO

$57,400,000 CHANGES HANDS

The Southern Pacific Company announced yesterday afternoon that the exchange of $57,400,000 of securities of that company for those of the El Paso & Southwestern Railroad Company and eight subsidiaries had been completed. From San Francisco came a message signed by William Sproule, President that the company has started construction of 300 miles of new line in Arizona. Further announcement will be made this morning that the 10,000 employes of the El Paso & Southwestern are now employes of the Southern Pacific Company.

Beginning today the Southern Pacific and the El Paso & Southwestern will be operated as a single railroad system, and so far as the operating end is concerned the name El Paso & Southwestern will pass out of existence. The El Paso & Southwestern Company, however, will continue as a holding company.

Transfer of the securities required the greater part of the day. Officials of the El Paso & Southwestern Company, accompanied by assistants, who carried practically a ton of the securities of the nine companies which comprised the El Paso & Southwestern Railroad system, arrived at the office of uJlius Kruttschnitt, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Southern Pacific.

With little formality the officials of the two railroads started a check of the securities which kept them engaged until close to 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Then the heads of the El Paso & Southwestern Company received the two securities which represented $28,000,000 of common stock of the Southern Pacific Company and $29,400,000 par value twenty-year 5 per cent. gold bonds.

The construction of 300 miles of new track which was started yesterday in Arizona will give the Southern Pacific practically a double tracked line from El Paso to Los Angeles, and will cost in the neighborhood of $10,000,000. The improvement is being made in connection with the merger, and a portion of the line must be completed by Dec. 31, 1926, according to the orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Under this order the Southern Pacific received permission to construct a line from Picacho to Chandler, Ariz., with a branch to the City of Florence, and another line from Hassayampa to Dome, Ariz. Officials said yesterday that this construction would be pushed through to completion without delay.

Ten thousand employes of the El Paso & Southwestern Railroad Company will become employes of the Southern Pacific this morning. They will retain their present positions, with their present salaries, it was stated yesterday; but there will be a readjustment of titles to conform to those on the lines of the Southern Pacific.

TO OFFER DE FOREST STOCK

It was learned in Wall Street yesterday that a public offering of 75,000 shares of the De Forest Radio Corporation would be made next week by Jesse L. Livermore. Details of the price were not available yesterday, but it is understood that Mr. Livermore plans to make a public announcement soon about the proposed issue.

The corporation is one of the largest in the field of manufacturing radio apparatus, and it was said yesterday that the proceeds of this stock issue would be used in expanding its manufacturing capacity. It is expected the shares will be listed on the New York Curb Market.

The sale of this stock will represent the third public offering of radio stock in Wall Street in the last fortnight. The two previous issues were heavily oversubscribed.

Frederick S. Fish, Chairman of the Studebaker board, in discussing the report, said: "The break in production necessitated by arrangement of plant for the manufacture of new Studebaker cars wholly explains reduced sales and net profits for the third quarter. Shipments of new models started in August are now under way in capacity quantity. Results for the fourth quarter give promise of being highly satisfactory and will exceed any similar quarter in the corporation's history."

BRITISH TRADE DEPRESSED.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The monthly summary of British trade issued by the American Chamber of Commerce in London, after referring to the disappointing September trade returns and increased unemployment figures, says the acute depression in the coal trade has caused pits to close and many collieries now are on day-to-day contracts. The majority of the miners are working on short time, but contract business for 1925 is fairly good.

There have been large reductions in the prices of pig iron and steel. Tin remains buoyant. Small importations of tin plates have been received from America. The total amount of tonnage under construction on Sept. 30 was 1,468,408, against 197,000 in September, 1923.

In the cotton trade the outlook is hopeful, says the report, which refers to the spinners' federation's decision to increase working hours to thirty-two weekly in the American section from Nov. 3. The manufacturers find it difficult to obtain sufficient yarn. In wool, record shipments of noils and wastes were made to the United States in September, amounting to £295,850.

Loans and Investments Up, Deposits Drop In Member Banks' Weekly Report, Oct. 22

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Further increases of $87,000,000 in loans and investments, as against decreases of $31,000,000 in net demand deposits, and of $38,000,000 in accommodation at the Federal Reserve banks, are shown in the Federal Reserve Board's weekly consolidated statement of condition on Oct. 22 of 744 member banks in leading cities.

Loans on United States Government securities increased by $2,000,000 during the week and on corporate securities by $85,000,000, while "all other," largely commercial, loans and discounts went down $30,000,000. Holdings of all classes of investments were higher than a week ago—United States bonds by $8,000,000, Treasury notes by $12,000,000 and certificates of indebtedness and corporate securities by $5,000,000 each.

Total loans and discounts of the New York City members increased by $57,000,000, increases of $5,000,000 in loans on United States Government securities and of $78,000,000 in loans on corporate securities being offset in part by a decrease of $26,000,000 in "all other" loans and discounts. Investments of these banks in United States securities went up $18,000,000, while their holdings of corporate securities declined by $3,000,000.

Net demand deposits were $31,000,000 less than last week, increases of $56,000,000 in the New York district and of $6,000,000 in the Philadelphia district being more than offset by declines in most of the other districts, principally Chicago, San Francisco, Cleveland and Atlanta.

Time deposits of all reporting members went up $11,000,000 and those of the New York City members $2,000,000. United States Government deposits were $10,000,000 lower than a week ago.

Reserve balances of all reporting banks declined by $20,000,000, those of the New York City banks by $2,000,000.

Total borrowings from the Federal Reserve banks went down from $104,000,000 to $66,000,000, most of the reduction being reported by the New York City banks.

SOUTH TO EXHIBIT ITS PRODUCTS HERE

AIMS TO REVEAL GROWTH

Will Dwell Particularly on Developments in Steel, Power and Transportation.

Plans are maturing for a Southern industrial exposition to be held in New York from Jan. 19 to Jan. 31, inclusive, which will be representative of virtually every phase of industrial activity in thirteen principal States.

The purpose is to bring to the attention of the East the facts in regard to the South's growth in diversification and her ability to supply not only her own needs but many needs of the rest of the country. The exposition will be know as the Southern Exposition and will be held at the Grand Central Palace.

In the lead in arranging for the exposition are prominent men in the textile, iron and steel, power, railway transportation and allied industries. William G. Serrine of Greenville, S. C., is President of the exposition; Joseph Hyde Pratt of Asheville, N. C., Vice President, and Holmes B. Springs, also of Greenville, is secretary. Governor E. Lee Trinkle of Virginia is Honorary President, and Honorary Vice Presidents are the Governors of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, Louisiana, Arkansas, West Virginia, Florida, Maryland and Texas.

Chambers of Commerce throughout the thirteen States are collaborating in the plans. The Advisory Board consists of F. Roger Miller, Chairman, who is manager of the Chamber of Commerce of Asheville; A. V. Snell, manager of the Chamber of Commerce of Jacksonville, Fla.; W. H. Hayley of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce, J. A. Gawthrop of Richmond, Va.; O. L. Bunn of Birmingham, Ala.; George Firmin, El Dorado, Ark.; Ireland Hampton of Fort Worth, Texas; Merle Thorpe, editor of The Nation's Business, Washington, D. C.; Walter F. Coxe, editor Southern Magazine, Nashville, Tenn.; Frank H. Andrews, manager of the Vicksburg, Miss., Board of Trade; W. N. Blanton, secretary-manager of the Shreveport, La., Chamber of Commerce, and John Paschall, managing editor of The Atlanta Journal.

A feature of the exposition will be the iron and steel production facilities in the South. The progress of power utilities in supplying the South's industrial needs also will be brought out.

SPEND $42,000,000 ON RAIL EQUIPMENT

Roads' Orders in October Swell Total Since Sept. 1 to $100,000,000.

$25,000,000 MORE FOR STEEL

Prospective Business Estimated at Another $100,000,000—Outcome of Election to Influence Placing.

With fifty-one locomotives and 1,470 freight cars bought in the last week of October, the railroads of the United States placed orders for 185 locomotives, 11,853 freight cars and 238 passenger cars, having a total value of about $42,000,000 during October. This brings the value of railway equipment purchased during the present buying movement, which started early in September, to more than $100,000,000. This is in addition to the 600,000 tons of steel valued at $25,000,000 which has been ordered in the last two months.

According to an estimate made yesterday by the Railway Age, prospective equipment business will total $100,000,000. Just when and how soon this business will be placed, the publication says, depends largely on the outcome of the election on Tuesday.

Orders for the last week in October included that of fifty Mikado type locomotives placed by the Wabash with the American Locomotive Company. The Southern Pacific has ordered a single locomotive of an entirely new type, and is understood to be in the market for eighteen locomotives of the 2-10-2 type. The Delaware, Lackawanna & Western has ordered two mountain type locomotives from the American Locomotive Company. Besides these orders the Pennsylvania has authorized the construction of fifty switch engines in its own Altoona shops.

The Southern Railway has ordered 1,445 freight cars in addition to the 4,150 previously purchased. The additional cars include 1,095 box cars ordered from the American Car & Foundry Company, 150 gondola cars ordered from the Kilby Car & Foundry Company, and 200 gondolas ordered from the General American Car Company.

GERMANS SETTLING WITH OUR BANKERS

A highly satisfactory attitude has been shown by Germany in negotiations by American bankers to obtain a settlement of claims for payment of pre-war German mark balances, fair to all concerned in view of the depreciation of the German mark, according to a statement from the American Bankers Association. Negotiations are being carried on under the direction of Fred I. Kent, Chairman of the Commerce and Marine Commission of the association, with representatives of the German Government, German bankers, the State Department of the United States and the Mixed Claims Commission.

Regarding the negotiations, Mr. Kent states that the aim of the association is "to eliminate every barrier to the trade and commerce of the United States and to encourage the development of peaceful and friendly relations between our country and other countries."

According to Mr. Kent, the majority of the banks concerned are more interested in securing a fair and final settlement, as being to the interests of both countries, rather than in obtaining the money due them, as in most cases the amounts in themselves are small.

American bankers have taken the stand that pre-war balances in German banks were cash assets which, under the treaties of Berlin and Versailles, come ahead of reparation payments. They pointed out that British and French banks received their balances on a gold mark basis, and declared that Americans were entitled to the same treatment, except that the exchange value of the mark should be that established by the Treaty of Berlin.

The progress made in these negotiations before the recent German dollar loan was issued is said to have been a factor assuring American bankers of the intent of the German Government to meet its obligations and warranting them in offering the loan to the American public.

PROGRESS IN RAIL MERGER.

Minority Stockholders May Be Cared For in Van Sweringen Deal.

Lawyers representing the Van Sweringen interests have returned to Cleveland after conferences here with counsel for the Pere Marquette and the Erie Railroads regarding the terms of the proposed leases. The conferences will be resumed on Nov. 10. It was said yesterday that the outlook was more hopeful than it has been for several days, and that some provision might be made for the minority stockholders. Directors of the Pere Marquette have declined to approve leases which did not contain such provisions.

Apart from the minority stockholder provision it was stated yesterday that definite progress had been made toward the completion of the consolidation. Informal conferences with the Interstate Commerce Commission indicate that the consolidation will meet with the approval of that body.

DRY GOODS HAS BUSY WEEK.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the wholesale dry goods trade, say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods was greater than last week's volume and exceeded, also, that of a year ago for the same period.

"Road sales for current Fall shipment showed a decided increase over a week ago and were about the same as during the corresponding week last year.

"There were more customers in the market than in 1923 for the same week.

Woolworth Store for Havana.

F. W. Woolworth & Co. is planning to open a store in Havana, Cuba, which will be handled from the Atlanta department. This is the first time the Woolworth Company has gone off the American Continent with a location, its present stores being all located in the United States and Canada. A subsidiary company operates stores in the British Isles.

American Metal Earnings.

The American Metal Company, for the quarter ended Sept. 30, reports net income of $1,137,323 after Federal taxes, depreciation and depletion, equivalent after preferred dividends to $1.77 a share earned on the outstanding 591,009 shares of no par value common stock. This compares with $937,949 in the preceding quarter and $899,373 in the first quarter of the year.

WHEAT RISES AGAIN ON BIG PURCHASES

WINNIPEG MARKETS WEAK

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—Buying of about 3,500,000 bushels of wheat, which local traders attributed to Livermore, was largely responsible for a strong rally in wheat, after an early break of 1 cent, and, while the finish was on a reaction from the top, net gains were ¼@1 cent. Considering the amount of wheat bought, however, the market was regarded as having made a poor response.

With all Continental markets closed tomorrow, All Saints' Day, export demand is expected to remain slow.

Houses with Eastern connections were good buyers at times of July, which led the advance. The buying was in the face of an estimated increase of 12 per cent. in the Winter wheat acreage for the 1925 crop, as shown by the Cromwell report.

October wheat in Winnipeg went out on a 2-cent decline, with October sold and November bought at the same prices, and October only 3⅜ cents over December at the last. Traders gave more attention to bearish considerations, which were plentiful, especially from abroad.

From the way the foreigners sent bearish news it created a belief that possibly they were working to get prices here down to buy fresh supplies on the break. A private Berlin cable said that American grain was salable only at great discount due to lack of storage room for arrivals.

The short interest has been cut down. There are a number of large operators who are bearish on wheat and corn on bulges.

Primary arrivals today were 2,448,000 bushels; week ago, 3,080,000; last year, 1,464,000. Shipments were 1,528,000 bushels; week ago, 3,039,000; last year, 573,000.

Shorts, led by the leading interest, were heavy buyers of corn. Eastern interests were also active on the short side, all being short. It was easier to trace the buying than the selling. All the sales of futures are based on "short" sales.

The close was ⅝ cent higher to ¼ cent lower, December leading the advance. Oats were unchanged to ¼ cent lower and rye was off 1⅛ cents for the day.

Corn receipts were 436,000 bushels; week ago, 547,000; last year, 593,000. Shipments, 582,000 bushels; week ago, 435,000; last year, 364,000.

Chicago.

TRADE SHOWS GAIN DESPITE ELECTION

Trade as a whole has made further headway this week, according to the summaries of business conditions issued today by the commercial reporting agencies.

"Even with the restraining effect of the near-by elections, business as a whole has made further headway. Despite a waiting attitude in many quarters, with the deferment of numerous commitments, the main trend has been toward moderate expansion and the rise of commodity prices has continued. The irregularity of the commercial movement is still marked and there is much conservatism, but new gains have come in some basic lines, and freight car loadings have recently been without precedent. Although some buyers of steel are holding off, owing to political factors, others have shown more disposition to place contracts, and purchases of pig iron in the West have been the largest in weeks. Similarly, transactions in domestic packer hides have increased, with about the heaviest sales of the year, and the revival in the leather and footwear trades has met with no check. Some corporation reports for the third quarter disclose decreased earnings, but these chiefly reflect the dullness of the midsummer months, the Fall season having brought improvement in most instances. The weather in different sections has not been conducive to the best results in retail distribution, yet it has favored the harvesting and marketing of the principal crops, and the strengthened financial position of the grain farmers is a constructive influence of large importance. With a sound basis for progress, the general business outlook, despite the present hesitation caused by political conditions, is promising."

Bradstreet's says:

"Warm weather still bears the chief responsibility for the generally rather slack tone of retail and jobbing trade, with chronic immediate need buying and political interest—there is little excitement—cited as additional causes for the leisurely purchasing noted by wholesalers and manufacturers. The same irregularity as between different markets and lines of trade previously noted still obtains, but proof that a fair, if not actually good, trade is going forward is found in the largest car loadings ever recorded, in the good gains recorded in bank clearings and debits over a year ago, in the reduced number of failures as compared with last year, in the record interior receipts and close-to-record week's exports of wheat and other grains, and the calling of an embargo on railway hauling of grain to the head of the lakes."

ESTIMATES ON CROP HOLD COTTON DOWN

Producers' Willingness to Offer More Contracts Retards Sales.

The fact that producers are willing to offer more cotton on an advance in prices and at the same time consumers find little inducement to hasten buying became more evident yesterday and prices declined about half a cent. Weather has proved so uniquely favorable throughout the entire month of October that private crop estimates are being increased. A New Orleans firm placed the yield in excess of 13,000,000, and an estimate of 12,304,000 by the American Cotton Association was accepted as evidence that the South has raised a large crop this year. Liquidation and hedging operations furnished so large a quantity of contracts that the market worked steadily lower from opening to the close. Final prices showed a loss of 43 to 53 points. The local stock of certificated cotton is now 165,000 bales. Sales at Southern markets aggregated 45,000 bales at an average decline of half a cent in quotations.

Considering the favorable outcome of the English election, the action of Liverpool was again disappointing to many operators. Instead of steadiness, prices lost ground, which brought foreign selling pressure on New York. In addition to the depressing course of foreign quotations, the December position in New Orleans failed to maintain its recent strength.

With in-sight figures showing a movement of 711,000 bales for the week, weight on the market increased. Another generally favorable weather map as well as a disposition to increase crop estimates influenced sentiment. Though the volume of scale buying orders for mill account grew steadily when December touched 23 cents until the downward movement was halted with May around 23½ cents, final prices were about the lowest of the session.

Insight figures showed 711,000 bales for the week, against 517,000 last year, making the total movement 5,278,000, against 4,864,000 a year ago. Spinners took 361,000, against 327,000 last year, bringing the total for the season to 2,823,000, against 2,943,000 last season. The visible supply increased 349,000 bales, against 190,000 last year, making the world's supply of American cotton 3,406,000, compared with 2,791,000 a year ago.

Slight Declines in Cotton, Corn and Lard—Other Cash Articles Firm.

CALL $72,903,800 BONDS IN NOVEMBER

DUE TO LOW INTEREST RATES

Corporations have called for the retirement in November of $72,903,800 of outstanding bonds in advance of maturity. This consists of $63,723,800 of bonds called for payment in their entirety and $9,180,000 called for payment in part. This total compares with $11,420,600 in November of last year and $21,840,000 in last October. Desire to take advantage of present low interest rates, resulting from an abundant supply of money, caused the sharp increase in calling of bonds. The issues called bear coupon rates running as high as 8 per cent., which could be refunded at substantially lower rates in the present market.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—The hog market was weak to 30 cents lower at the start, but firmed up later, with light weights leading due to the largest shipping orders since March, 18,000 being taken. Receipts were 40,000. The top was $9.80, and the day's average, $8.50. Lambs showed little change in price with a top of $13.75 for natives. Receipts were 9,000. The demand for cattle was very slow and many of plain quality were carried over without bids. Receipts were 6,000.

NEW FRENCH LOAN NOV. 12.

Five Per Cent. Treasury Bonds Will Yield Nearly 8½ Per Cent.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—Nov. 12 was fixed by the Cabinet today as the date of issue of the new series of 5 per cent. Treasury bonds by which Finance Minister Clémentel hopes to raise enough to repay advances made to the State by the Bank of France and tide over other necessary expenditure for reconstruction against the time when the budget and payments from Germany can carry some at least of France's huge debt charges.

This new loan is considered absolutely unavoidable despite the election promise of the Left parties that there would be no more borrowing. The bonds will be issued at par, each 100-franc bond being redeemable at 150 ten years hence. Withdrawal will be made by lot after the fifth year. Interest and premium will give a yield of nearly 8½ per cent., a price which is considered by financiers considerably too high.

The largest part of the subscription is expected to be made by the conversion of other bonds and the amount of new money obtained for settling with the Bank of France may therefore not be so large as is hoped. One of the results of the advance notice of the new bond issue has been that all Government securities have fallen this week to the lowest record in history. Three per cents fell below 50, a figure which has never been reached since the declaration of the Commune after the War of 1870.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—J. P. Morgan called on Finance Minister Clémentel today to say farewell before leaving for London tomorrow. No development with regard to the projected French loan in America is expected for three or four weeks.

Pays 100th Quarterly Dividend.

PENNSYLVANIA WOODS BARRED TO HUNTERS

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 31.—Governor Pinchot today issued a proclamation closing the State to hunting until sunrise, Nov. 6, because of the danger of forest fires.

The proclamation provided that in case of sufficient rain in any areas as to make them safe from fire, the proclamation shall cease to be effective in those areas.

RIDGEWAY, Pa., Oct. 31.—A prayer for rain was offered tonight by residents of Marienville, Elk County, as a result of forest fires that have been burning in that section.

One fire was reported today to have burned twenty acres of timber near the head of Wagner Run. Trains on the private railroads of the Wheeler and Dusenberry and the Central Pennsylvania lumber companies have been forced to cease operation.

ALBANY, Oct. 31.—Generally improved forest fire conditions in the various sections of the State where serious fire hazards exist were reported to the Conservation Commission by district rangers today. Six new fires were reported but all had been brought under control.

Game wardens, fire rangers, State troopers and motor vehicle inspectors today were busy carrying the news of the proclamation issued yesterday prohibiting hunting and camping to sportsmen far back in the woods. The order was placed in effect because of the extreme danger to the forest preserves caused by the long drought, falling leaves and careless hunters, and will remain in force until revoked by Executive order.

Conservation Commission officials reported that hunters and campers were cooperating with their representatives in the enforcement of the new ruling.

DETROIT, Oct. 31.—Forest and brush fires were reported in four sections of Michigan today, one of them believed to be the largest so far this season. At Mesick, Mich., in the northwest part of the State, 200 men under the direction of Edward B. Thallman, Deputy State Fire Marshal, were fighting a blaze that had destroyed many acres of second growth timber. A number of farms were in the path of the flames and furrowing and back-firing had been resorted to in an effort to save them.

Mr. Sahlein had real estate valued at $1,311,000, cash amounting to $313,034 and securities appraised at $306,206. His Consolidated Exchange seat was valued at $800.

CALLES RECEIVES HONORS OF CAPITAL

GOOD RELATIONS STRESSED

Mexico Will Not Yield to Britain, General Says, and "Will Discuss Its Own Questions."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The relations of Mexico with both Great Britain and the United States were discussed by Plutarco Elias Calles, President-elect of Mexico, at a conference with newspaper correspondents late today after he had come to Washington from New York for a visit of several days.

Received at Union Station upon his arrival by representatives of the State Department and the Mexican Embassy, the President-elect called upon Secretary Hughes and then President Coolidge at the White House. He was the guest at an official dinner tendered by Secretary Hughes at the Pan American Union tonight, and will be the guest of President Coolidge at luncheon tomorrow.

Discussing conditions in reply to questions by newspaper correspondents, General Calles declared that there exists no enmity between the people of Great Britain and Mexico, and asserted that what unpleasantness has occurred is due to the "dishonesty, falsehood and misrepresentation of one of Great Britain's representatives in Mexico." The President-elect added that by this he did not refer to H. C. Cummins, the British Chargé des Archives, whose expulsion from Mexico caused the interruption of diplomatic relations between the two countries.

The Cummins case, he said, was a closed one, as Mexico would never yield to Great Britain on it. The interruption of commercial relations with England, in his opinion, he declared, was a question of greater interest to Great Britain than to Mexico.

General Calles said he had not come to any conclusion as to whether a Conservative government in England would be more or less favorable to resuming relations with his country than a Labor one.

Relations of Mexico with the United States, the President-elect said, were "excellent, most frank and cordial." The interchange of activities between the two countries, he added, was ever increasing, due to "a growing cordiality, understanding and friendship."

Asked whether application of the Monroe Doctrine might affect the Mexican-British tangle, he replied that "Mexico is a sovereign country and will discuss its own questions." At the same time he declared himself in favor of a Pan-American policy as of great advantage to all countries concerned.

Outlining his future policy as President of Mexico, General Calles said he would strive above all for greater education among all classes of Mexicans as well as the general economic betterment of the people of Mexico.

In calling upon the Secretary of State, General Calles was accompanied by Manuel C. Tellez, Chargé d'Affairs of the Mexican Embassy, and J. Butler Wright, Third Assistant Secretary of State. Secretary Hughes also accompanied him on his visit to the President. Both the call at the State Department and that at the White House were brief, being limited to an exchange of courtesies.

It was said later at the White House that President Coolidge feels the internal conditions of Mexico and that country's relations with the United States are better than for many years, and that as a result America may well regard recent developments in the relations between the two countries with much satisfaction.

Speaking of his impressions of Washington and his formal calls, General Calles at his newspaper conference late in the day referred to President Coolidge as an "impartial, honest, honorable straightforward man." Secretary Hughes, he added, had impressed him as "straight, honest, frank and inspired by a great sense of justice."

General Calles was received upon his arrival from New York in full state, being met at the station by J. Butler Wright of the State Department, Rear Admiral W. R. Shoemaker, representing the navy; Brig. Gen. S. D. Rockenback representing the army, besides officials of the Mexican Embassy and a delegation from the American Federation of Labor.

A cavalry troop and the army band had been also assigned for his reception. As the General stepped off the platform the whole party stood at attention while the band played the Mexican national anthem. General Calles quickly stepped into his motor car and, followed by the cavalry troop, drove to the Mexican Embassy, where he will reside during his stay in Washington.

The official dinner, tendered by Secretary Hughes tonight, was attended by members of the Cabinet and other Government officials, as well as by Ambassador Jusserand of France, dean of the Diplomatic Corps, and the heads of the Latin-American missions in Washington.

General Calles came to Washington en route to Mexico from Europe, and will leave here Monday for New Orleans.

FAIR DEMAND FOR WOOL.

Western Business Has Improved During the Week.

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say of the wool market:

"The demand for wool has been of very fair proportions during the week and prices show a strengthening tendency in this market, although actual quotations can hardly be advanced very much on most descriptions, and where advances have been made they have been offset, in a measure, by the granting of Jan. 1 dating. Some scoured descriptions, however, are dearer. The clothing and manufacturing situation is not greatly changed, except for a further slight advance on goods.

In the West, contracting has become more general, with prices generally from 45 to 46 cents for the best wools in Wyoming and Montana and 42@43 cents in Utah, while 50 cents and better has been paid in Texas for twelve months' wool. Up to 53 cents was paid for twelve months' wool in San Angelo this week.

"The foreign primary markets are slowly hardening. Yorkshire is feeling more confident consequent upon the English election results."

British Stocks Reduced—Imports Barely Half Last Week's.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 31.—Weekly cotton statistics: British stocks 383,000 bales, against 390,000 last week, 358,000 two weeks ago and 386,000 this week last year; of which American, 200,000 bales, against 200,000 last week, 160,000 two weeks ago and 166,000 a year ago. Imports, 61,000 bales, against 112,000 last week; of which American, 46,000, against 83,000.

Forwarded, 73,000 bales, against 67,000; of which American, 45,000, against 42,000. Exports, 5,000, against 3,000; of which American 1,000, against none last week. Sales, 30,000, against 28,000; of which American, 16,000, against 15,000.

To Grow Cotton in Ethiopia.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 31.—A corporation capitalized at 500,000 francs has been founded with the object of encouraging the growing of cotton in Ethiopia. The first experiments are already under way and if the hopes they give are justified, a company with a capital of 6,000,000 francs will be formed to extend the acreage.

WEST SIDE HOUSE IN $1,050,000 DEAL

PURCHASED BY INVESTORS

New Company Buys Tall Structure in West Seventy-ninth Street, Held at $1,150,000.

The fifteen-story apartment house recently completed at 522 West End Avenue, adjoining the northeast corner of Eighty-fifth Street, was sold yesterday by the 522 West End Avenue Corporation, representing Anthony and Armino Campagna and Joseph and John Paterno, builders. The building was held by the sellers at $1,050,000 and was sold through Sharp, Nassoit & Lanning, as brokers.

The structure occupies a plot 75 by 100 feet and is exceptionally well located, enjoying unusual permanent light. There are four apartments on each floor, consisting of three, four and six room suites, accommodating sixty families, and only eight apartments remain to be rented.

It has an annual rent roll of approximately $150,000 and was sold to a group who have purchased it as an investment. The legal representatives of the purchaser were Woodward, Dennish & Buhler, and Stoddard & Mark represented the seller.

Another tall apartment house on the West Side changed hands yesterday when Abraham Crosney, through the newly organized 171 West Seventy-ninth Street Company, having as directors R. Forman and A. Gold, purchased the Marboro, a fifteen-story building, on a plot 83 by 102 feet, at 165 to 173 West Seventy-ninth Street.

The building, which is between Amsterdam and Columbus Avenues, rents for $156,000 annually and was held at $1,150,000.

Max N. Natanson resold to A. F. E. W. Realty Corporation, Bernard J. Goldstein, President, the northwest corner of Seventh Avenue and Fifty-fourth Street, a six-story elevator apartment house, on plot fronting 50 feet on the avenue and 100 feet on the street. On the ground floor there are four stores.

Mr. Natanson purchased the property only a few days ago from 201 West Fifty-fourth Street Corporation, Joseph L. Graf, President, by which corporation the building was erected about six years ago. The property returns an annual rent of about $60,000. It was held at $175,000 and was sold for all cash over a first mortgage for $355,000, having ten years to run. The sale was made direct, no broker being concerned in the transaction.

Irving Bachrach and Ira Rosenstock sold to Max Lipkin the northeast corner of Third Avenue and 116th Street, a five-story apartment building with four stores, rented at $13,500, and held at $100,000. M. Theodore was the broker in the transaction. The same broker sold this property to the present sellers a year ago.

The five-story four-family tenement, with stores at 256 East 125th Street, has been sold by Mrs. Rachael Kempner to a client of R. Telfair Smith, Inc. This property has not changed hands for over forty years. A resale of the property is pending.

George Kean, operator, purchased the six-story and basement tenement known as 113 East 123d Street, on lot 25x100.11 feet, showing a rent roll of $6,700. This property was held at $49,000. Considerable improvements are planned to be made in the apartments by Mr. Kean.

On the west side, the Haggstrom-Callen Company sold for Julia W. Porges the five-story apartment building at 159 West Sixty-third Street. This is the first sale of the property in twenty years. It has been purchased by David and Harry Lippmann.

The west side of Manhattan Avenue, between 117th and 118th Streets, has been sold by the Drabick Realty Corporation to the Montoya Realty Corporation. The property consists of three five-story flats, with stores, 411-421 Manhattan Avenue and fronts 201.10 feet in the avenue and 50 feet in each of the streets. It was sold subject to mortgages of $185,000.

The Montoya Realty Corporation sold to the Drabick Realty Corporation the apartments in the southeast side of Wadsworth Terrace, 647.5 feet northeast of 190th Street, 112.6 by 84.7 by irregular, subject to $170,000 in mortgages.

The Nilton Realty Corporation sold the four-story tenement, 130 Greenwich Street, 25.6 by 90, about 50.6 feet south of Cedar Street, to James H. Cruikshank, who resold the property to Robert J. Leik.

ASTORIA PROJECT PLANNED.

Stores and Apartments to Occupy Broadway Block Front.

Plans for another big Astoria improvement are being prepared for Richard P. Weber, who has purchased the block front on the north side of Broadway, from First to Second Avenues, in the Astoria section of Long Island City. Buildings to be occupied as offices, stores and apartments will be erected on this property. The seller was William H. Diebrecht. The broker in this transaction was Minor L. Platt.

Brooklyn Lessees to Build.

The New York Rapid Transit Corporation and the Coney Island & Brooklyn Terminal Company have leased to the Petrol Service Stations, Inc., a parcel of land of approximately 52,000 square feet situated on Ocean Avenue corner Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, for a term of twenty-one years. The Petrol Service Stations, Inc., will improve this plot with a service station and a large taxpayers. Im Service Corporation were the brokers.

Jewish Society in New Quarters.

Possession of new headquarters for the Committee for the Care of the Jewish Tuberculous, which is supported by the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies, was taken yesterday at 251-255 Fourth Avenue. The removal of the offices from the United Hebrew Charities Building at 356 Second Avenue was made necessary by the sale of that building to the Post Graduate Hospital.

Cooperative for Dyckman Section.

An eight-story cooperative apartment will be erected in the Dyckman section by the Hudson Builders Corporation, headed by Joseph Drucker, who have purchased from the C. A. M. Realty Corporation the plot 300 by 150 feet on the north side of Vermilyea Avenue, beginning 100 feet west of 207th Street.

To Alter Fifty-ninth St. Building.

Herbert Hecht Company, Inc., and Ashforth & Co. have sold for the Bernroy Corporation the property 47-49-51 East Fifty-ninth Street to L. Kaminor, represented by E. Hart.

The property consists of a five-story elevator building on a plot 50 by 100 feet and rents for about $34,000 per annum. Extensive alterations are contemplated at the expiration of present leases.

GRAND JURY REFUSES TO INDICT FIRPO

Charges of Canon Chase Fail—Cost of Deportation Proceedings $10,000.

The Federal Grand Jury refused yesterday to indict Luis Angel Firpo, the prizefighter, on charges made by Canon William Sheafe Chase, head of the New York Civic League, that Firpo had committed perjury in having sworn that Blanca Lourdes Picart was only a casual acquaintance, and that he was not responsible for her presence here in 1923. Mr. Chase testified before the jury on Thursday, and Firpo, after waiving immunity, testified yesterday. Between these two witnesses were several others who had given testimony at various times before Immigration Commissioner Curran and United States Commissioner Hitchcock.

When Commissioner Curran was told of the action of the jury he exclaimed, "Exit the publicity parson." The Ellis Island officials estimated that the cost to the public of Canon Chase's efforts to have Firpo deported was about $10,000. Canon Chase said last night that he had sent a telegram to the Acting Secretary of Labor complaining that witnesses before the Grand Jury had been intimidated, and asking permission to submit additional evidence before the deportation proceedings against Firpo, now pending in Washington, were settled.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The Department of Labor will begin consideration of charges against Luis Angel Firpo when it is advised officially that those against him before a New York Grand Jury have been dropped, W. W. Husband, Commissioner General of Immigration, said today.

LIQUOR SHIP CREW SURRENDER VESSEL

LURED ABOARD, THEY SAY

Told Craft Carried Brick — Coast Guard Cutter Seizes Twenty Barrels of Brandy.

The British schooner Dorothy M. Smart was towed into port yesterday by the Coast Guard cutter Gresham, which seized the schooner with her cargo of twenty barrels of brandy, valued at $36,000.

A distress signal made of scraps of blanket and a fragment of white handkerchief flying from one of the masts of the schooner was sighted on Thursday morning about 30 miles off Long Island by Captain Benjamin L. Brockway, commander of the Gresham. The schooner was without anchorage, he said, and was tossed about by heavy seas.

Captain Brockaway hailed the ship when the cutter drew alongside. One of the seamen told him that they wished to be put ashore to make a complaint against their captain, Michael Gillan, Canadian master of the schooner. The seaman and his companions accused the master of the schooner of detaining them aboard the Dorothy M. Smart against their will for the past twenty days. The seaman said he and his comrades had been without sufficient food or water for many days and that they were half starved.

The complaining seamen were informed by the commander of the cutter that they were so far out the schooner was beyond the point where her seizure was possible. He promised that if the schooner came within the three-mile territorial limit he would detain the schooner and captain for an investigation. The four seamen then took charge of the ship and sailed her right in the wake of the cutter until they were within the three-mile limit.

The members of the Coast Guard boarded the Dorothy M. Smart and after questioning Captain Gillan took possession of the schooner and her cargo. The captain's smallarms were confiscated and he and the four seamen were transferred to the Gresham, where they ate ravenously.

Captain Brockaway said the seamen told him they were hired on Oct. 8 to go aboard a brick-laden schooner thirty miles off shore. They said when they discovered they were on a liquor ship they refused to hoist a sail. They believed it was the plan of their captain to starve them into submission.

The four men described themselves as Louis Cocinni, mate, 25 South Street; Henry A. Gillis, seaman, 41 Gordon Street, Perth Amboy, N. J.; Carl Jaeger, seaman, 1½ Lewis Street, Boston, Mass., and Albert Edward Burgomaster, cook, 66 West Eighty-third Street.

The seamen said they ran short of food a week ago. Several days ago their anchor cable parted and they were set adrift.

Captain Brockaway further said that Captain Gillan had told him he took charge of the schooner on Sept. 27. According to Gillan, he went from home, Channel, N. F., to "Rum Row," where he boarded the schooner, then apparently deserted. The Dorothy M. Smart hails from Newfoundland.

According to Captain Brockaway, the liquor fleet is now anchored about thirty miles off the shore of Long Island. It now consists of only seven ships, compared with seventeen a week ago.

POLICE PROMOTION UPSET.

Appellate Division Rules Against Enright in Grosback Case.

The appointment by Police Commissioner Enright of Acting Captain Philip Grosback to be a Captain although he was not on the eligible list for promotion was invalidated yesterday by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, which granted an injunction sued for by Mrs. Ellen Shaw Barlow, Vice President of the Civil Service Reform Association, as a taxpayer. The lower court had denied the injunction.

The suit was opposed by Commissioner Enright and the City Administration on the ground that Grosback was "the best-fitted man to hold the position of Captain in the matter of traffic regulation." He had been appointed by Theodore Roosevelt, promoted by Commissioner Bingham and made an Acting Captain under Commissioner Woods, but his name was sixty-fifth on the eligible list for Captain when it expired. Justice Martin in the Appellate Division opinion said:

"One whose efforts secure for him a position upon a list for promotion in a municipal department is entitled to consideration and protection in such position. It is wholly unfair to endeavor, by special legislation, to prefer another who may have unsuccessfully attempted to secure the appointment through the ordinary and approved tests required by the Civil Service law and rules, enacted to require compliance with the provisions of the Constitution."

The injured are Mrs. Matilda Klein, also of 43 Waterview Road, who is in the Rockville Centre Sanitarium with a fractured skull, internal injuries and broken legs; Helen Kingsley of 43 Waterville Road, fracturel skull and internal injuries.

The accident happened early this morning. The train, an electric string of six car was driven by Edward Smith. It had left Long Beach shortly before 1 o'clcok and was on the way to Manhattan when the first car struck the automobile, at the crossing and tossed it more than eighty feet. The train swerved from the track, tearing up more than fifty feet of the third rail.

Taxicabs brought the victims to the Rockville Centre Sanitarium. Only Mrs. Klein and Miss Kingsley were alive upon arrival there.

Three Other Victims of Auto Mishaps.

A boy was killed and five of his companions hurt last evening when the motor truck in which they were riding at Mott and Grand Streets was rammed by a surface car. Angelo Disarno, 16 years old, of 145 Thompson Street, was thrown out of the vehicle and killed when he landed on his head. Pulitz, the motorman, was arrested. According to the police, he said his brake failed to hold.

Mrs. Esther Lebrascu, 72 years old, of Freedom Hills, N. J., received injuries from which she died shortly after in Harlem Hospital when she was run over by an automobile in the morning at Fifth Avenue and 115th Street. Witnesses told the police that she stepped from behind one car into the path of an automobile driven by Miss Hazel Canning, 37 years old, of 144 Twenty-first Street, Jackson Heights, Elmhurst, and in which also were Miss Helen Young of the same address and Miss Madge Atkins of 130 Twenty-first Street, Jackson Heights. Miss Canning later pleaded not guilty and was released in $1,500 bail by Magistrate H. Stanley Renaud in the Homicide Court for examination on Nov. 10.

Carl Schmidt, 60 years old, of 314 East Eighty-first Street, when returning to his home at 1 A. M. yesterday, was knocked down and killed at First Avenue and Eighty-fifth Street by an automobile, the driver of which put on more speed and fled. The accident was witnessed by Miss Viola Kones and Miss Mildred Eldridge, both of 424 East Seventy-seventh Street, who said that the automobile was a sedan and the driver didn't even stop to learn the extent of the victim's injuries.

Mrs. James King of Keyport, N. J., was probably fatally injured early yesterday and her son, Stanley, 16 years old, received cuts and bruises when the automobile in which they were riding skidded and went through the rail of the Maple Place Bridge in Perth Amboy, landing bottom up twenty-five feet below. Firemen were called to lift the car.

ARRESTS R. B. DULA JR., VISITING SICK FATHER

Robert Byron Dula Jr., son of Robert Byron Dula, a director in the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company, was arrested yesterday and taken to the Sheriff's office on a civil order issued by Supreme Court Justice Donohue. His wife, Mrs. Elsie H. Dula, petitioned the court for the arrest in a separation suit based on alleged abandonment, explaining that her husband had been without the jurisdiction of the State for some time and that after a short visit at the home of his parents he would leave it again. Mr. Dula was arrested at his father's home at 1,000 Park Avenue, where he had been called because of his father's illness. He was released from custody.

Mrs. Dula charged in a suit for $250,000 damages filed three months ago that the tobacco director and his wife had alienated the affections of her husband. She alleged that their married life was a happy one before the elder Dulas induced him to abandon her.

Mrs. Dula, who was the daughter of Charles J. Hinman of Brooklyn, complains she is without resources and dependent upon friends for support.

The arrest was applied for on the ground that if alimony should be awarded to Mrs. Dula the court might not be able to enforce its order because of Dula's absence from the State unless a bond were given.

MRS. CLAYBURGH LOSES.

Supreme Court Dismisses Suit to Recover $81,000 of Property.

Supreme Court Justice Tierney dismissed the case of Mrs. Albert Clayburgh, former opera singer, yesterday, in which she sued her husband to recover $81,0000 worth of personal property stored in their country place at Mount Kisco, N. Y. The case had been on trial for more than a week. Mrs. Clayburgh testified that she had left many of her valuables at the Mount Kisco home when she and Mr. Clayburgh separated several years ago. An agreement between them made it necessary to obtain his written consent before removing them. Max Steuer, Mr. Clayburgh's counsel, moved to dismiss the complaint at the close of the trial on the ground that there was no time limit in the agreement whereby he might be forced to give his consent.

LOUIS STERN ESTATE WIPED OUT BY DEBT

Louis Stern, President of Stern Bros., who died June 21, 1922, in Paris, left property valued at $1,294,019, but his estate was insolvent by $379,731, according to an appraisal filed yesterday. The deficit was due to debts of $1,603,071 and other deductions, making a total of $1,673,750. Among the debts were $144,250 due his daughter, Baroness Irma de Graffenried, under a marriage settlement made Dec. 9, 1909, and $48,038 due her husband, Baron Leo de Graffenried.

Because of the deficit the de Graffenrieds and Mr. Stern's son, Melville, who was named an executor, received nothing under the will. The appraisal discloses that in 1919 Mr. Stern transferred to his daughter, Beatrice, the property at 3-5 West Eighteenth Street, worth $88,866, while the realty at 7-9 West Eighteenth Street, worth $70,866, went to his grandson, Louis Stern 2d, on the same terms. These items were held to be taxable. The three children of the Baroness de Graffenried, who live at Landshut, Switzerland, also received nothing.

The Stern estate included real estate in which Mr. Stern had an equity of $1,179,763, and included 48-52 West Fourth Street, 32 West Twenty-third Street, 22 West Twenty-third Street and 11-19 West Nineteenth Street and 10-16 West Twentieth Street. The latter parcel has a total value of $1,200,500, and the West Fourth Street property is appraised at $1,853,500. Mr. Stern had $7,338 in cash, $13,083 in personalty and $93,634 in securities. His stock in Stern Bros. consisted of 1,800 shares of common stock appraised at $63,450 on the basis of the sale of 1,000 shares of the stock at auction in December, 1922, for $35,250.

The debts of Mr. Stern included $135,427 due Benjamin Stern, new President of Stern Bros., on notes, and $938,447 to the estate of Isaac Stern for loans. He had pledged life insurance, of which, his daughter, Beatrice L. Stern, was beneficiary, for loans and after the premium had been collected there was a balance of $189,739 due her. Baroness de Graffenried waives a claim of $33,847 as the value of property which her father transferred to her by bill of sale, and later sold.

Mr. Stern was one of the veteran drygoods merchants of New York, and with the aid of his brother, Isaac, built up the business of Stern Bros. from a small store in Sixth Avenue. He was Chairman of the New York Commission to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, President of the Hebrew Orphan Asylum and member of many public organizations.

The exhibition is to start in December on a traveling circuit, going first to Cleveland, Rochester, Grand Rapids and Worcester.

Assessment on Long Island Railroad for Street Opening Reversed.

The Appellate Division decided yesterday that the Long Island Railroad cannot be taxed by the City of New York for a street-opening from which the railroad received no benefit and reversed an assessment which had been upheld in the lower court.

The question arose over an agreement between the city and the railroad for the opening of Archer Avenue from Sutphin Boulevard to New York Boulevard in Queens and the reconstruction of a bridge over Queens Boulevard, for which they were to bear the expenses equally. The railroad objected when the city assessed the road $1,544 as the entire cost of the street opening. The court ruled that the city could not compel the railroad to pay more than was provided in the agreement.
